

MEAT HIGH, GREENS LOWER

Such is Present Status of the Local Market Stocks.

CHICKENS ARE DOWN A LITTLE

Barrened Pheasants Slump Five Cents a Pound Over a Good Many Retail Counters Since Last Week.

Meat high and garden produce abundant and cheap, in a nutshell the market condition in the grocery and produce stores. For a while radishes, both red and the long white variety, can be had eight bunches for a nickel. Veal and lamb chops are so high that people are actually holding off and refusing to buy them to a large extent. While cabbage can be had at 2 1/2 cents a pound and onions are tossed out in generous bunches for a nickel, and white red beets are 4 cents a bunch, smoked meats are climbing higher and higher with the approach of the warm weather.

Yet there is a little relief in the meat market this year. During the last few days the heavy grades of beef have come down a little. The heavy corned stock is still coming to the market and a decline of about 1/2 a hundred wholesale has been witnessed on the heavy beef.

Again, while tarbals have gone so high that even the packers don't like to buy them on the hoof and the consumers can scarcely afford to buy them for the table, it is possible to turn to chicken with some promise of relief. For chickens are down fully a nickel retail since a week ago. In some of the retail stores handling large quantities, they are being sold even more than a nickel below what they were a few weeks ago. Hens that brought 30 cents a pound a week ago, can now be had quite readily for 26 cents.

Spring chickens are on the market in limited quantities. They are held to the stiff price of around 45 cents a pound. The price is almost prohibitive and the demand for this reason is very limited.

Large green cucumbers are on the market at prices ranging from 5 to 7 1/2 and 10 cents apiece. Ripe tomatoes are still remaining at 10 cents a pound, for there are as yet no home grown ones. The supply is scant even at that price.

Board of Governors Reports a Splendid Fete at St. Louis

C. H. Pickens wires from St. Louis that the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben as special envoys from Omaha witnessed the St. Louis Pageant and masque Thursday evening. Mr. Pickens described the event as one of the most wonderful performances of its kind, it lasting over four hours before an enthusiastic audience of 150,000 persons. The board of governors attended as a result of the invitation of the St. Louis mayor to the forty-nine cities in the United States to send envoys to the annual event.

JOHN CEPLECA OF BURWELL CAMPAIGNING WITH RED INK

Campaigning in red ink is what John Cepieca of Burwell is doing in his effort to become governor on the republican ticket. John has written to Henry F. Meyers, republican county chairman of Douglas county stating that he has filed for governor and asks support. He writes the letter in red ink and likewise addresses the envelope. It is a somewhat shaky hand, but the letter reads: "To the voters of the state of Nebraska—I have filed for the nomination of governor on the republican ticket and ask all my friends to give me a lift.

"I have been a citizen of the United States for thirty-five years, was in this state thirty years and I don't think you will find anything in the records to disqualify me. I am sure I shall appreciate your support at the primaries the eighteenth of August for equal rights to all and special privilege to none."

HARVEST FIELDS CALLING FOR TWELVE THOUSAND MEN

Twelve thousand men are wanted in the Oklahoma harvest fields, according to reports that reach Omaha through the Oklahoma papers and through persons arriving from Oklahoma. This is looked upon as a good beginning toward the solution of the problem of unemployment for the summer, as the harvest once begun in Oklahoma will travel northward and work will be abundant in the fields of Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Minnesota until the last grain is harvested and threshed in the northern wheat country. Oklahoma's harvest usually begins around June 1.

POLICEMEN ARREST MAN WHO SELLS THEM BEER

Tony Pans, who owns in interest in a saloon at Twenty-second and Poppleton avenue, is not well acquainted with officers of the Omaha police force, and so about 10 o'clock Thursday night he sold Officers Cunningham, Coffey and Peterson some beer. Then they arrested Tony. His trial has been postponed until Tuesday.
