As to Nebraska.

In this presidential election Nebraska is confronted with a threecornered fight, although the new third party seems to have created much more division in republican ranks than in democratic ranks. The old populist party has practically dropped out, the minor places on the Thirty Years Agoticket being taken by the socialists and prohibitionists.

Some leaders were for free trade and others for tariff for revenue only, After the Wilson tariff law passed the house and senate, President Cleveland making power of cities of over 5,000 would not sign it because it did not conform to his ideas of free trade, and it became a law under the ten-day provision. The effect of the operation of that law is well known to all except many new voters and new comers. Today Mr. Wilson, candidate for president, asserts that he is not for free trade, and that he has not heard a single thoughtful democrate declare for free trade. He does not come out squarely for tariff for revenue only, but favors a policy of going through all the schedules of the tariff and cutting every one of them out where illegitimate privileges are concealed.
