

DO NOT FEAR A RECEIVERSHIP

Union Pacific Officials Say No Change to Be Made for a While.

CARRY FIGHT TO HIGHER COURT

It is Expected that Union Pacific Will Continue to Have a Hand in its Operation Under Bond Approved by the Court.

According to the Associated Press version of the decision of Federal Judge T. C. Minger, handed down at Lincoln yesterday, the control of the affairs of the St. Joseph & Grand Island railroad must be given over to the minority stockholders by the Union Pacific within sixty days, or a receiver will be appointed to take charge and operate the property.

Union Pacific officials and Union Pacific attorneys are pretty thoroughly convinced that it will be many times sixty days before they will have to give up the Grand Island road, or before it goes into the hands of a receiver.

Road's Attorneys Silent. Neither General Solicitor Loomis nor General Attorney Rich of the Union Pacific would discuss the decision of the court, yet they were free to admit that it will be considerable more than sixty days before there is any separation of the merger or a receivership.

Continued to Operate. In the meantime, and pending the years of litigation, the Union Pacific, under a bond approved by federal court, would continue to have a hand in the operations of the Grand Island road.

According to the Union Pacific attorneys, the real issue hinges upon whether or not the Union Pacific's operation in connection with the Grand Island road is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. They contend that it is not, while the other hand, attorneys for the minority stockholders take the position that such operation is an open violation of the provisions of the law.

Union Pacific officials contend that if the Grand Island road should be operated as an independent line its revenues would not pay expenses, as the business that would originate at and between terminal points would be so insignificant that it would hardly pay the cost of running trains. However, being fed by the Union Pacific main line and taking over a vast amount of business at Hastings and Grand Island, turned to it from the main line, it makes a fairly good profit.

AD CLUB MEN TO GO TO TORONTO CONVENTION

The Burlington will carry the Nebraska members of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America to the national convention that will be held in Toronto June 21-25. The advertising clubs of Nebraska propose to make this a boating trip for the state, and it now looks as if the attendance from Omaha and other Nebraska towns would be around 150. A rate of $31.10 has been made for the round trip. Victor White of the Omaha Ad club is chairman of the committee that has charge of arrangements.
