Park Commissioner J. B. Hummel has taken the matter up with Mayor James C. Dahlman and the mayor will ask the commission to consider the scheme. No request is to be made for a small amount of bonds for park improvement, as has been customary, but later the people are to be asked for sufficient money to "make some showing" in improving the boulevards and parks. Steals and Then Asks a Thirty-Day Sentence in Jail

Tired of the inconsistencies of a wandering existence and desirous of securing a steady berth for at least thirty days, Ed Clifford, a man about 25 years of age and giving his address as Rochester, N. Y., committed petit larceny and then gave himself up, after he had sold the goods he had stolen and purchased a meal with the proceeds.

Clifford visited a pawn shop on lower Douglas street and took several pairs of shoes, later disposing of them for 25 cents a pair. He then ate a hearty meal and, going back to the store, asked the shop owner what kind of a reward he would pay to learn who had taken his goods. A half dollar was agreed upon, and then Clifford pointed to himself. He was held until the police were summoned, and at the station made the statement that he wished that not less than a thirty-day sentence would be given him, for the weather was bothering his comfort.

Fred Krug, Jr., of the Krug Brewing company and the Cassel Realty company, died of diabetes at Excelsior Springs, Mo., at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, aged about 40 years. The body will be brought to Omaha for burial.

Mr. Krug had been afflicted with diabetes for some months, but his condition was not such as to alarm himself, or his friends. He had been able to attend to his business affairs, which required about all of his time. Last week he complained of not feeling as well as usual and his physicians advised him to go to Excelsior Springs, where he went last Friday. From there come reports that he was doing nicely. Monday night, however, Mrs. Krug received a wire, requesting that she go to the springs and she left for there Tuesday morning, arriving in time to be with her husband when the end came.

Residing in Omaha all his life, Mr. Krug was educated in the schools here and, soon after reaching his majority, entered actively into the brewing business, established here by his father more than fifty years ago. Besides his wife and young daughter, he is survived by his father and mother, his two brothers, Albert and Jacob, and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Wiseman, Mrs. Brecht and Miss Lena Krug. WILL NOT DISTURB RESERVE

M'GREW GETS INFORMATION

President of Live Stock National Bank Communicates with the Department of Agriculture and Gets Answer.

For the last three or four months there have been numerous stories floating about to the effect that the government had under consideration the elimination of the Niobrara division of the national forest reserve, and that the area would be returned to the public domain to become subject to entry under the provisions of some of the numerous land laws.

President McGrew of the Live Stock National bank of South Omaha, feeling an interest in the matter, wrote to the forest service of the Department of Agriculture and is in receipt of a reply from James B. Adams, acting chief forester. Mr. Adams states that there is nothing being contemplated at this time looking to the disturbing of the Niobrara portion of the forest reserve, adding that in view of the nonagricultural value of the Niobrara section no action with reference to this section is to be taken, at least at this time.

The Niobrara reserve consists of some 125,000 acres of land lying between the Niobrara river and Snake creek, in Cherry county, the nearest point being about twelve miles south of Cody. It is all sand hill land, though there are a few valleys that might be brought under cultivation. On the tract some fifteen years ago the government set out several thousand Jack pines. Subsequently most of them were destroyed by prairie fires and a great many more by the cattle that ranged over the land. Later a portion of the reserve was reforested with the same variety of pines and protected to some extent. These have done very well and many of them are said to have grown to a height of several feet and are in good condition.

The funeral cortege was one of the largest ever seen in the southern part of the city and the church was crowded by the many friends of the family.
