Board Still Waiting on Caldwell for Financial Showing.

FIRST STATEMENT IS IGNORED

Contractor Declares Right is Reserved to Make Additional Claims for Loss of Time and Delays Not His Fault.

Negotiations of the Board of County Commissioners and Caldwell & Drake, county building general contractors, for a settlement of financial differences still are at a standstill. The board still is waiting for George W. Caldwell, representing the contractors, to state fully all they will demand, as requested by the board in a resolution Saturday.
The board refused to accept Caldwell's first statement Tuesday because it was not complete and he would not sign it.

Gulf Rate on Grain is to Be Advanced

The railroads have received notice from the Interstate Commerce commission that the 1 1/2 cents per 100 pound rate on wheat for export and sent by way of lines to gulf ports will be cancelled November 30 and upon that date the old rate of 1 3/4 cents from Omaha will be restored.
At present time Omaha railroad men figure that the grain in storage in elevators here is 1,500,000 bushels of wheat and 650,000 bushels of corn. It is expected that most of this will be sent out by way of the gulf before the end of the month.

VETERAN CELEBRATES DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY

Fifty-one years ago Tuesday Emory W. Johnson, Board of Education janitor, enlisted in the union army, and six years later on the same day he was married in the town where he had enlisted. In 1908 he came to Nebraska, and excepting six years that he spent in Iowa, he has lived in Omaha since then.

Referring to the double anniversary of the most important events of his life, Mr. Johnson grew reminiscent. "I served four years in the war," he said, "and when I went back to North Brookfield, Mass., after the war I was just old enough to cast my vote."

He recalled many of the bigger battles in which he fought. He was severely wounded in the battle of Sabine Crossroads, April 9, 1864, when a bullet pierced his leg during a fierce skirmish. The wound did not, however, cause him to lose a day of service as his division was retreating while the pursuing army was close at hand and kept up a continual fire.

"I would have been captured when I was wounded if I hadn't stuck to my horse," he said. "I fainted from the pain and fell flat on my face across the saddle horn. Brewer, a comrade, helped me hang on to the saddle during the retreat."

KNOW OMAHA CAMPAIGN DRWS MUCH ATTENTION

"Town Development" this month, a magazine devoted to stories of municipal activities, contains four columns of description on the "Know Omaha" campaign in an article written by Leo Redding on developing civic pride with the "movies."

Photographs of moving picture films taken in Omaha are used to illustrate the story. After a page of general description on the use of moving pictures to advertise cities the writer begins to describe in detail the "Know Omaha" campaign.

"The whole Know Omaha campaign is so full of interest and valuable suggestion to every community dweller who would like to see his own civic pride reflected in the hearts of all of his fellow townsmen," he writes. "I am going to digress from the moving picture topic to tell something in detail about what they did in Omaha." And then follows the story of the "Know Omaha" campaign.

PROGRAM OUT FOR THE COMMERCIAL TEACHERS' MEET

Programs for the annual convention of the Missouri Valley Commercial Teachers' association to be held in Omaha next month are being mailed out from the publicity bureau.

One of the features of the convention will be a lightning calculation contest in which all the arithmeticians attending the convention will enter. Some of the prominent speakers will be E. A. Douglas of Madison, Wis., a commercial school expert, and Miss Grace Borland of the Westport High school of Kansas City, who will deliver an address on rapid calculation.

HYMENEAL

Bates-Haskins.
MADISON, Neb., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The nuptials of Miss Nora Mae Haskins, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Haskins, and Mr. Richard H. Bates, eldest son of Judge and Mrs. William Bates of this city, were celebrated by nuptial high mass at St. Leonard's church at 9 o'clock this morning. Rev. Father Muench, pastor, officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Pearl Haskins, and Miss Rose Koef. Cousins of the groom, and the groom was accompanied by his brother, John Bates, and bride's brother, Harvey Haskins. At 10 o'clock at the home of the bride, a four-course wedding breakfast was served by the Misses Eva Jack, Bella Gillespie, Lydia Donovan, Euphrosyne Planch, Winnifred McCurdy of Madison and Miss Jean Conside of Platte Center. Places were spread for fifty guests. Table decorations were pink and white. Mr. and Mrs. Bates are well known and highly respected young people of Madison, having practically grown up in this town. Mr. Bates is assistant to the chief train dispatcher of the Union Pacific Railroad company, Omaha, where they will be at home to their many friends after a few days at Madison. This evening at the Haskins' opera house a magnificent reception followed by a buffet banquet and ball took place when Mr. and Mrs. Bates received the congratulations of a host of friends.

Knauss-Kingsbury.
Miss Verna E. Knauss, daughter of Samuel Knauss, and Mr. Leroy Kingsbury, were married by Rev. Charles W. Swaine at his residence, Tuesday morning at 11. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Hulabus. The entire party came from Defiance, Ia.

Movement of Grain Heavy Toward South

Taking advantage of the approach of low rates on grain to the gulf, the Missouri Pacific is doing an immense business hauling wheat and corn to New Orleans. Tuesday the roas took out from Omaha twenty cars and Wednesday loaded out thirty-five. It has a standing order for hauling not less than twenty-five cars daily all this and next week.

Owing to the fact that it has been securing the bulk of the business to New Orleans and Galveston since the rate became effective in September, the Missouri Pacific will make a strenuous effort to have the Interstate Commerce commission grant another extension until the first of the year, at least. The request will be opposed by the Omaha-Chicago roads, primarily because they are not getting the business, but their allegation will be that the haul to the gulf is worth a greater compensation than is being received by the Missouri Pacific.

Bride-Elect Rides in Stage to Lover

A twelve-hour ride in a stage coach on the eve of her marriage will be the experience of Miss Eva Stringham, stenographer to Superintendent E. U. Graft of the Omaha schools, who has given up her work and will leave Sunday for Craig, Colo., to become the bride of Clyde Hornbeck, rural school teacher.

Miss Stringham will arrive in Denver Monday. She will go from there to Steamboat Springs, and Tuesday morning will take the stage for a fifty-mile ride to Craig, seven miles from which town her lover owns a farm, on which they will make their home.

Miss Stringham will be married on Thanksgiving eve. The winter will be spent in Craig, and in the spring Mr. and Mrs. Hornbeck will move to his 160-acre ranch.

Division of Spoils Causes Police Tilt

Officers Carney and Ferris of the police department are at war over a military prisoner, and all efforts to agree to an armistice with the ultimate view of arranging peace terms have failed. They are unable to agree on a division of spoils.

Ferris has identified the prisoner as John Harder, a deserter from the navy. Carney arrested the man on three occasions for being drunk, but did not recognize him as a deserter. After the identification had been made Carney claimed half of the $50 reward. Ferris refused to split with his fellow officer.

Mascot of the Navy Station is Dead

"Peggy" for some time the mascot of the navy recruiting station and the personal property of Yeoman H. W. Gaustad, breathed its last Tuesday afternoon. "Peggy" was a shabby, short-tailed, long-eared piece of canine, but she had seen many countries. "Peggy" was first a stray dog picked up by Gaustad on the pier at San Francisco. She went to the orient, into Europe and even among the small islands of the South sea, but always remained with Gaustad. Now "Peggy" is wrapped up in a military coat awaiting military burial Thursday.

Young Highwaymen Do Professional Job

Seventy-five cents and a gold watch were taken by armed highwaymen from J. C. Kenny, 1746 South Twenty-second street, a short distance from his home, early yesterday. Both men appeared to be young, but the manner in which they performed their work showed that they were old at the game.

Chas. Welsh Robbed of Coat and Money

Charles Welsh lost $40 and a valuable overcoat Tuesday night, but he does not know how, where or when. He regained consciousness in police headquarters and sold off the coat he had been slugged and robbed in the vicinity of Ninth and Dodge streets by a negro, who struck him with brass knuckles.

Workman is Crushed Under Broken Crane

T. Wither, a laborer, was seriously and probably fatally injured yesterday while at work on the Florence water main at Twenty-eighth and Port streets. He was working underneath a derrick which collapsed, fell upon him and crushed his chest. He was taken to Wise Memorial hospital.

Holmquist Head of Grain Exchange

J. W. Holmquist, head of the Holmquist Elevator company, was elected president of the Omaha Grain exchange at a meeting of the board of directors, succeeding Edward P. Park. J. W. Hynes and John A. Cavers were elected vice president, and Sherman Saunders was elected treasurer.

Man is Found Dead in Gas-Filled Room

Art Somers, a laborer, was found dead yesterday in a gas-filled room in Oxford hotel, Twelfth and Parnass streets. It is thought probably that the gas was turned on accidentally. Somers came here two days ago from Sioux City.

MOTOR IS STOLEN FROM MOTORBOAT ON LAKE

Arthur Mass, 219 Larimore avenue, had a motorboat. He still has the boat, but it is no longer a motorboat, because someone stole the engine within the last few weeks.

Mass had his boat docked near East Omaha. He discovered that someone had removed the motor from the boat, making it a motorless boat.

NORTH BELIEVES IN BACK TO THE SOIL

Sam North listened to the appeal of "back to the soil." While he is not a farmer, he is a land owner, and consequently happy.

Two years ago North invested some of his savings in 228 acres of Kimball county land at $2 per acre. The land is close to the Wyoming line and by no means the best in the county, but he has just been offered $30 cash per acre for the entire tract, a profit of $4,100 in a little less than two years on an investment of $2,240.
