Offer of the Union Pacific's holdings of Southern Pacific stock to Southern Paoffic stockholders as the most probable move suggests that including the rights SO SAYS WALL STREET PAPER of holders of the $81,151,910 Southern Pacific convertible bonds the $126,650,000 Southern Pacific stock held by Union Pacific would be offered to the holders of the equivalent of $308,500,000 Southern Paoffic stock, or in the ratio of about 30 per cent of their present holdings. Were the stock offered at par the rights at the present market of around 108 would be worth, theoretically, about $2.

There is no reason to expect retirement of the Oregon Short Line refunding 4s under which Union Pacific's $108,000,000 Southern Pacific stock is pledged. The Indenture provides for the substitution of other collateral and Union Pacific has is a possibility of moderate rights on over $300,000,000 unpledged securities on which to draw for substitutes. Moreover,$55,000,000 of the $100,000,000 Short Line bonds are in the Union Pacific treasury and the indenture provides that these may be deposited as partial security for cific stock, requiring the deposit of comparatively little additional collateral to release the remaining $28,000,000 stock. So Southern Pacific stock to Union Pacific far as the separation of Union and Southern Pacifics offer little obstacle.
