

HOPE HANSEN WILL ESCAPE

Editor Polcar and His Advisers Rely on Legal Technicalities.

PLAN PERFECTLY GOOD ALIBI

Conference Held to Arrange Story that Will Exonerate Them from Further Public Condemnation.

Breathing more easily for an interval by reason of having persuaded themselves that T. G. Hansen, who in the employ of the Daily News tried to make grafters of city officials, cannot be brought back to Omaha on account of legal quibbles in the way, Editor Joe Polcar's attorneys are reported busy trying to find a loophole of escape from public indignation.

In Conference Friday. A conference of these worthies was held yesterday, during which it is said sighs of relief were breathed because of an assurance that Hansen cannot be forcibly brought back. The object of the plotters now, it is reported, is to formulate a plausible statement which the public will accept as exoneration for them. Mayor Dahlman's challenge to produce Hansen and fight the issue out in the open is said not to be even considered. Possible legal technicalities have not deterred Steve Maloney, chief of detectives, who is in Chicago to bring Hansen here, for he has sent back communications saying that he fully expects to be successful in his mission. It is known, however, that he must meet a fight of considerable dimensions because Burns and his clients are pulling every way they can lay hands on and are willing to spend whatever money is needed to keep Hansen away.

Why Do They Object? "If Hansen is not guilty of having conspired with Editor Polcar to corrupt city officials, then why should any objection be made to bringing him back here and allowing him to tell his story?" asked Mayor Dahlman. "There should be no objection to allowing Hansen to come back if he knows nothing that would incriminate Polcar. I don't understand why any fight should be made to keep him away if he and Polcar and the Burns agency are all so innocent."

Money Comes for Man Leaving Hotel and Not Taking Baggage

To move from his hotel and leave his baggage behind because he had no money with which to pay his bill, and then to have a registered letter and remittance come for him the next day without his knowledge, is the jocular situation of which a Kansas City man is the unconscious victim. While he is spending his time in parts unknown and cursing the luck that left him stranded, Hotel Rome holds his trunk and other baggage, and a delayed remittance from his firm.

SPRY FINED FOR SELLING LIQUOR AFTER LEGAL HOURS

Clem Spry, saloon keeper at 523 North Sixteenth street, charged with keeping a disorderly house and selling liquor after hours, was fined $50 in police court. Thomas B. McKenna, who transacted a sale of a bottle of beer to Officer Peterson after hours, was given ten days' suspended sentence. Attorney P. Bowen for Spry said to Peterson in the course of the hearing: "You ought to be on the Orpheum circuit instead of on the police force."

WM. YUKER NOT GUILTY OF VIOLATING LIQUOR LAWS

William Yaker, steward at the Theatrical Mechanic's Association club rooms, was found by Judge Sears to be not guilty of illegally dispensing liquor. The jurist maintained that he could not convict Yaker without doubt. The hearing of the case took place several weeks ago and is the outcome of repeated raids made by the police upon the club rooms of the organization.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Hoagland

A double party was held last night at the George A. Hoagland home, Forty-eighth and Cass streets, in Dundee. The occasion was the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland, who have lived in Omaha continuously since before their marriage, and the fifth birthday of their little grandson, David Lamb Stone, Jr., one of the children of Captain and Mrs. David L. Stone.

In honor of the golden anniversary of the marriage of the well known couple, their four children and their families assembled at the Hoagland home for a reunion. The grandchildren also had a birthday party for little David, so the day was one of keen enjoyment for Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland and all their relatives, in celebrating the two events in the family history.

As an additional feature of the festivities, it happened that Wednesday was Mr. Hoagland's birthday, and a surprise dinner party was given for him by Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Summers, the latter being a daughter, Mr. Hoagland's sister, Mrs. B. R. Vineyard, and her son, George, came from St. Joseph for the event and the anniversary celebration.

The latter affair was certainly a true reunion of the Hoagland family, for they have not all been together until now for a number of years. This has been due to the fact that Mrs. Stone, one of the daughters, has been in Honolulu with her husband, who was until recently on duty there with the army. They returned to Omaha only last Saturday.

Although Friday was their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland had insisted that it should be simple and quiet. The celebration consisted merely of the reunion and dinner, with all the children, grandchildren and visiting relatives. The little folks had a table of their own, and a birthday cake with five candles for David.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland, Mrs. Vineyard and her son, those who attended the golden wedding anniversary party were the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland, and their families, as follows:

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Summers and son, Stuart. Their older son, Jack, was not present, as he is attending Kent school in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Will W. Hoagland and three children, Helen Edith, Emma Ianthie and William Boothroyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoagland and four children, George Appleton, St. Jackson, Paul, Jr., and Laurance Reddington. Captain and Mrs. David L. Stone and three children, Ianthie Virginia, David Lamb, Jr., and Helen Margaret.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland have been prominent in the building up of Omaha and were among the largest donors for the building of the Young Men's Christian association.

Mrs. Hoagland started the Emma Hoagland Flower Mission about twenty years ago in memory of her daughter, the late Emma Hoagland. The Flower Mission is composed of a number of young women who take flowers to the hospitals every Thursday the year round. Mr. Hoagland, who is one of the leading business men of Omaha, is also one of the greatest fishermen of Omaha. He spends several months each year at the lakes in Minnesota and each winter goes to the Gulf of Mexico for fishing and hunting. Fortunately the fish were not biting this week at Lake Jefferson, so he arrived home in time to celebrate his birthday Wednesday.

Mrs. Hoagland, who was Miss Ianthie C. Wyman, came to Omaha in June, 1888, with her parents from Madison, Wis. Mr. Hoagland came from St. Joseph in 1881, to take charge of his father's lumber yard here. They were married in 1884, before the civil war closed. For many years they lived at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Howard streets, where now stands the building occupied by Thompson & Boldon and Orchard & Wilhelm. Their house in Dundee, where they now live, was moved from the downtown location more than ten years ago.

The waist store of Omaha will offer Saturday scores of clever new waists that just arrived at $1.95, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00. The materials are crepe-de-chine, orandy and voile. Be sure to see them.
