

The Bee's Home Magazine Page

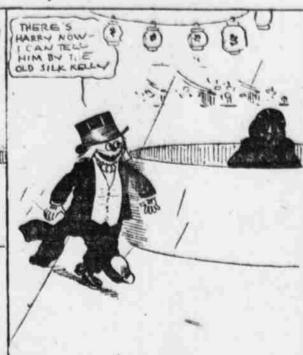

SILK HAT HARRY'S DIVORCE SUIT

The Judge Takes a Slant at the Horses

Drawn for The Bee by Tad

Married Life the Third Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

ment? Will you say that Mr. and Mrs.

Curtis are here. What's that?" sharply.

Helen was standing by listening breathlessly. The maid's shrill voice carried beyond the phone, but she could not

With a muttered exclamation Warren dammed up the receiver and strode toward the door. Helen followed, her heart

Outside Warren stalked along, his face rimson with rage. Helen had almost to run to keep beside him. A dozen breathless questions were whirling through her mind, but she dared not ask them. She was afraid to question him when he was

They had gone almost two blocks be fore he spoke. Then he snarled savagely

I'll get square-just wait and see.

"And hadn't left any message"

"Dawson will pay for this all right"

"But what did the maid say, dear?"

"Say? What could she say, but that

"But maybe some one was ill and sent

"Then why didn't they leave a mes-

"But dear, where are we going?" Helen

"We're not going home-nothing to eat

Another taxicab! But Helen did not in her throat. What could it mean?

what message did they leave?"

make out the words.

in a mood like this.

breathed Helen.

'Not a word.'

"Oh. I'm sorry, but we can't-we're dinner. I'll ring her back, you can talk diring out tonight. * * * "Isn't it too to her yourself." had? I should love to go!" * * * of Warren turned to a different bad? I should love to go!" * * * of and the boy connected him. Warren turned to a desk phone near by don't know," doubtfully, "hold the phone "Hello! Is this Mr. Dawson's apart-

-I'll ask him." Warren was putting his pearl stude in a dress shirt when Helen ran in excitedly. Oh. dear, the Stevens have a box for the 'Lost IIlusion' for tonight! They want us to cen't get there until Could we?" caserly.

Certainly not." frowning at a finger mark on his shirt front. "Nice time to invite us. "But the box was just given them evening - they couldn't ask us Well, if we dine with the Dawsons, we'll spend the evening there. Don't they'd gone out." think I'm going to rush off right after dinner, do you?" "No, I suppose not." murmured Helen, reluctantly, as she went back to the phone for them." suggested Helen soothingly. to tell Mrs. Stephens they could not go. t'an accident or something." But Mrs. Stevens insisted that she would leave a couple of seats at the box sage? No, nothing can excuse this. office in case they could come.

Now harry up there," called Warren, was hobbling along painfully in her thin as Helen went back to her dressing room. high-heeled slippers. 'Dawson said 7 o'clock-we don't want to there. Where are we now " for in his

Mr. Dawson was a new business friend lage he had walked blindly on, not noticof Warren's, and while Helen and Mrs. ling where they went. 'We'll take a taxi

Dawson had exchanged calls, this was and go to some restaurant." their first dinner. manded Warren, as a few moments later seated on an expensive uptown restaur. fault.

lielen came out drawing on her long ant, she could only look on unhappily, "Why, yes, dear; it's only a dinner. We dinner. It seemed as though he was needn't go so formally, need we?"

going to right. Take off that hat. I've tention a waiter always gives to a lavish order seemed also soothing. ordered a taxt." "A taxl. Oh, couldn't we have gone in Helen saw his savage frown gradually the subway?

Helen went back, took off her hat timidly: thought too dressy for the subway. But could come." since they were going in a cab, she might Warren glanced at his watch. "Suppose A moment later the taxicab was announced.

little more would not matter. "It's too bad that everything should come in one night," murmured Helen, as they drove off. "That was the play I was so anxious to see-the 'Lost Illusion.' and this is the last week." the right of the stage.

Well, it's a darn sight more important to dine with Dawson than go to As they entered Mr. and Mrs. Stevens that to dine with Dawson than go to rose with whispeged greetings. Then to swer, "It is the easiest thing in the world the same with the control of the contro any play. He's pulled off some mighty big deals lately, and if I can interest him in our company, it'll mean a whole lot. While I think of it, he's got a fine collection of old prints-that's his hobby. He'll probably show them, so for heaven's sake, try to seem interested. Don't sit ticed. like you did the other night when Wilson showed us those coins. By George, you pered Helen, refusing to let Mr. Stevens implored. booked bored to death."

"Why, dear, I didn't," indignantly. "Only I don't know anything about coins, and I thought it better to keep still than . to make stupid comments."

Don't know anything either," admitted Warren, "but I faked it, and you can, too. If you want to." This did not add to Helen's prospect of a pleasant evening. It was hard enough for her to dine with comparative strangers, but to feel that she must try to talk and pretend a knowledge of some-ways terrified her. The cab drew up before the imposing intrance of the "Kensington Arms." uniformed haliman opened the door.

thing about which she knew nothing al-

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to see Mr. Dawson," Warren announced briefly to the boy at the switchboard.

Mr. Dawson is not in, sir," the boy informed them a moment later. 'Announce us to Mrs. Dawson, then." said Warren curtly

Another moment's wait and then the boy said stolidly;

'Mr. and Mrs. Dawson have both gone "Gone out?" murmured Helen in amaze-

THE BUILDING WAS GIVING A VERY GOOD IMITATION OF A TINDER BOX. FOURTEEN FIRE COMPANIES HAD BEEN CALLED TO DAMPEN THE ENTHUSIASM WITH WHICH IT BURNED. THE EXCITEMENT A WOMAN'S HEAD WAS SEEN TO APPEAR AT THE

TOP STORY WINDOW, AND SHE WAS HEARD TO SHOUT, AFLYER IN WALL STREET, WOULD THE STREET CLEANER?" LET 'IM UP -

S-S-SLEEP!

I COMMAND YUH!

H-5 A-L C-T.

HA! YOU ARE

NOW AN ANT-

EATER.

THEY RE ALL MARRIED

TROUBLES SELDOM COME SINGLY;

THE LITTLE DARLINGS WERE WITH NIMBLE FINGERS, THE OUT BIRD- NESTING. THEY DEALER STACKED THE CARDS, HAD ALREADY COLLECTED AND DEALT HIS OPPONENT UMPTY SPRAIN OF THEM, AND NEEDED BUT ONE MORE TO BRING THE NUMBER UP TO AN EVEN TWIRTY-THROO CARDS, AND BET HIS PILE.

FISH WAS KING OF THE DEEP WOULD THE COD LIVE A ROYAL LIFE?

DON'T YOU KNOW NOTHIN?

WAS INTENSE. SUDDENLY, SUDDENLY, ALGERNON SPIED A THE DEALER SAID IT WASN' NEST. AIMING HIS SLING-SHOT ENOUGH, SO HE RAISED THE
HE LET ER GO. DOWN CAME POT CLEANING THE OTHER THE NEST, PLUS A LITTLE BIRD GUY OF HIS LAST JITNEY.
BEFORE AL GY COULD CAPTURE THE LITTLE BIRD, IT
CHIRPED — "IF THE CODCHIRPED — "IF THE CODCHIR VACUUM, DOES ATMOSPHERE AW! JUST ONE MORE, BOYS D-DON'T N-NO-I'M THE

FOUR KINGS, GIVING HIMSELF FOUR BULLETS. THE OPPONENT

TOOK A HALF-NELSON ON THE

HA! NOW BOOB THAT TELL ME YOU KNOW W- WHO HIP IN WHO YOU GOOK? YUH? ARE HYP NOTIST

Says Divorce is Wife's Fault!

Happy in Wedlock, She Lectures Sisters

Seventy-five per cent of all unhappy "You're not going to wear a hat?" de- dare protest. And finally they were marriages are unhappy through the wife's

Mrs. Edward W. Hooke, by twentywhile Warran ordered an extravagant four years of uninterrupted marriage, has established her right to one of the proudest degrees of womanhood-H. W. trying to soothe his wounded vanity by Well, this is one of the places we're reckless expenditure. The obsequious at- (happy wife). Meeting her at clubs, at teas, at matinees, in the gymnasium, in any of the score of places where smart women congregate, one hears first tout relax under the pacifying effects of the she is a young woman of active mind. But Warren did not deign to answer food and wine. At length she ventured with marked executive ability, shown by her expable performance of the duties of and threw a light scarf over her hair. "Dear, couldn't we go to the theater, president of the International Pure Miss She also changed her shoes for a pair after all? Mrs. Stevers said she'd leave league. But while one woman is admirof evening slippers, which she had the tickets at the box office in case we ing her trig tailored suit and another observes that she has traveled so much and lived in so many of the large cities as well wear them. It was evident War- we might as well go there as anywhere." of this country that she is what the sol-Warren called another taxicab, but by itleians call "a good mixer," one who ren wanted her to look as well as she this time Helen was resigned a sort of knows her is sure to say, "she is the best desperate resignation. They had already wife I ever knew. She tichks it is easy spent so much money this evening-a to get along with one's husband."

Mrs. Hooke whisked into a teargom The tickets, marked with their name, for breathing space in a busy day, and i were at the box office. The curtain was asked her there if she agreed with the up and the usher led them through the trend of modern thought that marriage back of a darkened house to a box at is a hard job which the far-sighted woman declines to undertake.

"Bosh!" was Mrs. Hooke's brisk an-As they entered Mr. and Mrs. Stevens Helen's horror she realized that the two to make one's marriage a happy one and people in the box were Mr. and Mrs. a man is the easiest thing in the world Dawson. Fortunately the theater was so to manage. All one has to do is to bring dark that her involuntary start and the it down to the basis of a business propoexpression of Warren's face were not no. sition."

"You are not advocating the un-Amer-"No-no, we'll sit back here," whis. ican idea of marriage for money?"

"I promise you not to do that, for I don't believe in it. But the difficulties that come up in marriage can be settled as they are in a business partnership. If two business partners disagree about something they don't think at once of business dissolution. They argue the matter out earnestly, but not offensively and reach a bedrock of understanding on the essential points. That is what the reasonable wife does."

"Are not most wives reasonable"? "Far from it. Seventy-five per cent of all the unhappy marriages are made un "Why, yes: you haven't forgotten you're happy by the wives. Three-fourths of the separations and divorces could be prevented if the women did their share in the business partnership.

The greatest fault of women in marplace this evening. We were on our way ried life is their extravagance. Yes, I uptown to a Bohemian club dinner and know about the women who work hard thought you and Mrs. Dawson might in their homes and bring up well a large such a tax on the memory, but that when can't afford. And maybe they don't in- ply stations.

"Extended to be I haven't been inside a ... 'Most women, have not the excuse that is positively wicked." frank, and so let us find the real romance.

Warren had always said he stuck to women. Perhaps they don't go down sens were started for, but careless house- enough self-control to live within his the truth when he could—as it was not town and buy a dress they know they keepers have made them the family sup- earnings. They see a gown they like, think they must have it, order it, and hang back and scowl. it was necessary he could "lie magnificalist upon living in an exclusive locality. "I know a professional man who showed when their husbands say they can't of "young cowboy," and you know you've cently." And this was a sample of his or a garish apartment house, when they me his books to let me see what a profit- ford it there is a quarrel. The man may the marriage failures are due to the done wrong," stop doing it this instant. would be better off in an old-fashioned able month he had. But he closed the need a pair of shoes, but that makes no selfisiness of men. But I will say this you little gump you or all the romance books with a bang and asked me not to difference to the woman, who most have for them, they go into the marriage -that is, real romance-will fade from "Of course not." scoffed Warren "That's Dawson's? Helen knew if it had been "But they do use poor judgment, which tell his wife how much he had made. If the dress. Women seem to chloroform partnership with the intention of remain- your poor disappointed life, and you'll be a mistake. Now you get this thing right." Warren's he would probably not admit is a form of extravagance, in buying you did she would go down to the sheps their consciences in these matters. No ing with the firm for life. Many women an old cowboy with a very bad taste in severely to the boy. "I want you to and it. But, at least, the fault was not hers, food. Delicatessens flourish and their and spend every cent of it before night." Wonder men say that we have no sense don't. They become engaged to marry your mouth and not a real friend in the to Warren bimself. For once something them the mainstays of the household in- harsh, but I've since learned he was "The other twenty-five per cent of themselves: 'If this doesn't turn out well Come, let's be good, let's be honest, let's

A Cowboy's Song

By WINIFRED BLACK.

"Ten thousand cattle straying." What cheeks and the loose mouth," Nature has is it that the soft little voice is trying to put her sign upon you. You need not sing so bravely? They've left my herds and wandered place.

What a voice i is, to be sure. voice made up of piping winds and the soft whisper of the great dablias that stand so tall and brave against the garden watt pretending that there is no such thing as frost, And what orave little figure it is which stands. there in the strong November sunshine singing his manual song of herds and strays. They've scattered my herds, my herds brought shame on an honest name. What Dear little boy. How far, how is there picturesque in that?

wrong." What a swing to the shoulders about so sentimentally. of the boy who almost cried yesterday when the puppy scratched him.

ner of wrong doing and whom did you and an older one. harm by It?

"I know I've done "rong young cowboy? And are you really ashamed of what you did, or do you glory In it after the witiess fashion of some foolish men?

a gay dog in my young days. Ah, indeed, do you think you have to tell us face of a shen hue, you with the bloated heartlessness. Women get out of bed unwillingly and shuffle about all morning in a kimono and slippers. Husband goes downtown and meets an attractive There's a name that never's spoken. women who dresses daintily, who seems to admire him and who makes an effort to be entertaining goes home and finds a wife who inter- somehowrupts what he thinks a good story by saying: 'Dear, I saw a lovely hat marked down to $10.98 that I really must have.'

There's a mother tired of living. There's a picture that is tur-n-e-d toward the w-n-n-n-i-i-i. He thinks. How did I ever happen to macry this woman?"

grown-up children. When the man's above and around all the while! day's work is done be comes home in the mood of a boy, expecting to be fools- Pictures that were turned toward amused. He wants a wife who will talk entertainingly to him and will pass along wandering predigats in petticoats, poor anything worth while she has heard during the day. If he has a wife who is | One I found was a butcher's daughter good fon at home he wun't be so liab's who was too lary to work, and one was a to go out to clubs and the way to start it right is to give and one was a selfish, vain creature who him a good breakfast and share it with wanted more fine clothes than her honest, him Many a man who goes downtown hardworking mother could buy for her. and does good work begins the day with so she took the "easiest way." Heaven muddy coffee he makes himself. You've their own breakfasts. And there is a vast number of wives who are still. Poor Hilds, sitting on her wash tubs, lounging in bed when their husbands waiting for Ole to come and take her begin the day's work.

pretends to be.

that lie at women's doors, prove that the unselfishness of our sex has been overrated. It is the selfishness of women that Poor things! Poor, feeble, foolish. ringes that fa'l.

even though you don't intend to buy, Men thing. toward the window his wife is sure to with your tales of romantic wickedness.

with a mental reservation. They say to whole round world.

bawl your sins so loud in the market Who do you suppose first sang that strange chanting song you whoop so joyously, little boy? Some man sitting at a camp fire in the far west. I suppose, and all the other wanderers around the fire listened and found their cheeks wet with tears that were no credit to them-perhaps. How remartic it sounds-"I know I've done wrong'-and yet what the young cowboy did was doubtless prosaic enough if you knew the truth. Stole somebody's old bay mare, most like; ran away with the preacher's daughter, lied to her and left her alone and friendless in some frontler town to die forgotten-except in the centimental moment of song around the camp tire. Broke the heart of the mother who worked her fingers to the bone for him;

far, shall you wander before you lie down | Drank more than was good for him to rest, and who shall lead your herds and rode his pony over some poor bride's for you into what strange lands, I won- little flower garden that she was trying to make homey out there on the edge of Hark. The song changes: "For I'm a things. What a pitiful, sordid, cheap young cowboy and I know I've done thing this "doing wrong" is they sing

I remember once I sailed a tropic sea with the water the color of a purple pe-"I'm a young cowboy and I know I've tunia, with silver gleams in it that spardone wrong." Have you indeed, young kied like magic jewels. And on the ship sir, and what, pray tell, was your man- that carried us were three young women

The young women were not pretty, ex-A friend who trusted you? Oh, never cept as all young things are pretty. They that, I hope. Then a woman who be- were not clever either, and they work Heved you. Not that, not that, fittle the most astonishing clothes in the most boy. And how bravely you troll it out, astonishing way. The old woman was a horror. I could not look upon her cruel What did you do to right the wrong, race and cold eyes and loose and greedy mouth without a shudder. She took the young women with her lo far lands to make money to pour inte I have heard them often boast: "I was her vulture-like talons, and she sat in the strong sunshine and blinked at them and fairly counted their poor young bones. that, you with the shaking hands and the one by one, and smacked her lips at the thought of what fine eating they would be for her and her kind. And all the way down the purple sea theze three young women sat on deck and held one another's hands and sang a song wonderfully popular in that day.

There's a promise that is broken.

There's lust one more that's missing from the old home, that is all. Oh, what a dying fall they gave that "He rememberers the kimono and he line. Pathetic it was meant to be, but

"There's a father unforgiving

-How it caterwanted out into the soft night and drawned even the cry of the "Men are only kids. We are all only hungry guils that wheeled and circled waitress in a cheap boarding house who "A man's day must be started right, | "wouldn't take nothin," from the cook, pity those who think it so, and there was no idea how many men in this town get not a thing the least remantic about one of them.

> How romantic they felt, the poor-young the wal,"-and how picturesque those things!

to the Sweet Roses mask ball, is more a "Men are fickle creatures, and if the figure of romance than they. The good day begins badly and ends badly at home little Irish girl who works all day to they are likely to turn for comfort to rave a few dollars a month to send across the black waters to those who w man who is more thoughtful-or pine at home by the peat fire is a thought of the pine at home by the peat fire is a thought of the peat fire is a though of the peat fire is a thought of the peat fire is a thought of The 75 per cent of marriage failures, sand times more romantie; but just think, her picture will never be "turned toward the wall."

is to blame for three-fours of the mar- selfish, wicked things. When will they learn that the only real romance comes "Most men are less selfish than we are, with sacrifice and devotion and honor and Take the show window gazing habit. You purity" You can't even be really beautiknow yourself how bard it is to get past ful unless you are good. And you aren't a show window full of pretty things, even claver unless you do the decent will stop and look into the show windows "Ten thousand cattle sirsying. Come with us, though they are not interested, home, little boy, come home. Wear the But there are show windows that inter- red bandams knotted at your brown broad of little ones. But with all their delicatessen once in two years, because often offered for them that they don't est men-tobaccolsts' and huberdashers' throat; tip that canvas hat of yours at Helen bit her lips, and bent lower over virtues of patience and loyalty many of the household machinery hasn't broken know how much their husband carns. windows. When do you see a woman a rackish angle over your funny, chubby them have that great marital fault of down but once. That is what delicates. They do know it, but they have not standing beside her husband and looking little face; frown desperately at the puppy into such windows? If a man edges if you like; but you shall not cozen me

If you are, as you so brazenly chant, a marriage failures are due to women's I can get a divorce and ar again, a be fair, let's be open-hearted, let's be nounce Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to Mr. Daws for Mr. Dawson had phoned the invitation owners grow rich because women make he said. At the time I thought he was of justice. son's aportment" "Well, I had their maid on the wire," had happened for which alls could not be stead of the emergency stations they are right.

place their chairs in the front of the Happily it was a long scene, and Helen had time to regain her poise. "Act as though nothing had happened," she whispered pleadingly to Warren behind her program.

But he only growled a curt "Hush." "I'm so glad you could come," smiled Mrs. Dawson, turning cordially to Helen. "We hadn't hoped to see you before tomorrow evening." "Tomorrow evening!" gasped Helen.

to dine with us?" "Oh, no," broke in Warren heartily. "We're looking forward to that. And, by the way. Dawson; we drove by your like to join us."

her program. art. Whose mistake had it been-his or Mr. side street