

Positively You Can Be Plump

Free 50-Cent Package of a Most Remarkable Flesh Builder That Puts on 30 Pounds in 30 Days.

The Results Will Be Astounding to All Who Are Thin.

Don't Look Like a Lamp Post.

Never has anything produced such wonderful results as the new flesh builder, Protone. Thin, anaemic, pale-faced, thin-lipped, tired, aching, bony men and women take on a most remarkable new lease of life.

The hollow places fill out, the nerves are sheathed with healthy covering, the muscles plump up with natural flesh, the eyes lose that hungry, pleading expression, and you feel better and stronger in every part of the body. The secret is in the fact that Protone corrects the faults of assimilation. Your food is converted into the kind of blood that makes you plump and strong. Your entire system becomes greedy for this new, rich, red material. Thin people are often hearty eaters, but the blood is watery. The substantial elements don't get into the circulation, but pass along without being assimilated. But Protone has the most remarkable effect of arousing intestinal absorption of food elements and it is nothing unusual for thin men and women to gain weight a pound a day until normal is reached. Nature takes care of this, for when the natural weight has been attained, the surplus is converted into waste and thrown out through the excretories of the body.

The regular $1.00 size of Protone is for sale by all druggists, or will be mailed direct, upon receipt of price, by the Protone Co., 464 Protone Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

RURAL CONGRESS TO OMAHA

Second Annual Meeting Will Be Held Here December 16 to 19.

LARGE DELEGATION EXPECTED

Officers of the Organization Who Were in Omaha Last Week Say There Will Be Over Thousand Present.

The Second Annual Country Life congress is to convene in Omaha December 16 to 19 inclusive. Frank G. Odell, secretary of the rural life, which special commission was created by act of the last legislature, was in Omaha looking up arrangements at the hotels for the big meeting.

This general organization takes in the following: The Nebraska Farmers congress, State So-Operative Grain and Live Stock association, State Association of Co-Operative creameries, State Grange, Nebraska Improvers' association, Nebraska Rural Life commission, State Association of Farmers' Mutual Insurance companies, State Farmers' union and the department of agriculture of the University of Nebraska.

Large Number to Come.

According to Mr. Odell this meeting will represent 1,200 local farmers of the state, all of whom are members of the various state organizations that meet together in what has been designated the Country Life congress. There will be thousands in attendance as Mr. Odell says the meeting this year will be a third larger than ever before.

Mr. Odell says the rural life commission will be ready to make its report to the governor during the latter part of December on its investigations of the last two years regarding conditions of country life. "Our findings along the lines of rural education," said Mr. Odell, "will, I believe, constitute one of the most valuable documents ever given to the public. We have conducted all our work along the various lines as well as as wisely as we could with the $1,500 the state appropriated for our use.

"We are hopeful that the work we have accomplished, as will be shown by our first report, may inspire the legislature to make a larger appropriation next year for the continuation of this kind of work in the state. We have a program that we will map out as a suggestion for work along this line which we believe is good. If the state will appropriate money for the carrying on of the work. The State Bankers' association of Washington has appropriated $10,000 for the carrying on of work by a rural life commission in the state.

Mabel Porter Joins Political League

Miss Mabel W. Porter, secretary of the Associated Charities, has joined the Political Equality league, and announces her intention to work with that organization to stir up sentiment in favor of federal legislation that will alleviate social conditions.

Not only does Miss Porter favor the passage of laws compelling applicants for marriage licenses to submit to medical examinations, but she is of the opinion that there are a lot of other things this league could promote that would be of interest to the progress of the philanthropist.

"For example," said Miss Porter, "a short time ago a man who is drawing a salary of $400 a month brought his wife to this city and left her without any means of support. She was absolutely without any recourse.

"To have him brought back for trial she would have been compelled to advance the cost of the case. Extradition papers would have been secured and the woman would have been put to a great expense. She had no money and so couldn't do it.

"It seems to me that such a situation as this could be handled by proper federal legislation."

Inquiries Are Being Made by Police Commissioner and Chief Dunn as to the Veracity of the Report.

Police Commissioner Ryder and Chief of Police Dunn are investigating charges against a police officer made by three members of the "scarlet crew" who testified today that this officer has taken "protection money" from them.

The officer will probably be suspended pending the outcome of the hearing, but Commissioner Ryder will thoroughly investigate before acting.

"This officer has a family and while he will have to take his medicine if these charges are true, I am not going to condemn him without a hearing," said Mr. Ryder.

One of the girls came to the chief of police with her father early yesterday and the other girls were brought in later in the day. Their testimony before the police commissioner and the chief of police was kept secret.

Night Schools in Omaha Part of Great Melting Pot

Where the New Citizens Learn the Language and Ways of America

Class of Beginners in English

Husbands and Wives

Learning of a New Land

"It is not a question of discipline, they come for learning," so say the teachers of the night schools which have opened at the Comenius and Kellom schools. Glances at the faces of the pupils who are in attendance more than substantiate this statement.

Ambition in the broadest sense of the word is written on the face of every man, woman and child who attends these classes, whether he or she may be tired it matters not, for this is not considered till the evening school hour is over.

Night schools have been in existence in Omaha for many years, and last Monday evening was the opening of them for the current year. Prof. Graff, superintendent of the Omaha public school, is very enthusiastic regarding the work which is being done by the teachers in these schools and it is his wish that in the near future those who wish the classes at the high school may have their desires fulfilled.

While the great desire for education lies in the hearts of many of these people, one of the greatest forces which prompts the foreign element to learn the English language is the clause in the requirements for naturalization. Many of the men are fathers of large families and with the love for the free country to which they have come to make their home they feel that they must be American citizens. The fact that reading and writing of the English language is required of every American citizen brings many of these people to the night schools.

At the opening of these schools on Monday evening the attendance numbered 800, and from the records of the past the attendance will be doubled by the end of the year.

The personality of the teacher has much to do with the attendance and success of the work done in these classes. Only a very small percentage are compelled to attend and the greater number come to grasp all the knowledge they can gain in these hours of night work.

These schools might be likened to the great melting pot of the nations of the world, for in these rooms, with the one thought in common, that of learning the English language, will be found Italians, Poles, Bohemians, Jews from many countries, Germans, Russians, Greeks, Japanese, Turks, Syrians, in fact, nearly all nationalities. The occupations of the hours of the day in many cases makes it necessary for them to have a better knowledge of the English language, and it is with the greatest zeal that they seize the opportunity of the night school. In some of the schools they have been graded according to their ability, and in others the nationality has been the first point considered. There are pupils in the first grades of these schools learning the English language who are expert mathematicians, and these students advance very quickly. Many will be found among these who have attended schools in their own countries who are able to write the language, but are not able to read or speak it. The teachers say that the reason for this is that they have studied Latin in the foreign schools. Pronunciation is one of the hardest things which the foreigner who attends the night school has to learn. Among the peoples of southern Europe the sound of "th" is one of the difficult sounds which they must learn. The desire to use the sound of the letter D for "th" is especially noticeable and one of the great problems to overcome for the teachers.

The successful night school teacher is an optimist of the highest type and the word failure seldom enters her thoughts. Her pupils especially among the foreign element, place her on a pedestal and generally worship at her feet. This is not done without just cause, for in many instances she acts as a legal adviser, helps them in planning for the welfare of the family, and many times is present at the transaction of business. She has proven herself a friend and the greatest confidence is placed in her judgment on all things. All these things are not done during the school hour and the time out of school for the teacher is not always her own, for when her "friends," as she calls her pupils, need her she feels it her duty to aid them in any way she can. This is the statement made by one of the Omaha night school teachers, who has been seen many times with a paper resting on the nearest building showing some "friend" something which he does not understand.

"The night school is one of the greatest mediums through which to bring the foreign citizens into contact with the educated American citizen," so says one of the principals of the night schools. These people will return to these schools year after year and in many cases prefer to stay in the same room with the same teacher which they have had the previous year.

When one of the Italians, who had been a good attendant at the Comenius school last year stopped in to see "his teacher" she asked him if he was not coming this year, he explained to her in almost enthusiastic way that "I got da big, I got da wife, I got da baby and I got no time."

Among the interesting sights at the night schools are the father and mother sitting side by side and the baby on the floor playing quietly till the time comes for the little family to go to their home. In another school will be seen a father and his son in the same class room striving for a better education.

One of the greatest characteristics noticeable in these classes is the effort made to help one another in the work, whether he be Russian or Greek, Jew or Gentile, these facts have vanished and the great ambition for an education stands pre-eminent in the work of the night school pupil.

County Jail May Be Put to a Test

Locked in the new county jail on the top floor of the new county building two expert jail builders may attempt to break out in order to demonstrate whether or not the jail is what it should be under the plans and specifications.

After inspecting the jail the Board of County Commissioners referred the matter of its inspection to John Latenser, county building architect, and granted his request for permission to hire an expert jail builder to aid him in inspecting.

Tom Carey, an Omaha ironworker for many years, accompanied the commissioners and the architect on the inspection tour. He declared much of the iron used in the jail was soft and easily could be sawed through. He said men who worked on the jail sawed through some of the iron when they were on the job.

Mr. Latenser would express no opinion, but was unwilling to accept the judgment of Carey as conclusive. He said he would not accept responsibility for an opinion regarding the quality and strength of the jail unless the board would allow him to employ an expert to help inspect it.

Commissioner Peter E. Haessler asked Latenser to look two men in the jail, provide them with saws such as might be smuggled to prisoners, and let them try to escape. Latenser did not say whether or not he would do this. If he does not Haessler will ask the Board of County Commissioners to do so after Latenser's inspection has been completed. Mr. Latenser has not said who he will employ to aid in the inspection.

Finds Diamond by Means of a Flashlight

A St. Louis young lady, while walking through one of the parks, discovered that she had lost two valuable diamond rings. She returned over the gravel walks that she had traversed and found one of the rings, but failed to find the second one. She procured an electric flashlight and waited until dark, when she again resumed her search. The glint of the gem under the flashlight ray soon attracted her attention, and she reported her find to the police, who had been notified of her loss.

Upon entering a moving picture theater where the lights of necessity are turned out while pictures are thrown upon the screen, it is often difficult to see well enough to find a vacant seat. Just here the pocket flashlight is proving very serviceable. The user may lead the way and locate a seat with little annoyance either to those coming in or to the spectators if equipped with an ordinary flashlight.

A wig manufacturer, says Popular Electric, attracts attention to his show window by placing within a wax head wearing a wig a low candlepower incandescent electric lamp. The electric light gives a live glow to the wax figure, and, according to the manufacturer, helps sell his goods.
