did she tiptoe, and why did she raise her arm? If anyone had asked her she would, perhaps, have said: "I wanted to be careful." Perhaps that is why Mr. Landow makes the motions she objected to; he wants to be careful. And perhaps as a result of that care he gives un those

If it takes a large number of people, from several prominent ministers of the gospel to the entire police force to keep the lid on in the city government, how many people does it take, from performance to the control of the city of th ing artists to scene shifters, to relate the plane lid at one concert?

We have seen many wonderful things at recitals, many feats of agility, and in our youth we once heard of a planist who our youth we once heard of a planist who played a note with his nose in the middle of the piano; but we never before saw a soloist at a recital get behind his 'cello and look at his watch in the middle of his number. As a result of this amazing performance, an Omaha audience swallowed the last delicious morsels of an instrumental solo whole.

We have been the victim of some dread ful musical daffydilis, that will bloom ir this department next week.

Miss Emily Cleve gives her recital December 10, at the First Baptist church, assisted by Martin W. Bush. She will open with the Vieuxtemps concerto in A minor. The program is most attractive, Among the numbers is a luliaby arranged from Schumann by Mischa Elman, and a poem by Fibleh-Kubelik. Other well poem by Fibich-Kubelik. Other well known numbers appear on the program, and the last number is a polonaise de concert by Ferd. Laub.

Max Frederic McCullough, a teacher of voice and piano, has established the McCullough studio, at 1821 Binney street.

The choir of St. Patrick's church, assisted by some of the best talent in the city, will give a sacred concert in the beautiful new church at Fourteenth and Castellar streets at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The snacious new church and sweet-toned pine organ is a fine place for this concert to be held. The program is made up of solos on organ by Miss Judge, violin solos by Mr. Cox, vocal solos by Miss Agnes Warham.
Harry V. Burkley, John McCreary, and Mrs. Leo Hoffman. Several choral numbers will also be given. Mr. Landsberg, Mr. Pryor and Mr. McMillan are directors.

After being advertised three times. Alice Nielsen is at last to sing in Omaha on next Thursday evening. For several years past Miss Nielsen has been a member of the Boston Opera company, but this season she is a regular member of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, as well.

It has been just five years since she made her first bid for operatic popularity in her own country and it was Henry Russell who predicted her success. Critics say: "While Alice Nielsen's voice has broadened with time and study, it still retains that native charm and apontancity which cannot be acquired by artifice. Her captivating personality and sparkling manner carry a strong appeal." Miss Nielsen's program comprises German, French 'tlalian and English songs, eighteen in number. She will be assisted at the piano by Maestro Fabio Rimini.

The next meeting of the music department of the Omaha Woman's club will be Thursday. December 12, at 2:15 p. m. at the Metropolitan club. Leader, Miss Ruth Ganson. Hungarian program in charge of Mr. Henry Cox. Hustrated talk on the characteristic rhythms and tonality of Hungarian music and the use made of Hungarian folk songs by Brahms, Liszt, etc.

We are highly pleased---

With the overwhelming response from Christmas Gift Shoppers to our recent statement of facts regarding our immense stock of hand manufactured Diamond Jewelry. As you know, this magnificent load of Gems came from that staunch and reliable old New York firm-Katz & Leudan, 87 Nassau Street.

Our Christmas business to date shows this one thing for certain: The big majority of people really want to buy refined, distinct and quality-marked Jewelry in preference to the make-believe, machine-stamped lots that crop out so plentifully in every alley of trade, especially close to Christmas.

The reason why everybody does not always buy the real kind, is because prices have generally been ridiculously high. It has been the same old tragic story of the hard-earned, battered and withall cherished

Dollar that would not stretch far enough

To stretch the Dollars, however, is just exactly what we have accomplished so successfully by aid of our experience and mechanical insight combined with financial stability of 28 years' growth. We stretched our Cash Dollars last fall at the ratio of 1 to 2.10. We bought real hand made and classy Diamond

Jewelry, platinum mounted or set in 14 or 18 carat Gold, at 45% of the closest Manufacturer's Price.

At ordinary prices only a limited amount of this kind of Jewelry could be sold in Omaha or any other western city. The average Christmas Dollar would not stretch far enough to reach it, and some inferior article would have to suffice.

Thanks to our big catch in the manufacturing market, the Dollars of any Christmas Shopper may be stretched to cover that class of Jewelry which everybody really wants, but which many buyers are permitted only to look wistfully upon. During the next two weeks IT'S UP TO YOU!
