

CITIES TO BE TREATED ALIKE

Treasurer Burke Advises Regional Banks Will Be Well Located.

HERE TO ATTEND A BANQUET

Visitor is to Be Honor Guest at the Creighton Founders' Day Festivities, Which Will Be Given This Evening.

"One thing Omaha and the rest of the cities can be sure of, said John Burke, treasurer of the United States, at his room in the hotel in Omaha, "and that is that Secretaries McAdoo and Huston will be absolutely fair in the selection of the locations for the regional reserve banks. These men have given the cities a fair chance to present their claims and the merits of each case will be given due consideration in the selection of the locations."

Mr. Burke said that while North Dakota, his native state, was not looking for a regional bank, one might think he would not be called upon to work for any location. "As a matter of fact," he said, "we of North and South Dakota and Montana are very much interested in getting a regional bank at one of the Twin Cities, either St. Paul or Minneapolis. All our territory is tributary to those cities."

"Of course I have absolutely nothing to do with locating the banks and have absolutely no information in regard to the possible location of any one of them. Even if I had it would not be policy for me to talk about it—but, I give you my word, I have no information on the subject."

Mr. Burke is in Omaha to attend the Creighton University Founders' day banquet this evening. He addressed the Commercial club at noon today at the public affairs luncheon on the income tax and the currency law. He says the income tax law will make no more employees necessary in his department, as the money will all be collected by the internal revenue department and turned over to him. He is the custodian of Uncle Sam's money. He says the money collected from the income tax will not stay with him long, as under the new currency law, it will flow out to the regional reserve banks quite readily.

Stops Money Stringency. "Under the new currency law there can be no great stringency, neither can there be undue inflation," said United States Treasurer Burke, speaking to a crowded house in the Commercial club dining room at noon. "For the board can issue new currency in case of a threatened stringency, or it can call in the issue when there is danger of inflation."

Mr. Burke spoke of the great confidence the bankers of the country have expressed in the currency bill now that it has become a law. He said the confidence expressed by the bankers throughout the United States would tend to give the people confidence, and that is a most vital point. He also praised the spirit of the American people, who have shown, he said, "that they dare rise above partisan politics and co-operate with the new administration for a great and prosperous term."

Council Bluffs Man is to Be Sent Back to Denmark

N. P. Jorgensen, a Dane living in Council Bluffs, is to be deported, in spite of the fact that he has been in the United States for nearly thirty years. Jorgensen was arrested Friday night by Inspector Whitfield of the immigration bureau, on the charge of conducting a disreputable house in Council Bluffs. Jorgensen was managing the Midland hotel there, and formerly conducted the Arcade hotel, also in Council Bluffs. During his years of residence in the United States, Jorgensen had not taken out naturalization papers, and as a result of his wrong doing, he will be deported, in spite of his long residence in the United States.

CITY MAY WITHDRAW MONEY

Butler Prepares Resolution Asking More Interest on Funds. GETTING TWO PER CENT NOW Local Banks Paying Less for Omaha Balances by One and a Half Per Cent Than They Are on State Deposits.

Nearly $1,000,000 of city money, now drawing 2 per cent interest in local banks, will be withdrawn from these banks unless 3 per cent interest is paid, if a resolution prepared by Dan B. Butler, city commissioner of finance and accounts, passes the city commission Tuesday. This resolution directs the city clerk to advertise for bids for city funds, the bidders offering the highest rate of interest to be awarded the custody of the money. This plan Butler adopted from the financial chapter of the home rule charter.

"There is no reason why the city should not receive as much interest on its money as the state," said Commissioner Butler. "The state has money in Omaha and South Omaha banks at 3 1/2 per cent interest, the rate paid to private persons. We only get 2 per cent on our daily balances." Commissioner Butler said that frequently $500,000 or $600,000 was left in one bank intact for four or five months. The use of this money, he believes, is worth much more to the banks than they are now paying.

Ure Agrees with Butler. Treasurer W. G. Ure has discussed the plan with Butler and agrees with him. Other commissioners, who have considered the plan, are also in favor of the resolution and it is probable it will be passed by the council.

Further, Commissioner Butler will ask the council to require banks to put up surety company bonds to secure city money deposited in them. At present the only security held by the city is the bank officials' personal bonds. The county requires the banks to put up a surety company bond and the treasurer, who is responsible for school and water district funds, requires the same thing on his own account, but the city council, which is responsible for the city funds, has to date accepted the personal bonds.

Walsh Says Omaha Has Good Chance for a Regional Bank

James Walsh, who has just returned from a three months' visit in Seattle, is of the opinion that Omaha will have a regional reserve bank and his expression of the conditions affecting the situation now are tersely expressed. "It is conceded by the bankers of Seattle that Omaha will be in line for one of the regional reserve banks, if Bryan and the Omaha senator will just get together," said Mr. Walsh. "Nebraska has made these men what they are and they certainly owe a debt of gratitude in return."

Omaha is certainly the safest and soundest financial center in the United States. Today Omaha offers to the federal government a safe storehouse for its surplus wealth, free from possible panics and earthquakes. Wealth stored in either San Francisco or New York is not safe from earthquakes. Omaha will some day be the natural storehouse of food products and the gold surplus of the government. In case of war with any other nation, what other section would be as safe as Omaha? Omaha cured meats keep better than meats cured in any other packing town and Nebraska grown grain is the grain for either keeping or exporting.

"With such natural conditions in our favor and the man who made Wilson president and a senator from Omaha, who can, if he wants to, join the secretary of state and demand for Omaha only what we are entitled to, there is no possibility of failure unless the above named gentlemen blunder, and if they do so Nebraska will hold them jointly responsible."
