Opinion is divided on the subject of a siege. One party demands a vigorous assault against Belgrade, regardless of loss; the other wants a regular investment so that the civilian inhabitants may be spared.

More Than Genius Needed.

"But the survival of the American republic must rest on a more stable foundation than the patriotism of our citizens, the genius of our statesmen and the wisdom of our laws. It must have a stronger basis than fleets and dread-noughts and standing armies; for the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong. Our enduring stability can be secured only under the abiding protection of the lord of hosts.

forbidding illustration of this truth: That those people are victorious in the end who have the God of battles on their side, and that He is with them who have unflinching confidence in His protection.

"Righteousness," says the Books of Proverbs, "exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to be perpetuated, if it is to be handed down unimpaired to future generations. It must rest on the eternal principles of justice, truth and righteousness; and downright honesty in our dealings with other nations; it must be sustained by the devout recognition of an overruling power, who governs all things by His wisdom, whose superintending providence watches over the affairs of nations as well as of men, without whom not even a bird can fall to the ground.

"All the presidents of the United States, from George Washington to William Howard Taft, have invariably invoked the aid of our heavenly Father in their inaugural proclamations. It is also the edifying custom of our chief magistrate to invite his fellow-citizens to assemble in their respective places of worship on the last Thursday of November, to offer thanksgiving to the giver of all gifts for the blessings vouchsafed to the nation. Both houses of congress are daily opened with prayer. And all important civic and political conventions are inaugurated by an appeal to the throne of grace. God's supremacy is also recognized by the observance of the Christian Sabbath throughout the land.

All Danger from Within.

"It is my profound conviction that if ever the republic is doomed to decay, if the future historian shall ever record the decline and fall of the American republic, its downfall will be due, not to a hostile invasion, but to the indifference, lethargy and political apostasy of its own sons.

"And if all citizens are bound to take an interest in public affairs, that duty especially devolves on those who are endowed with superior intelligence and education and who ought to be the leaders and exemplars of the people, guiding them in the path of political rectitude.

"There are three conspicuous citizens who are now candidates for the presidency. Whatever may be my private and personal preference and predilection it is not for me in this sacred point or anywhere else publicly to dictate or even suggest to you the candidate of my choice.

"May God so enlighten the mind and quicken the conscience of the American people to a sense of their civic duties as to arouse in them an earnest and practical interest in the coming election, and may He so guide their hearts that they will select a chief magistrate whose administration will redound to the material prosperity and moral welfare of our beloved republic."

Chairman Epperson of the defunct republic committee is not exactly satisfied with statements made by Henry Richmond, democratic candidate for state auditor, and proceeds to take a fall out of that gentleman because of some remarks made against Mr. Howard, the republican candidate. It is claimed that Mr. Richmond is saying that the farmers are not willing to place an insurance man in that position. Further on in his article Mr. Epperson says that Mr. Richmond announces that he is "resolved to have a man whose technical knowledge of insurance is well known as his insurance deputy." Mr. Epperson would like to know where the difference lies. "It seems to me," said Mr. Epperson, "that a man who has a technical knowledge of insurance must be an insurance man. Mr. Howard is a better friend of fraternal insurance than Richmond is capable of, and to secure his election he will not promise to violate the law."

Rock Island Must Remain Safe.

The State Railway Commission has notified the Rock Island Railroad company that it has accepted the report of the examiners sent out to look over the road and will expect the company to at once put to work two gangs of men on its line from Jansen through Beatrice to the Kansas state line for the purpose of resurfacing the roadbed and replacing the defective ties on that line. It is said that 11,000 new ties will be needed.

May Ask for Arsenal.

Adjutant General Phelps is considering the matter of bringing before the next legislature a proposition for the building of an arsenal or armory for the storage of the national guard supplies. At the present time they are scattered over the basement of the state house and kept in eight different rooms, besides being piled up in the gangways. The ammunition is stored in the basement at the southeast corner of the building and is entirely unprotected in case of fire. Should fire occur it is easily to be seen that much damage might result on account of this ammunition, besides the loss of the explosives themselves and would cause a great expense to the state.

State Collections Light.

Collections have been light during the last month and the report of the state treasurer shows only $15.51 in the general fund and $12,418.63 in the trust funds. However, collections are beginning to come in again and it is not probable that the treasury will not be able to take care of all warrants coming in. There is $27,969.97 in the temporary school fund and the amount in all funds in the state treasury is $67,648.83. During the month the receipts were $257,749.49 and the amount paid out was $208,979.03. This left a total at the close of the month of $48,770.46. The cash on hand is placed at $4,910.58, $30,446.87 in depository banks and has on hand as cash general fund warrants amounting to $15,000 which were bought for the state with permanent school funds. The trust funds of the state now invested and drawing interest amount to the sum of $5,274,544.63.

REPUBLICANS GAIN GROUND

Reports from Out in State Indicate Change in Sentiment.

MOOSERS GOING DOWN HILL

Much Advertised Norris-Clark Meeting is Slimly Attended and Enthusiasm is Waning.—Norris Slights Clark.

LINCOLN, Nov. 3.—(Special).—Reports coming in from out in the state seem to be very conflicting as to the political situation. However the general opinion from republicans is that the republican national and state tickets are gaining every day and that it is generally understood that both the democratic and bull moose national candidates are losing ground, the latter especially fast.

The claim from the national democratic headquarters that Wilson will carry every state in the union is considered about the greatest pipe dream ever sprung in national politics and cause a great deal of amusement. Every individual who points to a good bull moose fund on hand to be used in the interest of the Roosevelt cause, and while no one will admit having seen any of the long green, there is evidence that it is abroad in the land and will be used to the best advantage.

Nothing has happened for a long time which has shown that the bull moose campaign is going down hill as the Norris-Clark meeting at the Auditorium last Thursday night. This meeting had been advertised for a long time and as Lincoln has been the hot bed of the bull moose cause, it was generally expected that the Auditorium would not hold the people who might wish to hear the two men who had repudiated the party which had brought them into prominence and had lined up with the element seeking its destruction. But notwithstanding that a hand played on the outside for some time in order to draw the crowd, the Auditorium was almost vacant, less than 200 people, many of them women and children, being present.

Much comment has been heard because of the utter failure of Norris to pay Mr. Clark even the courtesy of a mention of his name. Mr. Clark had paid Norris a fine tribute and had said, "Voters, if you only vote for one man on the ticket, let that vote be for Mr. Norris," and it was expected that Mr. Norris would return for the compliment, but he never mentioned Mr. Clark's name, nor the name of any other candidate upon the ticket on which he was running.

Another little thing which has caused comment is the fact that the large lithographs of Congressman Norris have upon them "Progressive-republican candidate for congress." The use of the progressive party name first is an indication in the minds of many that Mr. Norris considers the republican party only a side issue.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 3.—"It has been a great campaign," said Colonel Roosevelt tonight. "I don't know that there has ever been a campaign like it in this country."

There remains only two speeches on Monday to the "home folks" of Nassau county, which the colonel desires to make largely for sentimental reasons. Monday afternoon he will go by automobile to Mineola, the county seat and in the evening he will speak to his fellow townsmen of Oyster Bay.

Miss Frances A. Keller, a member of the progressive executive committee and head of the New York state bureau of industry and immigration, took lunch today at Sagamore Hill and talked over with the colonel some of the progressive party's proposals for improving social and industrial conditions.

Miss Keller's visit prompted Colonel Roosevelt to say that one of the features which had interested and pleased him most in the campaign was the part-played by women.
