FRAUD IN TRIAL IS CHARGED

Nolan & Woodland Asking for New Hearing of Damage Case.

VERDICT FOR $8,125 SECURED

Charge is Now Made that Wunwrath Was Injured by Kick of a Horse and Not by Fall Down an Elevator Shaft.

A new trial on the alleged ground of fraud, false testimony and concealment of material facts perpetrated on the district court during a trial, is asked by Attorneys Nolan and Woodland in the personal injury case entitled William Wunwrath against the People's Furniture company in a motion just filed.

In the trial of this case two years ago Wesley Gard, the street car motorman now indicted for perjury, was a member of the jury and Attorneys Brome & Brome were Wunwrath's lawyers.

Friends of Attorneys Brome & Brome declare they are sure that they knew nothing of the alleged fraud on the court in the personal injury suit.

Wunwrath secured a verdict of $8,125, which was appealed to the supreme court. Brome & Brome have a lien on the judgment for 50 per cent of the amount.

Charges Are Set Forth. The following charges are set up in the motion for a new trial.

That Wunwrath's petition filed by Attorneys Brome & Brome made no claim that his eye had been injured in a fall down an elevator shaft, which was the basis of his suit.

That questions were asked and answers given by Wunwrath and Dr. Charles Impey in such manner as to lead the jury to believe that an injury to the plaintiff causing loss of sight had been caused by his fall.

That the injury to the eye in fact had been caused by the kick of a horse in 1907; that Wunwrath had collected $1,250 from an insurance company for the loss of his eye, and that he and all persons connected with his case were aware of this.

That Wunwrath testified that after being kicked by the horse he did not consult any specialist, whereas he did consult Dr. Harold Gifford and Dr. D. C. Bryant.

That Dr. Impey testified that he thought Wunwrath had fully recovered from the injuries caused by the kick of the horse.

That the plaintiff and Dr. Impey testified that alleged injuries to Wunwrath's knee, back and shoulder were permanent, but that he is now strong and well and is doing the work of an able-bodied man.

Now Before Supreme Court.

The case has not yet been passed upon by the supreme court and Nolan & Woodland are asking for a new trial on the ground of discovery of the facts set forth by them. These were learned by a detective.

In the trial of this suit Wesley Gard, the street car motorman, who told Attorneys Brome & Brome that a man had tried to bribe him during trial of a libel suit against The Bee, was a member of the jury and Dr. Impey, then Gard's physician, was a witness subpoenaed by Brome & Brome.

Dr. Impey later sued Gard on a bill for professional services and Gard was represented by Brome & Brome.

CANNOT FORCE VALUATION

So Declares Attorney Webster of Street Railway Company.

NOT COVERED BY STATUTE

Attorney Says the Law Applies Only to Steam Railroads—Lambert Says Valuation May Be Necessary in the End.

Physical valuation of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company cannot be forced under the law, says the company attorney, John L. Webster, in a brief in the case now pending, because the statute refers only to steam railroads and the term "railroad" as used in the statute conferring powers upon the state railway commission applies to steam roads only.

This contention will be contested by the city legal department if the seven-for-a-quarter street car ordinance results in a final fight in the high courts over the question of physical valuation to show whether or not the ordinance, which was initiated, is confiscatory.

The State Railway commission has displayed an inclination to interfere in the case, ask for a physical valuation of the street railway company and, having secured it, give it to the city for use in the seven-for-a-quarter case.

While opposing the seven-for-a-quarter ordinance the street railway company has taken the position that a physical valuation cannot be forced, and the company's attorneys are opposing any move toward physical valuation.

Assistant City Attorney W. C. Lambert, who is handling the city's side of the case, said:

"In the end it will probably be necessary to secure a physical valuation. That, it seems to me, is the logical way to go about finding out whether this ordinance if enforced would be confiscatory."
