

A New Store And a Better One

If you've never been in this store you have missed something. It's a new store, and we believe a better one—better in many ways than any other in Omaha.

"The Fuel Saver"

A Powerful Double Heater

The Peninsular

This is one of the "Peninsular" specials—a Powerful Double Heating Base Burner with the new smooth mounting, an exceptionally fine Heater for the money; silver nickel trimmings; extra size flues in base and up the back increase radiating surface; produce more heat with less coal than any base burner of equal price on the market; wonderfully economical feed, draft regulators and other features. It's a large, economical heater, at $39.75.

It is a store that has advantages over the average furniture house that makes it easy to sell at lower prices. We have a disposition to treat everybody liberally—really want to do it. We give better service—make exchanges gladly and do everything in our power to accommodate and please you.

Out of the High Rent District

We are just off 16th St. on Howard but, it means a big saving in rent in being on Howard instead of 16th. We have low rent. What we save on low rent you save when you buy here. We are at 1513-1515 Howard, near the corner of 16th and are easily reached from any part of the city.

Make Your Own Credit Terms

Your terms will be our terms—what you can conveniently spare is all we expect or ask. Our terms of payment are much easier than those of any other store in the city. In the matter of credit terms we certainly prove this store to be THE BEST store in Omaha for the family of moderate income.

Brass Trimmed Bed

Worth Seeing

This New Store is worth seeing. It being a "Better Store" makes it well worth your while to come here when you need Furniture, Rugs or Stoves. We want you to learn how much better this store is than others so urge you today to GET RUBELS' PRICE BEFORE YOU BUY ANYTHING.

Library Table

RUBELS

1513-1515 HOWARD STREET

CORN CROP IS ABOVE RECORD

Yield is Over Two Hundred Million Bushels Above Bumper of 1906.

TWENTY-NINE BUSHELS AN ACRE

Value at Farm is About Six Cents a Bushel Below Last Year—Quality is Above the Ten-Year Average.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—More defined information as to the size of the greatest crop of corn the world ever has known was given today when the crop reporting board of the United States Department of Agriculture issued its preliminary estimate of the country's total production in the November crop report. Heretofore the estimates of the crop have been based upon conditions reports. The November report, made up from reports of agents and correspondents of the department's bureau of statistics and issued at 1:15 p. m., announced also the preliminary estimate of the total production of buckwheat, potatoes, flaxseed and tobacco; the yield per acre of each; the average farm price on November 1 of the country's principal crops, and the amount of corn of the 1912 crop remaining on farms November 1.

Details of the report follow: Corn—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 3,192,177,000 bushels, compared with 2,931,485,000 bushels last year, and the record crop of 2,977,416,000 bushels in 1906. Yield per acre, 29.3 bushels, compared with 22.9 bushels last year and 25.7 bushels, the ten-year average. Average farm price, 64 cents per bushel, compared with 61 cents last year, quality, 90.1 per cent, compared with the ten-year average. Corn of 1912 crop remaining on farms November 1 was 64,754,000 bushels, compared with 123,829,000 bushels of the 1911 crop remaining on farms November 1

Wheat

Wheat—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 1,314,000 bushels, compared with 1,250,000 bushels last year and the record crop of 1,292,000 bushels in 1906. Yield per acre, 21.1 bushels, compared with 19.3 bushels, the ten-year average yield. Average farm price, 65 cents per bushel, compared with 73 cents last year. Quality, 100.9 per cent of the ten-year average. The farm value of the wheat crop December 1 last year was $12,360,258.00.

Oats—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 1,417,172,000 bushels, compared with 1,222,200,000 bushels last year and the record crop of 1,186,341,000 bushels in 1910. Yield per acre, 37.4 bushels, compared with 34.4 bushels last year and 29.5 bushels, the ten-year average. Average farm price, 33 cents per bushel, compared with 43 cents last year. Weight per measured bushel, 35 pounds, compared with 31.1 pounds last year and 31.3 pounds, the ten-year average. The farm value of the oats crop on December 1 last year was $44,923,000.

Hay—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 72,425,000 tons, compared with 64,916,000 tons last year and the record crop of 70,726,000 tons in 1908. Yield per acre, 1.67 tons, compared with 1.4 tons last year and 1.45 tons, the ten-year average. Average farm value, $11.90, compared with $12.00 last year. The farm value of the hay crop December 1 last year was $98,470,000.

Final estimates of the crop reporting board giving the harvested acreage, production and value of important farm crops of the United States will be announced by the Department of Agriculture early in December.

Buckwheat—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 13,134,000 bushels, compared with 12,540,000 bushels last year and the record crop of 12,920,000 bushels in 1906. Yield per acre, 22.9 bushels, compared with 21.1 bushels last year and 19.3 bushels, the ten-year average yield. Average farm price, 65 cents per bushel, compared with 73 cents last year. Quality, 100.9 per cent of the ten-year average. The farm value of the buckwheat crop December 1 last year was $12,785,000.

Potatoes—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 41,250,000 bushels, compared with 22,727,000 bushels last year and the record crop of 28,196,000 bushels in 1909. Yield per acre, 112.3 bushels, compared with 80.9 bushels last year and 94.3 bushels, the ten-year average yield. Average farm price, 6.5 cents per bushel, compared with 7.5 cents last year. Quality, 102.4 per cent, compared with the ten-year average. The farm value of the potato crop December 1 last year was $23,775,000.

Tobacco—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 59,437,000 pounds, compared with 56,130,000 pounds last year, and the record crop of 1,103,450,000 pounds in 1910. Yield per acre, 805.4 pounds, compared with 887.7 pounds last year and 825.3 pounds, the ten-year average. Quality, 103.5 per cent of the ten-year average.

Apples—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 69.3 per cent of a full crop, compared with 62.4 per cent of a full crop last year and 61.3 per cent, the ten-year average. Quality, 53 per cent, compared with 52 per cent last year and 72.1 per cent in 1910.

Wheat—Total production, preliminarily estimated, 1,314,000 bushels, compared with 1,250,000 bushels last year and the record crop of 1,292,000 bushels in 1906. Yield per acre, 21.1 bushels, compared with 19.3 bushels, the ten-year average. Average farm price, 65 cents per bushel, compared with 73 cents last year. Quality, 100.9 per cent of the ten-year average. The farm value of the wheat crop December 1 last year was $12,360,258.00.

Prairie Fire in Keya Paha. CARNÉ, Neb., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—A big prairie fire started southeast of here about 11 o'clock yesterday morning and continued for some time. The wind was blowing hard from the northwest, causing the fire to spread rapidly. Damage is unknown at present.

BULGARIANS READY TO STORM GATES OF CONSTANTINOPLE

(Continued from Page One.)

scutelles over which diplomatic Paris today is gravely concerned, are: The compensation Roumania will demand as an offset to the agrandissement of Bulgaria. The future standing of the Dardanelles, Constantinople, Salonki and Turkey in Asia. The fate of the islands in the Aegean sea. The regime to be introduced in Albania. The adjustment of the conflicting Austrian and Italian special claims therein in such a way that the others powers will not be prejudiced.

Turkey Will Continue to Fight. CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—There is every indication here now that the war against the Balkan allies will be continued to the bitter end, as advised by Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief.

Loup City Autoist Killed Under Car. LOUP CITY, Neb., Nov. 8.—(Special Telegram.)—William Criss of this city was killed between 1:30 and 7:30 this morning when an automobile, which he was driving, turned over at a culvert five miles southeast of this city near Austin. He was returning home from a trip to Hodge and Rockville, where he had been on business.

Man Committed to Asylum. LOUP CITY, Neb., Nov. 8.—(Special Telegram.)—Andrie Gustafson, aged 27 years, was brought before the insanity commissioners this afternoon and committed to the asylum at Hastings as of unsound mind. He was unable to give any account of himself or where his home might be, but claimed to have formerly worked in the copper mines at Butte, Mont. His malady takes the form of being able to telegraph friends in another world.

Skinned From Head to Heel. Was Ben Pool, Throat, Ala., when dragged over a rough road, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed all his injuries. See For sale by Beaton Drug Co.—Advertisement.

grand vizier, aged 84 years, at their head as well as our high dignitaries, our soldiers and the whole nation have sworn to shed their blood in that cause.

Will Not Keep Constantinople. LONDON, Nov. 8.—Bulgaria has no intention of remaining in Constantinople, according to an official at the Bulgarian legation here. Bulgarian troops will, however, go to the Turkish capital. The official in the course of an interview said: "Even had other circumstances not rendered such a course necessary, the latest action of Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, in informing the Turkish grand vizier that his army desires to continue the war compelled Bulgaria to enter the Ottoman capital."

Famine menaces the inhabitants of the Turkish fortress of Janina, in the extreme western part of the Balkan peninsula, according to a news agency dispatch from Athens. It is reported that indescribable atrocities have been committed there by the Turkish authorities.

While some quarters believe the omens are favorable for an amicable settlement of the political situation arising out of the claims of the Balkan allies and of the determination of Austria that their ambitions shall not be realized, it is difficult to adjust the two points of view. It is said that Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy will agree to let Servia have a port on the Aegean Sea, but Servia wants part of Albania and a port on the Adriatic sea, and its armies are now pushing in that direction.

Athens, Greece, Nov. 8.—Crown Prince Constantine of Greece has called on the Turkish stronghold of Salonki to surrender. The army under his command has crossed the Vardar river and is now before Salonki.

Bulgaria Stands Pat. SOFIA, Nov. 8.—The Bulgarian cabinet maintains the absolute necessity of any peace negotiations with Turkey being conducted directly with the Balkan nations in order to insure the future position of the various states involved and to prevent the danger of further conflict after the war has ceased.

Russia on War Footing. ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 8.—The Russian government has decided to retain all the time-expired soldiers of the Russian army in active service with their regiments until next spring. This places the Russian army practically on a war footing as the order effects several hundred thousand men whose places would, in the ordinary course, have been taken by the same number of recruits, who have just been called upon.

It is announced that the government has taken this step in the best means of preventing war, and it is thought that this can only mean that the government foresees the possibility of complications arising out of the Balkan situation. The detention of the time-expired men will entail a cost of many millions.

BALKANS SURPRISE EXPERTS

Military Men Wonder at Speed and Secrecy of Movements.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The forthcoming issue of the Journal of the military service institution of the United States, published on Governor's Island by officers of the army, will contain an analysis of the military organizations of Turkey and the Balkan states by Brigadier General John N. Allison.

General Allison estimates that the Turkish army, with a "paper strength" of 1,500,000 men, was able to put not more than 600,000 soldiers in the field. The war strength of the allies he places at 600,000, of whom Bulgaria furnishes 350,000; Servia, 180,000; Greece, 100,000, and Montenegro, 50,000.

The Balkan states have given the world a tremendous demonstration in rapid and complete mobilization. General Allison thinks, while the secrecy with which the movement was accomplished is unprecedented. He gives much space to the work of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says:

"The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have played a large part in the success of the allies. Of the manner in which the Balkans took the field, he says: "The movements of the widely separated allied armies up to the present time, beginning with the probably somewhat premature dash of impetuous little Montenegro would indicate the direction of the artillery and cavalry, which, he declares, have