WOMAN ARRESTED FOR HITTING INSURANCE MAN WITH A BROOM

The kind of life insurance for which you pay 20 cents a month and 20 cents a week for the rest of your life furnished the basis of a little comedy-drama enacted in police court when Mrs. Waite Barnhart, wife of a city fireman living at 2508 North Forty-first street, was arrested at the instance of L. Neveiff, insurance agent. Mrs. Barnhart was thinking of taking out a policy for her infant, and called upon the Metropolitan company for figures. Neveiff was sent out. His proposition did not prove attractive, so Mrs. Barnhart turned him down. Neveiff, with the true persistence of his calling, thereupon made a visit every day for several days. Friday Mrs. Barnhart was reading a letter containing bad news and when the insurance agent came around she lost her temper and laid her broom over his shoulders a time or two, and Neveiff, convinced now that the policy was lost to him forever, retreated in poor order to the police station to file complaint.

Academic Training vs. Business Training

Canvass the business men of Omaha—of any kind of quality. Go into the offices of our manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers, etc. Ask these representative business men to what they owe their success—an academic or business training. More than 85 per cent of them will tell you they had neither the time nor money to attend an institution of academic learning. But were they handicapped? Does the above figure indicate it? —H. B. BOYLES.

What follows is not an indictment of an academic training. If you are fortunate enough to afford both, secure both. But if, as most of Omaha's representative business men, you must choose between the two, choose wisely. Choose the training which pays you best—the training which will bring you the greater returns for the time and money expended. Business asks "What can you do?" not "What do you know?"

TO SUCCESS IN STENOGRAPHY.

Of what value is a mastery of Greek, Latin, Physics or Zoology to the young man or woman who expects to enter business? How much better—and more profitable—is a stenographic training? Where are the stenographers of yesterday? What has become of the young men and women who, a few years ago, chose stenography as their entering wedge into business? They have advanced to better positions. You will find them among the Department Managers, executives and partners of the firms with whom they commenced their business career.

SALARY—THE RESULT OF EFFICIENCY.

Business demands efficiency—machine efficiency—for it means more and better work. Witness the popularity of the typewriter, the adding machine, the cash register and other "machine ways" in business. Just so is business demanding "the machine way in shorthand"—Stenotypy. Business was quick to appreciate the advantages of machine-printed Stenotype notes—notes of un-
