

COMPLAINTS FOR DAIRYMEN

Dr. Connell, Health Commissioner, to Go After Them.

ARE NOT UP TO THE STANDARD

Many Tests Have Been Made and on Complaint of Milk Inspector Boasie Charges Are to Be Filed.

Complaints of the adulteration of milk by thirteen dairymen supplying Omaha consumers will be filed in police court by Health Commissioner R. W. Connell on information furnished by Dairy Inspector Claude F. Boasie, who, out of hundreds of samples taken, has found the milk sold by the thirteen, below the standard fixed by ordinance.

Following are the names of the thirteen dairymen against whom the complaints will be filed: A. Frederickson, 602 North Forty-second street; C. Pedersen, Sixty-fourth and Center streets; A. Feilth, Seventieth and Center streets; Pete Jeppesen, Sixtieth street and Underwood avenue; M. T. Jensen, Sixty-third street and Woolworth avenue; L. C. Christensen, East Omaha; J. M. Jensen, South Omaha; L. Johnson, Seventieth and Center streets; Olson & Pedersen, East Omaha; R. M. Pedersen, 602 North Ninth street; C. Mortensen, East Omaha; O. Pedersen & Co., 1802 Redick avenue; Pete Petersen, 2310 Vinlon street.

"The fight by this health department has been made chiefly in the cause of pure milk," said Dr. Connell, "and we have permitted a certain latitude in the matter of standard. Now, we are going after every dairymen caught selling milk not up to the standard. Complaints will be filed against all offenders."

Dairymen have frequently complained that the high standard set by the Omaha ordinance works a hardship as they are compelled to pour cream into milk to bring it up to standard, as the milk in the summer time is thinner than in the winter.

"There is no difficulty in living up to this ordinance if they want to live up to it," said Dr. Connell. "We went carefully into the whole question before the ordinance was passed and we know positively that the dairymen can live up to it if they want to be fair."

Wisner Farmer Sued for Importing Labor from Old Country

In the United States district court, the government is trying to collect penalties aggregating $1,000 from Henry Leisy, a wealthy farmer living near Wisner, Neb., on the ground that by advancing money for the transportation of several persons from Germany to Nebraska, and subsequently hiring them to work on his farm, he has violated the alien contract labor law.

According to the testimony of Albert Schultz, the Nebraska farmer advertised in a German paper for help on his Nebraska farm. Schultz wrote to Mr. Leisy at Wisner, and after several letters had been exchanged tickets for the transportation of Albert Schultz, his wife and four children to Wisner, Neb., were sent to him by Mr. Leisy.

The Schultz family came to the United States and proceeded directly to the Leisy farm of some 2,700 acres, near Wisner. There the father and the older son toiled for Mr. Leisy for several months. Immigration inspectors investigated the case and the action in the United States district court was started. If the case against Mr. Leisy is decided in favor of the government it is likely that in addition to his being compelled to pay the penalty required by law, the Schultz family will be deported.

Good Rains Fall in Eastern Nebraska and Western Iowa

According to the reports to the railroad, rain was general Wednesday night over the east half of Nebraska, ranging all the way from showers to a regular downpour, the greatest precipitation being at Handolph, where there was a little more than an inch.

Most of the passenger trains from the east were late, due to the heavy rain that spread over Iowa from the Missouri river to as far away as the central part of the state.

Trains coming in from the east asserted that through the west half of Iowa it rained from early evening until morning and in some localities assumed the proportions of a flood, softening up the track and compelling the engine men to proceed with extra caution.

In the southwest corner of Iowa where rain was beginning to be needed there was fully an inch of precipitation during the night, it extending over Missouri and across the river into Nebraska and eastern Kansas.

Real Estate Man Has Many Debts, but Has No Assets

Thomas Campbell, real estate dealer, with offices at 332 State bank building, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court, listing his debts at $22,548.38, while his assets are estimated to be worthless.

According to the petition, Campbell owned a ten-story reinforced concrete building in Oklahoma City, which he traded in November of 1911, to George H. Paul of Washington, Ia., for 11,308 acres of land in the San Luis valley in Colorado. In the exchange Campbell alleges he gave a mortgage for $75,000 back on the land to George H. Paul. Campbell asserts that this land proved to be worthless, and that as a result of the trade he lost $27,000 in the transaction. Campbell asserts that suit was filed in the district court of Oklahoma county, Oklahoma, against George H. Paul and the Bryan, Geo. Investment company, but the suit was dismissed by the plaintiff without prejudice before it went to judgment and the claim which will be soon outlawed, is believed to be worthless.

Auto and motorcycle speeders had another race in police court, with Arthur H. Keeline, clubman, living at 111 South Thirty-ninth street, heading the list. He pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding and violating the rules of the road by passing autos on the right-hand side, and by driving around a street car instead of stopping while passengers got off. Judge Foster fined him $10 and costs, which he paid. Thomas Halgrud also drew a similar fine for the same offense.

On plea of Julius S. Cooley that they were students who work to support themselves and their relatives and because they were speeding in order to deliver medicines promptly from drug stores, three motorcycle lads received suspended sentences. They are Charlie Howes, Robert Lowrie and Otto Wiener.

Sullivan Looks for Bigger Output from Wyoming Oil Fields

The weekly luncheon of the Jovian organization was held at the Commercial club and was addressed by E. J. Sullivan of Basin, Wyo., formerly of Omaha, Mr. Lovett occupying the chair. The subject of the speaker was "Oil in Wyoming and Its Effect on Electrical Development and Industry." In the course of his remarks he stated that at the present time Wyoming was somewhat handicapped by paternal government regulations in reference to the oil grants as against "state rights" and predicted that in the near future there would have to be a change in the federal government regulations. E. V. Capps of Blair and Mr. Rodey of the American Electrical company spoke on "Municipal Ownership of Electric Light Plants," taking the negative side.

Next week the luncheon will be addressed by Dr. F. W. Millener of the Union Pacific on "Efficiency," and the following week L. B. Wilson of the Bell Telephone company.
