WILLIAMS CASE UP TO COURT

Rehearing of Douglas Election Controversy Before High Judges.

NUMBER OF QUESTIONS ASKED

Ben S. Baker insists that Same Right Lies in Thirty Years' Citizenship as in Citizenship of Man Fresh from Abroad.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, May 22.—(Special.)—The rehearing before the supreme court on the Douglas election case of Rev. John Williams against Morehead was argued this morning before the court. Attorneys Ben Baker and Simeon of Omaha and Assistant Attorney General Edgerton addressed the court.

In speaking on behalf of Father Williams, who had been denied the right to register by making oath that he was a naturalized citizen, Mr. Baker said that Mr. Williams had been a citizen of the United States for over thirty years and as a naturalized citizen he had voted at the elections.

"The courts cannot naturalize a naturalized citizen," said Mr. Baker. "Mr. Morehead as election commissioner had no right to deny Mr. Williams the opportunity of making oath to his citizenship."

A neighbor of Mr. Williams in Ireland, fresh from that country with the clothes on his back purchased in Ireland, could step up to the commissioner and swear he was a naturalized citizen and his oath as such would be taken, but when Mr. Williams, also a native of Ireland, but now a naturalized citizen of the United States, steps up to Mr. Morehead and says he has lost his papers, then Mr. Morehead refuses to allow him to swear that he is naturalized and demands his naturalization papers, which Mr. Williams is ready to swear have been lost. The right of citizenship is too valuable to let one man step in between the citizen and the constitution.

Mr. Edgerton for the state had not proceeded far before he was interrupted by Justice Linton, who insisted in wanting to know if there had been any record made of the answers made by Mr. Williams when he appeared for registration. "The law says that certain questions shall be asked the applicant and answers made." The record makes no showing of this kind. Justices Fawcett, Sedgwick and Hamer also asked some questions regarding the matter before Mr. Edgerton finished.

NORTH PLATTE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ELECTS

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., May 22.—(Special.)—The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in the Masonic hall in this city Wednesday evening and officers for the ensuing year were elected. E. F. Seeburger was re-elected president and M. J. Forbes, vice president. The following members of the board of directors were also re-elected: I. L. Bare, J. Q. Wilcox, T. C. Patterson, W. P. Snyder and Harry Dixon. M. E. Crosby and O. E. Elder were elected as new members of the board of directors.

The principal subject discussed was the new bridge to be erected across the North Platte River, east of this city. The sentiment was unanimous in favor of voting bonds of the city of North Platte in the sum of $12,000 to aid in the construction of this bridge. This bridge will shorten the distance of the Lincoln Highway fourteen miles instead of eight miles, as was stated in a former dispatch. It will also permit the Lincoln Highway to follow the Union Pacific railroad more closely. The present route traveled leaves Gothenburg to the south and then follows along the foot hills south of the Platte river until a point is reached about four miles south of North Platte.

A Real Office Bargain—

Ordinarily, there are no bargains to be offered in the way of offices in a building like ours. All we pretend to do is to give the best that can be obtained and at a reasonable price, but here is an office which is priced way below its real value to someone who can use it to advantage.

It's an outside and corner room facing north. It is 26x20, with a large vault. As an office, it is in every respect just as desirable as the same rooms at the other corners of the building, which rent for $10.00 to $10.00 a month.

The reason the price of this one is made $30.00, is because the sign on the door cannot be seen from the corridor, which for some concerns is a disadvantage.

For someone who does not care about this feature, the room is an immense bargain.
