MISS SIMMS TALKS OF WOMEN

Says Women Are Not Crowding Men Out of Their Positions, but Are Elevating Their Stand in Working World.

Under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Federation, home mission meeting being held at the Young Women's Christian association's building, where what is required of them. Miss Florence Simms was the chief speaker

The home mission movement is practically national in its scope, its purpose being to do missionary work here instead of devoting all of the energies to alding those of foreign lands.

Miss Simms is industrial secretary of the Young Women's Christian association and as such has during the last year visited most of the cities in the United States. where associations are in existence. As secretary, she has come in close touch with young women who are supporting themselves. And yesterday in order to give an idea of what these young women are doing, she devoted her remarks to the subject, "The Young Woman in Indus-

"The experience in the presidency toughens the hide of the occupant so as to enable him to resist criticism directed against him from the time he takes office until he lays it down. A query arises in respect to criticisms and attacks that are made without the slightest reference to facts, and merely for the purpose of invoking popular opposition and distrust, and with the hope that by constant repetition they can escape any possible refutation. I don't know that this evil has been any greater in this administration than in a previous administration. All I know is that it was my first experience and it seemed to me as if I had been more greatly tried than most presidents by such methods. 'The result in some respects is unfor tunate in that after one or two efforts to meet the unfounded accusation despair in the matter leads to indifference and perhaps to an indifference toward both just and unjust criticism.
