Caught in Trap: Loses Leg; Boy's Father Makes "Settlement" With Railroad Company

How a Child Was Maimed by a Railroad and Then Deprived of His Rights by "Settlement" of Damage Suit Out of Court.

Judge English of the district court will be asked this morning to determine a question that must affect the whole life of a little crippled boy.

On his decision will hang whether 7-year-old Ralph Moss is to go through life damaged beyond remedy and without compensation from the Missouri Pacific Railway company, one of whose freight trains caught him at crossing one Sunday morning, as he was coming home from church, and crushed his right leg off.

Ralph is just now able to get about a little on his one good leg, swinging the pitiful stump of the other, and may be able to resume his studies at the Windsor school within a fortnight. He is a bright and likable little chap, and Dr. R. W. Connell describes him as being "the pluckiest little boy in Omaha." If it were not for his splendid courage, the doctor says, the boy would not have recovered from the two operations it was necessary to perform.

Ralph was injured on Sunday, November 23, when he went to meet other children returning from church. Where the Missouri Pacific line crosses the street on which his parents live, the boy had to dodge back to avoid a passing freight train. He struck against a long mound of cinders and dirt and fell. With presence of mind that would have been noteworthy in a grown person, the little lad grasped a car step, and hung on, but was dragged between the wheels and the heap of cinders until his right leg was ground off above the knee. At the hospital it was found necessary to amputate the leg twice, and all the suffering that meant was born with utmost patience.

"I want to get well," was Ralph's answer to Dr. Connell, when he was asked if he would take an anesthetic for the second operation.

His splendid courage pulled him through, and he may yet recover as fully as possible from the injury. But the attorney for the railroad company has made a "settlement" with Ralph's father that leaves the boy with no compensation whatever for the loss of the limb, to face a handicapped future with no prospect that he will ever get assistance in any way in his misfortune, his outlook on life being that of a cripple without resource, unless the court intervenes and protects him in his right against the railroad company.

RALPH MOSS AS HE APPEARS TODAY.

Ralph's father, Daniel S. Moss, 2311 Castellar street, on February 3 signed away the boy's legal rights and a dismissal of his case in district court was filed by J. A. C. Kennedy, attorney for the railroad. The boy's lawyers, T. A. Donohue and M. L. Donovan, are asking the court to set aside the dismissal on the ground that the settlement was made illegally and that the lad's father was wrongfully induced to accept $1,000 for giving up the boy's cause of action against the company, as well as his own.

According to Donovan and Donohue, who assert that they were not consulted in the settlement, $500 of the $1,000 already has been paid to Dr. R. W. Connell, the physician who attended the boy; an additional $100 has been used to pay the hospital bill, and $500 has been offered to the lawyers for their fee, but refused by them.

"If this settlement were allowed to stand," these lawyers asserted, "there would not be enough money left to purchase an artificial limb for the boy until he has grown up. If we accepted a fee taken from this amount, the boy, when he became 21 years old, could sue us and recover what we received with interest."

The boy's attorneys assert that he should have had several thousand dollars for his injury, and that the payment to the father, who had not been appointed his guardian, without consulting the court or them, is legally "no payment at all."

In their motion filed in court they charged Attorney Kennedy with conduct approaching contempt of court in the case. They assert that the boy's father has the right to keep the $1,000 received by him because his settlement of his personal cause of action for loss of Ralph's services was an adequate consideration, but that he has no right to settle the boy's case unless the action is taken in open court.

Ralph's case was brought up in court last Saturday and Judge English postponed the hearing until today in order to allow Attorney Kennedy time to meet the charges by Donovan and Donohue.

Sam Snell Taken in Sioux City on Charge of Theft

Sam B. Snell, wanted here for alleged theft of an auto, was taken in Sioux City, Iowa, a local jeweler in the McCasne building, was arrested yesterday in Sioux City. John Pzanowski, Omaha police detective, is there now to bring him back. When word was first received here that Snell was under arrest, it was said that Clifford Haze, wanted here also for auto thefts and alleged complicity in the auto holdups a month ago, was taken with him. Pzanowski in a message to his superiors here said that Haze is not in Sioux City.

Snell denies that he knows, much less, was with, Haze. He says that the auto he is accused of stealing was once his property, but that he traded it for a $300 diamond ring and $50, which he subsequently lost back in a gambling game, to Erickson, and that feeling aggrieved, he took the machine back.

The machine is a Ford, and is now in a garage in Hawarden, Ia., where Snell left it to be re-tired.

HANSCOM PARK IMPROVERS WANT AUDITORIUM BOUGHT

One hundred and fifty members of the Hanscom Park Improvement club, which has a membership of over 200, gathered last night in the Windsor school and went on record against the proposed incinerator bond issue, the city charter, and advocated the passage of the Auditorium bonds and a public farm.

Speakers for the Auditorium proposition were: L. C. Sholes, E. C. Patterson, E. J. Hampton, J. M. Welsh, W. H. Hatteroth, W. Boyd Smith and Lyman Peck. Speakers against the purchase of the Auditorium were: C. N. Harris and Hugo Melchior. A general welfare committee composed of A. L. Havens, R. J. Sutton, W. E. Davis, Henry Carstens and T. B. Coleman was selected to deal with emergencies which may arise between now and the next meeting.

UNMACK AND SCHMIDT FAMILIES MUCH MIXED

Harmon Unmack and Mrs. Charles Schmidt, both of Modale, Ia., have asked the Omaha and Council Bluffs police to untangle for them a badly mixed up batch of relatives. It seems that Unmack's wife has disappeared with Mrs. Schmidt's husband, who is a cousin of Mrs. Unmack, and a female relative of Mr. Schmidt left with relative of Mr. Unmack. The four missing persons were seen shopping in Council Bluffs, and are believed later to have come to Omaha, and the police are asked to find them.

Culls from the Wire

W. K. Bixby yesterday resigned as a receiver of the Wahaska railroad in a telegram to Judge Adams of the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis. The telegram was sent from Pasadena, Cal., where Bixby is spending the winter. "Continued ill health" is the reason given by Mr. Bixby for resigning.

The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission at St. Paul, yesterday ruled that the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads must pay refunds to shippers of mixed carloads of stock within the state for excess charges in the six years of rate legislation which was terminated by the decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota rate case.

A well dressed young woman walking on the ice in Lake Michigan, a few hundred feet from the fashionable Chicago North Shore, stepped off the edge of the pack yesterday and disappeared. The body apparently went under the shore ice and her identity could not be established by the police. According to several men who attempted to warn the woman of her danger, she refused to heed their cries.

Creighton Wireless Station Attracting Many Local Students

Interest in the wireless telegraph has led to the formation of a club known as the Omaha Radio association. The club is composed of Creighton university, Omaha high school and public school students, all of whom are interested in playing with the ether waves.

The youngsters have been experimenting for several months and claim to have caught messages from great distances. Stimulated by the recent installation of the wireless station at Creighton university by Father Rigge, the lads are pursuing their work with renewed vigor.

Two receiving sets are now in the possession of club members, these belonging to H. C. Gibson and R. J. Shively.

Two other sets will be installed soon and a sending station will be erected, from which messages can be sent within a radius of 500 miles.

By studying wireless codes and spending much of their spare time over their instruments, the young experimenters say they have caught messages from Key West, Arlington, Colon, Panama Coast station and Vancouver, British Columbia. The present members of the club are: R. J. Shively, H. C. Gibson, R. L. Park, Ernest Wehl, Howard Eves, Leo Mankel, Harry Brodkey, G. Gamble and W. Greene.
