

Why do you coddle Corns?

Why soak them and pare them? It brings only brief relief.

Blue-jay will stop the pain instantly. It will end the corn completely, and in 48 hours. It is doing that to a million corns a month.

The chemist who invented Blue-jay solved the whole corn problem.

Apply it, and the corn is forgotten. It will never pain again. Gently the Blue-jay then loosens the corn, and in two days the corn comes out.

No pain, no soreness, no annoyance. And that corn will never need treatment again.

Old-time methods will not do this. Let no one claim they will. But Blue-jay does it, and has done it for sixty million corns.

Prove this to-night.

We Will Take Your First Crop

In Full Payment for the Land

Regardless of the size or value of the crop, and without any cash payment to us on your part whatsoever.

We have confidence in our land. We will give a settler 10 acres and take his first crop of watermelons in full payment. We guarantee that the crop can be raised within 4 1/2 months and the total expenses of clearing, fencing, plowing, planting, cultivation, picking and hauling will not exceed $30 per acre.

We take only the first crop. The settler can then plant his grapefruit grove and while the trees are growing he can raise beans, tomatoes, cabbage and other truck, besides hay, oats and other staple crops.

This is the great proven district for grapefruit and oranges; the largest citrus grove in Florida—80 acres; the best packing houses; almost one million boxes of fruit shipped last season. In one grove here a single acre yielded 1100 boxes, while another grove has yielded over 1000 per acre continuously for 10 years.

Our lands lie on either side of two railroads and three hard roads, with 12 stations, including six towns; they are high rolling, well drained, with clay subsoil, beautiful clear water lakes and elegant homes. Prices, in small tracts, $35 per acre and up, on six years' time.

This is a settled country where crops and climate have been demonstrated and where the people are prosperous. Hard roads and established market—of cash buyers here one day last season. Come and see for yourself, or send for map and full particulars.

stained with tobacco juice, "I guess I'll have to object."

I asked him what he had against the bill.

He shifted from one foot to the other, mumbling, but never lifting his eyes above my waist. "You, young feller, ain't doin' nothin' fer nobody without somethin' in it fer you, and I ain't seen nothin' come my way."

I was startled at first, as I believed Simpson knew of my connection with White, but I had one of those sudden inspirations that makes one believe the devil always looks out for his own. I pretended to be very indignant and threatened to report what he had said to the Speaker, and then I put it to him boldly:

"How much do you want?"
"I reckon fifty dollars ain't none too much."

Fifty dollars! I could have screamed. Fifty dollars, and White would have paid him a year's salary if necessary. It was the biggest joke of the season.

I gave him the money then and there, fixed it with the Speaker, and in less than an hour I was able to telephone White that the bill had passed the House, it had already passed the Senate; and a few days later the President signed it in entire ignorance of its importance, which is a fair sample of the way things are frequently done in Washington.

When I told White how I had dealt with Simpson he was so pleased that he offered me a regular salary of $7,000 a year if I would "represent him in certain Legislative matters," as he suavely put it. I accepted.

I had become a professional Washington lobbyist. (To be continued.)

One White Chip

SECRETARY LANE is the only member of the Cabinet who hails from the Pacific Coast.

"Our Forty-niners were probably the greatest poker players in the history of the game," asserts the Secretary of the Interior. "They played for anything and everything; and amateurs were just as unpopular as pikers."

"I remember, as a youngster, watching a little-four-handed game in an Oakland hotel. The players were all experts of the first order. Presently, along came a Yankee commercial agent who was finding it hard to kill time. The layout looked good to him and he asked if he might be allowed to take a hand.

"It was a public place, so the Californians could not very well refuse, though their contempt for the game put up by any tenderfoot Easterner was marked. One of the crowd turned and looked the traveling man over.

"Any one who sits in this here game," he said politely, "had best know that there ain't no limit."

"The Easterner protested that that didn't fease him, and fearing that his ability to make good financially was in question, he laid a one-hundred-dollar bill on the table.

"The other picked up the bill, looked at it critically and handed it to the banker.

"Jim," he drawled, "let this stranger have one white chip."

THE MATE CALL

By RENA CARY SHEFFIELD

Above the pulsing city
And the clamor of the mart,
I hear the mate note of your voice
As heart calls back to heart.
The white light of the city night
Burns down to flaming blue,
As my gypsy soul sends answer
To the nomad soul of you.

hear you calling, calling,
And the world is mine today.
Though love may make me beggared,
I'll give my all away
To wander like a minstrel
The changing seasons through,
My vagrant spirit following
The nomad soul of you.
