Bachelor Ranchman Takes Up Crusade to Stop Tobacco Habit

Neal Bartelsen, formerly rancher at Napier, Neb., has forsaken his ranch to go forth and battle with the anti-tobacco forces of the country. He is in Omaha speaking to Sunday schools and preparing a lecture, which, he says, he intends to deliver at chautauques this season.

"I'm a bachelor," said Bartelsen, "and became convinced that what the schools need worse than anything else is a good lecturer to explain the tobacco habit, its physical effects, etc., and preach a doctrine of health."

The ranch on which Bartelsen lived, doing his own cooking and housekeeping for ten years, has been turned over to neighbors, his horses and fine collie dogs farmed out pending the success of his anti-tobacco campaign.

F. H. Rothe Re-enlists in Navy Immediately on Fifth Discharge

Frank H. Rothe, who entered the United States navy nearly thirty years ago and who was discharged at the recruiting station here, at once re-enlisted for another period of four years. He now ranks as chief electrician and upon re-enlistment will receive $120 a month. He started in the navy as an apprentice, receiving $9 per month and out of this salary was obliged to buy his uniform.

F. H. Rothe has been stationed here for the last two years at the recruiting station and a farewell dinner was given in his honor at the Schlitz hotel last night by the men assigned to the recruiting party here. Following a month's leave of absence, which he will spend at Philadelphia, Mr. Rothe will report at once for active duty, this being his sixth period of enlistment.

Judge Page Morris Has Tough Luck

Judge Page Morris, who is here this week hearing arguments of motions in several cases in the United States district court, is disappointed in Omaha. Heralded as an ideal winter resort where golf is a favorite pastime the year round, he came here from Duluth, and at once the weather man produced a snow which will make his favorite sport of swatting the pill an impossibility. Then, too, Judge Morris is fond of music, and the inconsiderate Canadian Grand Opera company exploded in Denver and cancelled the Omaha engagement, so the Judge is without amusement in Omaha, save the pleasure he derives from each meeting a host of friends.

RYAN AND MICKO HAVE BIG FIGHT OVER NATIONALITIES

Pat Ryan and Joe Micko, laborers, were arrested by Officer A. C. Anderson at Thirtieth and Douglas streets Thursday night. They were apprehended while intoxicated and fighting over the nationality of Micko. The latter asserted he was Irish and Ryan announced that he was a tin by the clock; that he had ever had an "o" on the end of his marker. Judge Foster decided that both were full of "Scotch" and sentenced them to fifteen days in jail.

SEVERAL ORIGINAL STORIES IN FEBRUARY "COMMERCE"

The February number of "Commerce," the school paper of the High School of Commerce, contains cuts of all the February graduates, together with the senior "writings," and several interesting articles, such as "Story of the Olive," "Early Days of the Typewriter," "Fidelity," "Touch Operation" and others. Nearly all the material in the paper is original and goes to make up an especially pleasing mid-term annual.

TOO MANY CHILDREN

are pale and frail—backward in studies—with pinched faces and poor blood—their minds and bodies are actually starved because their regular food does not nourish.

Such children need Scott's Emulsion above everything else; it contains nature's rarest life-giving fats; it is essentially food value—blood-food and bone-food, free from wine, alcohol or harmful drug.

Scott's Emulsion often builds many times its weight in solid flesh—its medicinal, tonic and nutritive properties make all good food do good.

BRINGS BACK MEMORIES

Cadet Taylor Finds Mrs. John A. Logan's Book Interesting.

TELLS OF THE FIRST MEMORIAL

Writer Gives History of the Original Decoration Day and the Order that Made the Holiday Permanent.

Cadet Taylor, formerly of Illinois and a lifelong personal friend of General and Mrs. John A. Logan, says:

"I have just finished reading 'Reminiscences of a Soldier's Wife,' written by Mrs. General John A. Logan and published by Scribner's. It is intensely interesting, covering a long period of time from the Mexican war almost up to date. The stirring events of the civil war, in which General Logan was one of the most gallant soldiers, and an officer of distinguished merit, are tersely described by Mrs. Logan, who had a wonderful personal experience in southern Illinois, in camp and in field in the south.

Much that is New.

"There are many interesting historical features given for the first time. Those of us who passed through the trying days of the civil war (so near it as to appreciate General Sherman's definition), follow the writer's reminiscences with genuine interest. It was my pleasure to have been a close personal friend of General Logan for more than a generation, and as such I know that the beautiful compliments paid him by his distinguished wife were well deserved. The volunteer soldier never had a better friend than General Logan. His name is made in history, and in high on the roll, not only as a soldier, but as an honest, incorruptible statesman.

"There has always been more or less dispute as to who established the Grand Army of the Republic and Decoration Day, but Mrs. Logan in her book gives the exact facts. The first suggestion of the Grand Army of the Republic came from Rev. W. J. Ruffedge, chaplain of the Fourteenth Illinois infantry, made to Major B. F. Stevenson, the surgeon of the regiment. The latter called a conference of a few officers at Springfield, Ill., in March, 1862, at which time the ritual as prepared by Major Stevenson was adopted.

The First Memorial Day.

"In 1863 General Logan was commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. In March he and Mrs. Logan, with some Chicago friends, were to visit the battlefield in the vicinity of Richmond, General Logan was obliged to give up the trip, but Mrs. Logan made it on her return she told the general of the small bleached Confederate flags and faded flowers and wreaths that had been laid upon the graves by loving hands on the occasion of their Decoration day. The general was so touched by the revival of this beautiful custom of the ancients, in preserving the memory of their dead, that he issued order No. 11, Grand Army of the Republic, dated May 5, 1868, establishing Memorial day on May 30, which has ever since been observed by the old soldiers and people generally.

"So the American people are indebted to the suggestion of a splendid woman, and the official act of a gallant soldier as ever drew a sword, for the establishment of Memorial day.

Still Lives in Washington.

"Mrs. Logan is still residing in Washington, where I had the pleasure of taking lunch with her in her home about three years ago. When the historian of the future writes of the prominent women from 1858 to 1914, the name of Mary S. Logan will head the list in the world of accomplishments.

"Her most interesting and valuable book should be found in every private library."

GEORGE A. BROOKS ADMITS INCOME TO ROSS HAMMOND

George A. Brooks of Braintree Mills, well known in political circles throughout the state, called at the office of Ross L. Hammond this morning and entered a plea of guilty to having an income of more than $3,000 a year, in spite of the democratic administration.

"I guess that I'll have to get busy and spend a little more money. That seems to be the only way to get past this income tax law without dividing up with the government," said Mr. Brooks.

IDAHO MEN NOW FIND GRAIN RAISING PROFITABLE

W. Scott Anderson of Boise, one of the most extensive wool growers of Idaho, is in the city with a train of fifteen cars of sheep.

Mr. Anderson is looking forward to one of the best years Idaho has ever experienced. There has been an unusually heavy fall of snow in the mountains, and this, he says, means an abundance of water for irrigation. All through Idaho, Mr. Anderson says, farmers and land owners are coming to feel that grain and alfalfa are the crops to raise, and the ones that are going to make them rich. They have tried fruit, and while it is by no means a failure, freight rates and the overhead charges are so high that little profit, if any, is left for the grower. As a result now more attention is being paid to cropping the new land than planting it to orchards.

STRAWBERRIES ON MARKET

Luscious Fruit from South Sells at Forty-Five Cents a Quart.

BUTTER GOES UP FOUR CENTS

Eggs Remain at the Same Price and Cheese Follows Butter—Double the Amount of Lemons Are Being Sold.

The foreign butter was cleared from the market last week, and as a result the price on butter was instantly snapped upward by the commission men. The Edin board quotation went up 2 1/2 cents, so the Omaha price jumped 4 cents. Butter is now selling for 22 cents, while last week it sold for 18 cents. Eggs have remained at the same price, fresh eggs costing 23 cents. Cheese is sky-high along with butter. The cheapest of the old cheese on the market demands 15 cents, while Young American and New York white demands 22 cents.

Fruit are coming in from the south. Pineapples are coming in fast and sell at 15 and 20 cents apiece. Strawberries are also in. The luscious red berries are selling for 45 cents a quart. Grapefruit sells for 3 1/2 and 10 cents, while oranges are still quoted at 10 to 20 cents a dozen. Lemons jumped up 25 cents a box on the wholesale price, although the retail price still runs from 20 to 25 cents a dozen. The consumption of lemons this winter has been about double the normal consumption. Apples are almost entirely off the market.

Beef cuts jumped 1 cent a pound during the last week and bacon and ham jumped half a cent. The other meats remained about the same.

Al King, manager of Hayden's grocery department, anticipates that the price of butter will not jump much higher nor stay high very long. He predicts that the storage butter, which played such havoc among the storage men this winter, will hold the prices down.

HUMMEL REPORTS ON PARKS

Park Commissioner Gives Distribution of Funds for Last Year.

LOOKING OVER THE ACCOUNTS

City Dads Investigating Figures Submitted with Special Reference to Levi Carter Park Expenditures.

Park Commissioner Hummel, reporting expenditures in the park department for the year 1913, told the city commission that $36,000 had been about equally distributed among the several parks.

According to the commissioner's report some of the expenditures were as follows: Hancock, $7,552.57; Riverview, $4,842.75; Miller, $3,786.45; Bernia, $1,922.12; Levi Carter, $14,007.00; Fontenelle, $1,922.00; Kountze, $36.50; Curtis Turner, $29.25; Jefferson square, $31.28; Elmwood, $23.18. The pay roll running with this expenditure was $85.

City commissioners are investigating

Commissioner Hummel's accounts, with special reference to donations and particularly in regard to expenditures at Levi Carter park.

At Levi Carter park, where the largest expenditure was made, complaint came that improvements were not in proportion to what it was understood had been expended. A preliminary investigation disclosed the fact that donations intended to have been received for expenditures at this park, in consideration that the city spent a certain sum there, had not yet been received.

Commissioner Hummel said there was some contract or promise that E. J. Conish would duplicate any sum spent by the city at Levi Carter park, but that this money, if it had been expended, had not passed through the park commissioner's hands.
