New Freight Cars Are Ordered and Old Ones Being Repaired.

READY FOR THE HARVEST RUSH

Rolling Stock is Being Sidetracked at Convenient Places Subject to the Call for Moving the Grain.

Pully realising that a bumper crop of amali grain is now being harvested all over Nebraska and the central west, the railroads are bending every energy to get the grain carrying equipment in condition so that there will not be any extraordinary shortage of freight cars.

The Rock Island road has received 4,000 new freight cars since one year ago and these will all be in service, most of them in Nebraska and Kansas. In addition to these, 4,000 old cars are being put through the shops and all of them will be in condition to go out on the lines by the middle of July. Five hundred automobile cars are being pressed into the service for the grain carrying trade and 1,000 stock cars are being converted into box cars, this being done by tining them with flooring.

The Northwestern by the middle of July will have in the neighborhood of 6,000 grain cars distributed at stations in Nebraska and Iowa, laid in on siding ready to be shunted to points where needed that they may be loaded out with the grain first threshed.

All of the other lines of the trans-Missouri country are rushing their cars to the wheat raising districts, the Milwaukee, Burlington, Great Western, Missouri Pacific and Wabash sending hundreds of them into Nebraska and

MANY MILLIONS FOR CHARITY

Nearly Half a Billion Dollars Expended Annually in United States.

According to figures prepared by the states charity commission and presented by its secretary, A. L. Bowen, to the American Association of Officials of Charity in Memphis, $400,000,000 is expended annually in the United States on public and private charities, correctional and penal institutions. Of this amount it is shown that Illinois spends nearly $4,000,000 on its state charitable institutions, about $1,500,000 on its state penal and reformatory institutions, $1,500,000 on public outdoor relief, about $15,000,000 collected through private benevolent societies, churches and fraternal organizations, $1,000,000 on its jails and workhouses and $1,000,000 on its almshouses.

Mr. Howen said that the property of these institutions in the United States is worth at least $1,500,000,000.

From these figures he argued that the administration and supervision of the units in this system should be considered a distinct profession in which men and women should be trained and educated and assured a long tenure of service that the state might profit by the accumulation of their experience.

The speaker said that the administration of a single hospital for the insane is as difficult a task as the management of a steel mill or a department store.

Mr. Bowen asserted that the insane alone cost this country about $40,000,000 a year. The public charitable and penal institutions, including the insane hospitals, supported out of taxpayers' funds, cost about $75,000,000 a year.

The census of 1910 showed that there were in the United States 4,420 hospitals, children's and old men's homes, dispen saries and institutions for the blind and deaf. Of these all but a very few were privately supported. They had at the close of the fiscal year 1910, 412,247 inmates, an increase since 1904 of 127,942. The number of institutions had increased by 1,201 in that time. The total admisains in 1910 were 5,400,506, against 5,360,184 six years ago.

In other words institutions increased by 27 per cent, their population by 21 per cent, and total annual admissions by 62 per cent. Of the 4,430, 4,281 reported receipts during the year of $118,379,856; 3,871 of them reported property worth $643,-878,141; the remaining 540 were estimated to have property worth $50,000,000, bringing the total property up to $700,000,000. On the rate of increase that prevailed from 1904 to 1910 these institutions now number 5,000 and their property value must be close to $1,000,000,000.

Mr. Bowen estimated the annual cost to the public of jails, almhouses, workhouses and various correctional institutions of that class to be $23,000,000. Publie poor relief, he said, would approximate $27,500,000.

The contributions through associated charities, church and fraternal organizations he believed to be near $100,000,000 per annum.

In all about $400,000,000 a year is expended for charity and correction by public and private institutions of this country, or a 5 per cent dividend on $8,000,-

The secretary declared that the administration and supervision by the states of this vast undertaking is becoming so tremendious a problem that the federal government itself will have to assume some of the burden. Already, he said, the government is taking it up along certain lines and considering it as a national issue not confinable within state lines .-Chicago Record-Herald.

LONE STAR GIANT AT HARVARD

Texan Athlete Breaks All Records Under Sargent's Test of Strength.

A laughing, good-natured giant from the Texas border has walked away with the title of Harvard's champion "strong man.". Oran Gould Kirkpatrick of San Antonio, a freshman, has shattered all pervious records under the Sargent strength tests, which were brought to their present high standard of efficiency

Kirkpatrick is six feet four inches tall and weighs close to the 200 mark. In his record-breaking match he topped over the standard set by Huntington R. Hardwick, Harvard's all-around athlete by over fifty points. Of the ten tests required under the Sargent system Kirkpatrick broke Hardwick's record in six vents, tied it in two others and fell below in the remaining events. For years the Sargent system of estimating a man's physical manhood and endurance has found great national favor. Among those who have submitted themselves to the Harvard physical director's instruments have been Eugene

Jeffries, "Jack" Johnson and Annette Kellerman. Kirkpatrick registered 1,360 points, which is the highest mark made since the present system was put into use ten years Comparison shows that Kirpatrick has beaten Hardwick's record of last fall
