STOKES IS A SOCIALIST

He and His Wife No Longer Doing Settlement Work.

WILL LECTURE THIS EVENING

Millionaire Will Give His Views on Government by the People and For the People at the Lyric Theater.

J. G. Phelps Stokes, the New York millionaire, whose marriage to Rose Pastor, Jewish working girl, caused a sensation several years ago, arrived in Omaha yesterday for his lecture at the Lyric theater last evening. Contrary to the general belief, Mr. and Mrs. Stokes no longer engage in settlement work nor have they for the last seven years, but instead are devoting their efforts to the socialistic movement.

"We discontinued the settlement work," said Mr. Stokes this morning, "because those who furnish the funds for the work will not stand for the expenses of the true cause and affect of the poor people's condition. They are willing for temporary relief work to be done, but when it comes to enlightening the oppressed, a halt is called and the settlement worker is forced to seek new fields.

Aiding Socialism. "We have been endeavoring to aid socialism, and devote much time to studying the problems which confront the movement, and feel that we are accomplishing much more for the ultimate good of the laboring class than by settlement work."

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes devote the greater portion of their time to lecturing, and endure as many hardships for the cause as they did when settlement working. Decidedly plain in manner and dress, unassuming, with the air of a man whose life had been spent in intellectual pursuit, J. G. Phelps Stokes fits the picture of the great altruist, which he is. Mrs. Stokes did not accompany her husband on this trip, which is partly a business one and partly lecturing.

Greed the Cause of Wreck. According to Mr. Stokes, whose country home is in Stamford, Conn., the recent wreck on the New Haven road is due almost entirely to the greed of the officials for greater profits.

He points to the record of disasters upon that road, showing the greatest number to have been since the time the "banker management" came in and endeavored to monopolize the transportation of New England.

That greed was also the cause of the Wales mine disaster is the opinion of Mr. Stokes. Proper inspection and sprinkling systems will prevent most mine explosions, or at least save human life, and while the details of the recent disaster are not yet to hand, Mr. Stokes lays the blame for it on the great greed for profits.

The subject of his lecture at the Lyric was "Government of the People, by the People, and for the People." He will leave on an early morning train for Chicago today, where he will lecture this evening.

More Certificates of Lincoln Highway for Fredrickson

Vice President Pardington of the Lincoln Highway association has expressed 5,000 more certificates to H. E. Fredrickson to be sold in Omaha and Nebraska. Letters are constantly coming in from bankers in various parts of the state, who ask for more certificates, which they expect to sell to help the highway fund. Mr. Fredrickson has written to the commercial clubs of all the county seats of the state asking all that they secure some of the certificates and take it upon themselves to sell them to help the highway fund along.

The plan for canvassing the business men of Omaha with regard to the sale of certificates, has been slightly changed. Instead of putting solicitors out to canvass the city, block by block, the various automobile dealers, real estate dealers, wholesalers and various other lines of business men are to canvass their list of customers first. Later a block by block canvass will probably be made.

Joe A. Hays of Central City claims credit for being a good guesser in that he guessed the route of the Lincoln Memorial Highway would pass by the front door of his hotel, the "New Hotel Hays" in Central City. After making the guess he painted the pole in front of the hotel red and white in anticipation of the route of the road two weeks before the route was officially announced. The route proved to be laid on that street just as he had predicted, and now all he will have to do is to paint the letter "L" on the white background he has painted on the pole.

SEVEN HUNDRED SECURE TICKETS FOR BIG GAME

Nearly 700 tickets have been sold by the University club for the Minnesota-Nebraska foot ball game at the University of Nebraska athletic field this afternoon. The few tickets that are left were taken off the market last evening, so that none can be secured in Omaha this morning. The rest were taken back to Lincoln to be put on sale there. The special train is to leave over the Burlington at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

FOUNDERS' DAY POSTPONED ON ACCOUNT OF THE SYNOD

Founders' day at Bellevue has been indefinitely postponed on account of the synodical meeting, which would prevent many of those desirous of attending from being present. This celebration is in honor of the founder of Bellevue college, who died last spring. All committees had been appointed for the exercises on October 18, when the announcement came of the synod meeting this week.

MEAT PRICES ARE STILL HIGH

No Reduction Has Yet Been Made, Although Chickens Are Cheaper.

SAUERKRAUT ON THE MARKET

Potato Prices Are Holding Up, Although Supply is Coming In—White Onions Are Now to Be Had.

Although packers have been talking of a reduction in the price of meats on account of the reduction in tariff on meats and live stock, the dealers say they have seen no change yet in the wholesale prices. Prices of all meats are practically the same as they have been for some three weeks, since the time they made a big jump. Pork of all kinds has come down about a half cent in the last week, but this is practically the only change in meats.

Chickens, of course, have come down a little, as the spring chickens are now full grown and more or less abundant, so that they no longer go as a choice delicacy as they do in the early summer. Chickens are down 1 1/2 cents a pound and as a result one big store is offering to market a ton of spring chickens on the market Saturday morning at 15 cents a pound.

Sauerkraut on the Market. Sauerkraut has reached the local markets. It costs $1.50 a barrel and is retailing at 7 1/2 cents a pound. The demand for it in the two days it has been on the market has been a good one.

Pumpkins and squash are on the market. Halloween's season is drawing near and soon there will be a demand for the big yellow pumpkins for jack-o'-lanterns as well as for pumpkin pies. Good sized pumpkins are advertised at 7 1/2 cents apiece. Squashes, according to sizes, are listed at from 5 to 10 cents apiece.

Tokay grapes are still on the market at 15 cents a basket. Blue plums are still abundant at 40 cents a box. Kieffer pears are still abundant and held at 45 cents a market basket. White onions are on the market at 50 cents a market basket. Potatoes are holding up at $1 a bushel. Home grown potatoes are coming in, but the supply is not abundant.

Wants Railroad to Provide Fare to the Land Drawing

The colonization departments of the local railroads are receiving many curious inquiries these days during the registration for the government land in the western part of the state. The colonization bureau of the Union Pacific has been busy from morning until night answering letters asking for information. Some of the questions and letters are ridiculously funny. A family in a Michigan town wrote a letter and every member of the family had some curious question to ask. Each one signed his name to the letter and he did not draw a couple of full sections. When the clerk announced that he would have to cough loose with railroad fare to North Platte, the gentleman began to hurl maledictions at the railroad for not carrying passengers free of charge and stamped disgustedly out of the office.

Another land hungry man asked the Union Pacific to help him get back a dollar he spent in securing a map of the land because the map was incorrect and misrepresented the facts. He appeared quite peevish when they informed him that it was not their fault that he fell for the graft.

Not Heeded That Way. A good many years ago, a steamer was sailing down the river, with a stranded old Yankee captain in command. Suddenly the engines stopped, and there was nothing doing for several minutes. The passengers began to talk it over among themselves, and one of them, a portly, persistent sort of person, advanced pompously to the captain.

"What seems to be the trouble, cap'n?" he inquired. "Why have we stopped?" "Too much fog," answered the skipper, curtly. "We can't see up the river."

"But I can see the stars overhead quite plainly," argued the persistent party. "Mebbe ye can," admitted the captain grimly, "but unless the blizzards bust we ain't goin' that way."—National Monthly.
