PRESSURE BROUGHT TO BEAR

Prominent lowns Taking Pains to Bring About United Party Before Control of Federal Offices Goes Into Other Hands.

(From a Staff Correspondent, DES MOINES, 1a. Dec. 8 - (Special.) During the coming winter it is expected there will be interesting developments as to the political situation in Iowa affecting the future in state politics as well as in a national way. Already the tockeying is under way as to the federal offices in lowa yet to be distributed under the present national administration. The fight started with the disposal of the postoffice at Marshalltown. The prestent, upon the recommendation of Congreeman Good, long agan apointed County Chairman Devine, but later held this mp on the urgency of Governor Carroll and some others, and now has appointed M. S. McFarland, against the protests of the member of congress and the entire congresional delegation. This will be fought out in the senate. Now leading republicans have been seeing the president with s view to having him make appointments to office in the fereral positions that can and will be confirmed by the senate, and that will tend to give direction to the work of reorganizing the party in this The delegation united in recommending persons for the attoney, marshal and collector in each of the two districts. The president refuses to appoint these men. Protest has been lodged with the president by an influential number of low a men and he is being urged to make un entire new slate of appointments. Deveiopments at Washington are being close'y watched. At the same time there is much lockeying with reference to the legislature and the state offices. It is known that the prevailing sentiment among the republicans in the legislature is like that in the republican congressional delegation, but an effort is being made to secure compromises and leave the way open for a united party. It is expected that the egislature will lay aside all factionalism and devote itself to good legislation. Yet, the political phases of the situation as it s is likely to be developed during the session wil have a very important bearng on the republican party in Iowa.

The only political activity shown at the present time in the state is by the local eaders of the progressive party, who are asserting that they intend to go right n with the campaign from year to year. be addressed by Senator Beveridge or who are chiefly concerned in this case are high compared to the earnings of not put into office in any county of the tions state, or any district, a single one of their candidates for office, they declare they will continue to be active in promoting their party.

Important Questions at Issue. The lows railroad commission has b sued a statement as to the issues involved in the important lown rate cases just submitted to the Interstate Commerce commission, upon which the demand for reduction and revision of rates from the cast is made, declaring the following to be the principal contentions.

The rates at issue are excessive, un-easonable and injustly discriminatory occuse of the high proportional between reasonable because of the high proportional between the Mississippi river and points in Iowa upon the Missioni river, amounting to 55 cents per 150 bounds first class and pro-portionately lower for the other classes. Mississippi river.

combination of locals at the Mississippl river, thereby creating a rate situation which permits such cities as St. Louis, Chicago, Peorla, Cincinnati, etc., to drive the lowa cities out of practically all competitive territory in the United States west of the Missouri river and east of Ulbras.

The carriers have made an absurd and unreasonable distribution across the state of towa of the 55-cent differential between the rivers, while the similarity in conditions would justify an equitable distribution across the state we find that distribution across the state, we find that more than one-half of the said 16-cent differential is absorbed within the first tier of counties after you have crossed the Mississippi river, thereby producing proportionals west of the said river that are excessively high, unjust and uneasonable.

The rates at issue on eastbound shipments are excessive, unjust, unreasonable and unduly discriminatory, because they are higher than the westbound ship-ments on the same railroads between the same points on the same articles. The rates at issue are unjust and unreasonable because the proportionals west of the Mississippi river are different for hauls originating at different points in the east, although the said proportionals west of the river are charged for services rendered by western carriers which are identically the same in each case what-ever may be the point of origin in the east . The rates at issue are unjust and unreasonable in themselves because the earnings from the proportionals added for the hauls west of the Mississippi river are excessively high compared to: The carnings of these same carriers on local traffic in the same territory; the earn-ings of these same carriers between Chi-cago and the Mississippi river; the averall their traffic

Judge Ralph S. Latshaw dismissed all the complaints today. The judge pointed out that the Kansas law forbade the marriage of first cousins. Therefore, in the eyes of the law. Brake had neither wife nor child when he married Miss Ayres, and had committed no crime. However, the court ordered Brake to give bond that he would care for the child, and the Kansas authorities may prosecute him for making a false declaration of his relationship to the woman he took the mails, were allowed their liberty on
