

VETERAN U. P. ENGINEER IS RETIRED ON PENSION.

JOSEPH B. O'BRYAN.

ENGINEER IS IN HERO CLASS

Joseph B. O'Bryan is Retired on Union Pacific Pension.

SAVES HUNDRED IN CYCLONE

Stops His Train So that Although it Overturns No One was Injured When it Went Into the Ditch.

After thirty-five years of continuous service with the Union Pacific, and being lauded as a hero for saving hundreds of lives in a tornado two years ago, Engineer Joseph B. O'Bryan of Ord has been honorably retired on pension. He had the enviable record of being the oldest engineer on the road in point of service.

"The man of the hour" was the title he received from thousands of people who learned of his conduct in the cyclone episode. It happened in April, 1912, two miles out of North Loup on the orchard line between Grand Island and Ord, where he has been running for the last few years. Seeing the funnel-shaped wind cloud approaching, O'Bryan knew that his train would be wiped out and all the passengers probably killed if it were running when struck by the tornado.

With cool bravery he stopped his engine, set the brakes and nervously waited for the cyclone to strike. It did all right, and turned the whole train over in the ditch, but none of the passengers or crew was badly hurt, and no serious property damage resulted, thanks to O'Bryan's courage and skill in meeting the emergency. When news of the incident was published he received hundreds of complimentary letters from officials and patrons of the road, which he still cherishes among his most valued possessions.

Joe's head is as good as ever, and he is only 59 years old—still eligible to pilot a locomotive. But a seemingly minor injury received in the service has placed him in the slightly disabled class, so he and the road agreed upon his honorable retirement on pension, as the veteran has already won more than his share of engineering honors and has a home and family at Ord to go to.

He will continue to live there with his wife and daughter. His name in the service of the Union Pacific is still well carried by four stalwart sons, all with the road in this state. They are: J. R. and J. M. O'Bryan, conductors; H. B. O'Bryan, brakeman, and M. C. O'Bryan, chief clerk in the yardmaster's office at Grand Island.

The elder O'Bryan started in the road's service as a fireman running out of Omaha, and he lived here for many years. Because of his long and creditable record he is well known throughout the state, and his many friends are glad that he is now able to retire and enjoy the results of loyal service to the Union Pacific.

Miss Wilson Wants School Principals Civic Secretaries

MADISON, Wis., June 20.—The employment of school principals as civic secretaries to direct the social and recreational activities of the communities in which they live was urged tonight by Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, as the next step in the development of the social center movement. Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman of New York disagreed with Miss Wilson as to the advisability of making the schoolmaster assume this double role. The secretary should be "the best mixer in the community," she said. They both spoke at the state capital at a meeting preliminary to the first national conference on civic secretariats as a feature of public service to be held here in July.

"We have our school houses thrown open by law to the community in many states," said Miss Wilson. "And we need some agency to beckon us into the buildings."

"I foresee the time when school men will be the greatest force in the community. When by their shall be coordinated the education of children and that of the parents. The business of directing the work should be done by a public servant to be remunerated out of the public funds."

ROW ALMOST TILL DARK, DELAYED BY ROUGH WATER

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 20.—Darkness almost overtook the crews of Wisconsin, Syracuse, Washington, Columbia and Cornell before they got off the water tonight, their usual evening practice having been delayed by exceptionally rough water.

The river was white with combers and, fearing conditions would not improve, Coach Conbar loaded the Washington crew aboard his new cabin launch, took the big ahead in tow and started down the river along the east shore on a hunt for smooth water. Two miles from the boat house the crewmen got into their shell and then rowed for eight or ten miles along the lee of the eastern hills.

"I simply had to have that row and was determined to get it if I had to go half way to New York," said the Washington coach.

Road Sues Owner of Team Causing Wreck

NEWARK, N. J., June 20.—As the result of a recent collision at Bloomfield,

N. J., between a team driven by F. V. Wilkinson of this city and an Erie railroad locomotive, the road today sued Wilkinson for $100 damages because "divers' plates" of the cow catcher of the engine were broken, the paint on the locomotive was bruised and the track "strewn with litter."

This unusual suit is an answer and counter claim to an action for $25,000 damages brought against the railroad by Wilkinson, who claims he suffered a broken hip, three fractured ribs and other injuries. The road asserts the collision was due to Wilkinson's negligence.

Woman Dies Under Engine to Save Child

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 20.—Mrs. Martha Medley was crushed to death by the engine of a Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train near Ceredo, W. Va., tonight, after she had thrown herself in the train's path and pushed her 4-year-old daughter to safety. Three other children witnessed their mother's death.
