BUTLER AND RYDER IN ROW

Rumpus in Council Meeting Over Interest on City Deposits. ALL THE BIDS ARE REJECTED Banks Now Pay the City Two Per Cent and Butler is Fighting to Get Another Half Cent on Deposits. City Commissioner Dan B. Butler's attempt to force the local banks to pay as much interest on city money as they do on state funds deposited in them created a rumpus at the council meeting in the committee of the whole, resulting in Commissioner J. J. Ryder declaring he would make Butler look like a "ninny" Tuesday. Butler was urging that bids for city money be again advertised for, when Ryder moved that all bids received be placed on file and that no action be taken in regard to the bank that offered a fourth of 1 per cent increase. Butler protested: "See here," said Ryder, "we've got a right to our votes." "Sure," Butler said, "but look—" "Oh, you're a great financier, I know," "I know what I'm talking about." "Yes, and I'll make you look like a ninny tomorrow morning." "At that I would only look like a ninny one day in the year." Ryder's statement will go into the details of his expenditures as street commissioner. A statement from the controller's office showed, without explanation, that Ryder had spent something like $4,000 more in the same length of time than his predecessor. Ryder blamed Butler for the statement. When Butler insisted that the city ought to have more interest on its money and that now was the time to force the banks to pay it Ryder said: "People we make clerks are not going to come around four-flushing us to what to do. I move that this report be placed on file." "You're trying to build political fences," said Butler. "And if I am I intend to build them by myself and in my own way." Mayor Dahman scolded Butler and Ryder and the tension was relieved. "At that it didn't raise the fuss I thought it would," Butler said, closing the incident. The council voted to place the report on file and reject all bids. Banks now pay the city 2 per cent interest. Butler argued that at least 2 1/2 per cent should be paid.

Four hundred Omaha high school cadets entrained this morning for Missouri Valley, where they will spend a week in camp. The cadets formed on the high school grounds and marched to the Union depot, where many mothers, sisters and well-wishing friends gathered to see that all went well. C. E. Reed, newly elected principal of the Omaha high school; Vice Principal J. F. Woolery and Coach Thomas E. Mida accompanied the cadets. Athletic Supervisor R. L. Carns was detailed to spend the week with the young cadets. Superintendent E. U. Graf and Captain Stritinger, commandant of cadets, will visit the camp Tuesday, by which time tents will be pitched and the encamped cadets will be organized for the week's play and work. The cadets will break camp Saturday and return home. Lieutenant Test has been appointed to have charge of the camp for the week. He directed the entraining and accompanied the cadets to Missouri Valley, where he will oversee the work of pitching camp.

ALMOST LET OUT THE SECRET

Paving Contractors Fighting for Job Nearly Tell Price Reason. DIFFERENCE IN THE FREIGHT Work Costing Forty-Nine Cents Per Yard More in Omaha Than it Does in Iowa Towns Blamed on Railroad Rates. Paving contractors, fighting for jobs before the city council, almost gave away trade secrets when city commissioners wanted to know why paving laid in Iowa towns for $1.24 cost $1.59 in Omaha. One contractor said he could answer that if his competitor would answer why he charged $1.65 for pavement in Omaha and laid the same thing in Sioux City for $1.25 per yard. "Freight rates," said one contractor, and there the discussion came to an end. A contractor, J. H. Cathroe, whose bid for paving Decatur street from Twenty-ninth to Thirty-fourth was rejected, offered to pay the expenses of the city commission if they would be his guests on a jaunt to Sioux City to inspect the paving material for which he is agent. Mayor Dahman said it might be well to send the commissioner of public improvements over, but the contractor said he wanted the whole city commission to go. Property Owners Appear. Property owners in three paving districts appeared to show the council what had been done, what paving they wanted and who wanted it. The Decatur street improvement was granted to the agents of asphaltic concrete. Burt street will be paved with Egyptian vertical fiber brick from Lincoln boulevard to Thirtieth street. Kim street from Vinton to Twentieth will be paved with Purington brick. Busy paving contractors had secured signatures to all kinds of petitions for paving these streets, but as no petition had a majority foot frontage, the duty of designating the material devolved upon the council. During the discussion of the several paving materials Street Commissioner J. J. Ryder said: "Ninety per cent of the pavement repair money goes to pay for repairing asphalt pavement. I don't know why it is, but that is true." Several women were among those who appeared before the council to urge designation of favorite paving materials. Everybody reads Bee Want Ads.

Samson to Entertain Traveling Knights on Saturday, June 20

Saturday, June 20, is traveling men's night at Ak-Sar-Ben den. It is so decreed by King Ak-Sar-Ben, and the king is sending out invitations to all the traveling men whose names he could get hold of in Omaha. The Commercial club furnished the names of the men from lists carried by the various manufacturing and jobbing houses of the city. There are some 1,300 in the list that is being invited. The Commercial club is also sending out a personal invitation to the men to be the guests of Samson on that evening. It is something of a new departure to set aside a special night for a given body of men, as the regular show and initiation night at the den is Monday night. Saturday nights, however, are the only nights that most of the traveling men can be caught in town, and for that reason Samson decided to break the rules and give the boys a good time on a Saturday night.

Chambers to Show His New Dances to Dancing Masters

W. E. Chambers of this city will demonstrate at the convention of the national association of dancing masters, in Cleveland, June 8 to 20, two new dances, which he asserts are bound to be among those clamoring for popular favor. The new dances are the "Kiss Waltz" and the "Kiss of Spring." According to Mr. Chambers, these two dances will be accepted without the criticism leveled at the tango and other bad dances, because they are both clean and dignified and held to elevate the art rather than drag it down. Mr. Chambers is now in Cleveland and firmly believes that his new steps will meet with the universal approval of his fellow dancing masters, as they are unanimous in their opinion that the modern freakish dances are doomed.

Burlington Gathers In Boxcars to Haul Harvested Grains

In anticipation of bumper crops along the Burlington in the middle western states, all of the available box cars of that railroad are being moved to the western states, to be ready for the record-making crops which will start to move about the middle of the present month. Within four weeks it is believed that all of the box cars not in use on the eastern divisions of the Burlington will be brought west to the agricultural states, where bumper crops are promised this season. Every side track along the Burlington route in the agricultural states will be filled with box cars in anticipation of the rush of grain which is expected to start about the middle of July. N. H. Loomis, counsel for the Union Pacific, returned Monday from a trip over the Union Pacific lines in eastern Kansas. "During the years that I lived in Kansas I have never seen anything that would approximate the crops in Kansas this year," said Mr. N. H. Loomis. "In every field I saw, the wheat was higher and better developed than it has been in Kansas for many years, and there is no chance for Kansas to make less than a record-making yield this season. The Kansas hard wheat is famed the nation over, and the quality and quantity are both liable to set a new standard for the United States this year." Crop reports from the Burlington, as well as the Northwestern railroad, indicate that every crop in Nebraska and the contiguous territory is in better condition than it has been for many years. General heavy rains throughout Nebraska and other mid-west states has shown the small grain crop to be in better condition this year than ever before.

DEPOSITS OF STATE BANK PASS THE MILLION MARK

Deposits in the State bank of Omaha have passed the $1,000,000 mark and are still increasing rapidly. The State bank is Omaha's newest banking institution, but it has been popular ever since its opening. Competing with other banks, all of which are national and of more or less long life, the officers of the State bank were confronted with a rather difficult task. But they bucked down to work and in a remarkably short time were enjoying large deposits. Now they have over $1,000,000 on the deposit books, and the amount is constantly growing. A balcony has been installed to give needed space for conducting the increasing business of the concern. The addition gives the institution more room for the bookkeeping and auditing departments and has been placed in the rear of the room occupied. The officers lay considerable stress upon the bank's success because it is organized under the "guaranty of deposit" law. Albert L. Schantz, president; J. R. Cain, Jr., vice president, and Cashier F. N. High are all enthusiastic about the outlook and anticipate that the crops of the state are going to do much this fall toward increasing the Omaha clearances.

Bailey and General Secretary E. F. Denison of the Omaha association will accompany Cotton from Omaha. They will make the trip in Secretary Bailey's auto if the weather and roads permit.

"These figures represent about that much increase in population," said Mr. Howell.
