

GOOD WORK BY RUSSIAN BOY

Nathan Miller Sets Himself What Looks Like Big Job.

RECORD OF HIS ACHIEVEMENTS

Brings Invalid Father and Young Sisters to America and Supports Them While He Goes to School.

It is not an unusual thing for a young lad to work his way through school, but when that same lad supports an invalid father and two younger sisters it is indeed a rare performance.

The early history of this lad is full of interest as a struggle for an American education and for his people.

At the age of 11, his brother, Dave Miller, a tailor in this city, brought him over from Minsk, Russia. Ambitious, studious and always looking ahead, the youngster succeeded in getting a smattering of the English language by close home study from the letters and papers his brother had sent him while still in Russia.

His first occupation was that of dispatch boy for the Associated Press in the evenings. In the meantime he had entered Kellom school in the second grade and diligently applied himself to the study of the English language.

When asked if he wouldn't like to be like other boys and let up on work he replied: "I would rather be doing something; you see, I have been busy so much of my life that when I stop working for a short time I feel out of place."

Negro Lad is Sent Up for a Period of Repentance

Why Millard Smith, 7-year-old negro lad, frequently exhibited drowsiness during his attendance at Farman school was a question which attracted the attention of juvenile court.

Miss Waterman, his teacher, described his condition as drowsy, but this description was rejected as inadequate. Mory Bernstein's adjective was "wobbly."

Miss Jennie Brown, 503 South Thirty-third street, admitted having given him a cup of beer one night, whereupon Juvenile Judge Sears inquired whether the boy suffered from a "hangover," or whether "had anything" the following morning.

At the Summer Theaters

SCENE FROM "THE THREE MUSKETEERS" AT THE HIPPI THEATER.

A WEEK of thrills is in store for lovers of the movies at the Gayety during the week starting this afternoon, the film bookings being exclusively the output of the Ramo company of New York City, whose product has never until now been seen in Omaha.

Two big subjects will constitute the week's program, the most notable one being the new four-reel photoplay, "Thou Shalt Not," which, while being a thrilling story of life in the great northwest, has to do with the seventh commandment in such a manner that interest in the tale is not permitted to lag for a moment.

To complete the seven-reel display offered each week at the Gayety will be other Ramo features which will be included—the three-reel gasp, "Wives." This is the production that made Stuart Holmes a camera star. The wild scene in the stock exchange in which a powerful banker engulfs his supposed rival in financial ruin is surely one of the most dramatic scenes ever projected upon a screen.

The bill at the Empress this week consists of another of Menlo Moore's adventures, entitled, "Summer Girls." In the cast there are five pretty girls. The act is a musical medley of summer sports and pastimes. Six very pretty and catchy musical numbers serve to make you forget the thermometer.

enemy of the queen, she delivers the verdict to him. Her former husband, the comte, has meanwhile allied himself with the king's musketeers, under the name of Athos. With him are his three inseparable friends, Aramis, Porthos and D'Artagnan—the latter a youth who has just joined the ranks. Throughout the rest of the story the four friends are continually pitting their wits against those of the cardinal and his followers.

"Love, Luck and Gasoline," a mile-a-minute, three-reel Vitagraph comedy will be the attraction at the Hipp theater for today only. With hydro-aeroplanes, motor boats, yachts and aeroplanes, "Cutey" played by the inimitable Wallie Van, and Miss Tomboy, by Lillian Walker, contrived to keep "Bunny" her father, worried to death. After a series of hair-raising adventures, Bunny overhauls the pair, who have eloped in a hydro-aeroplane. As they are about to rise into the air, Bunny comes near overhead in an aeroplane. He leans too far out and falls into the water, but is rescued by Cutey, and taken to shore, where Lillian artfully wins him over and he gives the happy young couple his blessing and they fly away on their honeymoon.

Madman Armed With Repeating Rifle is Barricaded in Church

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 6.—A mad murderer, August Tomics, has since yesterday morning made an impregnable fortress out of the steeple of the village church at Hoenfany. Armed with a repeating rifle and 500 cartridges, he took refuge in the steeple after killing a farmer and his wife and wounding their daughter.

Police tried to reach the criminal, but were repulsed with a fusillade, which killed two and wounded fourteen others. A large force of police surrounded the church today, but their commander, Tomics, he was helpless until Tomics decided to surrender or used up his ammunition. A narrow stairway is the only approach to the steeple, and whenever anybody has attempted to ascend it, Tomics has been able to force them quickly to descend again. He fired 300 of his 500 cartridges yesterday and besides wounding a large number of persons, destroyed the altar and pictures in the church. This morning he shouted from the steeple: "It is a good thing you let me sleep during the night. Now I have fresh strength. When my last cartridge is gone I will kill myself."
