SEES CURE FOR SOCIAL EVIL

Dr. Kelly Tells Medical Alumni Not Necessary to Scatter It.

SOMETHING WRONG WITH CITY

Eastern Man in Speech at Banquet Says Poor Also Are Entitled to Protection of Their Residence Districts.

"If the social evil remains scattered through your city after you have closed your district, then there is something wrong with your police system or both," said Prof. Howard A. Kelly, professor of gynecology, Johns Hopkins university, in his talk at the annual banquet of the alumni of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine at the University club last night. Over 200 men and women were present. Prof. Kelly admitted that the social evil was somewhat removed from the subject upon which he was supposed to talk, but said that his medical and surgical work brought him constantly face to face with the results of the social evil in districts. "These restricted districts are where most of the diseases come from," he said.

"Wilmington, N. C.," he asserted, "cleaned up its district two years ago and it has succeeded in cleaning up the town. I got a splendid letter from a prominent man there a few days ago stating that the situation had been effectively handled there with the aid of an efficient police system. If these people scatter in your city they come near you, and if you don't get rid of them there is something wrong with you."

"Some have argued that when you drive them out of the districts they go into the residence districts. I think that is about the worst argument I ever heard, as if we who have means were the only ones who live in the lower and poorer part of the city, whose children are constantly subjected to the temptation and the influence of the 'district' next door, did not have residence districts also."

Urges Clean Cities. Prof. Kelly also touched on general sanitation of cities, saying, "A dirty city is an immoral city. You have no more right to have a dirty city than to have a dirty house." He mentioned many diseases such as typhoid fever, eye trouble, throat trouble, and a host of others that come directly from unsanitary conditions of the city, and added, "I don't know that when the truth shall be discovered, it will be learned that cancer also comes from the same source." Regent George Coupland of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine spoke on the medical school and the public, touching on the relation of the institution to the welfare of the people at large. Prof. Henry B. Ward of the University of Illinois spoke on the medical school and its place in the research work of the world. Chancellor Samuel Avery spoke of the medical school as a component part of a great university, and touched on the completion of the first building in Omaha for the great medical school of the University of Nebraska. Dr. M. A. Tinsley of Council Bluffs was toastmaster.

Girl Cycle Riders to Be at Auditorium; Brought by Tom Eck

Tom Eck, the old-time racing bicycle man, is in Omaha with his three pretty racing bicycle girls, Miss Jessie Stalter, the champion girl bicycle rider of the world; Miss Mary Lloyd, the Irish champion and Jeno Stronach, the Canadian flyer. Mr. Eck has arranged for the racing girls to ride races and exhibitions at the Auditorium Saturday night and Sunday. They will race on home trainers, which is a machine composed of three rollers with a large dial that shows distance traveled. They ride much faster than any horse can run. Miss Jessie Stalter will race five miles against five local riders and allow them to race one mile each, while she goes the full five miles without a stop. It has been many years since there was a girls' bicycle race in Omaha. Tom Eck has been connected with the racing bicycle game for thirty-three years and rode some of his best races in Omaha at the Coliseum in the days of Jack Prince, Reading, Morgan, Knapp, Dingley, Bullock, Fixley and other noted riders, when thousands of people witnessed their great races every night. Tom Eck has brought out most of the champions of America in the last thirty years. He invented the loop-the-loop, the globe of death and the motorcycle whirl.

Court Adjourned; Juror at Wedding

In order to allow Dudley H. Freeman, a juror, to attend the marriage of his sister, Miss Arta Freeman, to Fred G. Davenport, District Judge Leslie yesterday adjourned court early in the afternoon and proceedings in a criminal case were interrupted until today. Testimony was finished, but if the case had gone to the jury Freeman would have found himself locked in the court house instead of at the wedding, unless a verdict had been speedily reached. Judge Leslie considered it would be unfair to turn the case over to a jury when one man would be anxious to arrive at a hasty decision. The Freeman home is at 2556 Sahler street. Rev. Mr. Savidge performed the wedding ceremony.

Parents Are Bidden to Supervise Work of Their Children

"It is the duty of every mother and father in Omaha who has a son or daughter in the high school to take a vital interest in that son or daughter's work at the school," declared Principal Kate A. McHugh of the high school, to a large gathering of parents and former eighth grade teachers of entering freshmen at the freshmen reception held in the school auditorium last evening.

"The parents of high school students should primarily aid the pupils in the selection of the proper subjects," the principal said. "Many of the unfortunate scenes at graduation, when a student realizes that he or she has chosen the wrong studies to prepare them for their college course, would be avoided if a slight supervision on the parents' part, their child's selection of subjects were exercised."

Fully seven hundred parents of freshmen pupils at the high school were present at the reception, which is the first of a series which Miss McHugh is contemplating this fall and winter for the purpose of putting the people of Omaha in closer touch with the school and its work for the community. The meeting was in charge of the freshmen representatives on the student council, Roderick Lalouche and Nora McDougal. LeRogue presided and introduced the speakers of the evening, Miss McHugh and Superintendent E. U. Graff of the Board of Education.

Superintendent Graff deplored the fact that such a large number of students dropped their work in the school at the end of their second or third years. He stated that national statistics showed that of all the pupils who enter high school in the country only 12 per cent complete the four years' course.

PROUD OF ADMINISTRATION

Commissioner Lefevre Lauds American Government of Panama.

KNITTING CLOSER FEELING Latin-Americans and Americans Are Becoming Better Acquainted and Are Liking Each Other Whole Lot More.

"We pride ourselves on having a progressive government and a clean administration in Panama," said Senator J. S. Lefevre, special commissioner of the Republic of Panama to the Panama Pacific exposition, in his address before the Commercial club at the public affairs luncheon at noon yesterday. He is on his return from San Francisco, where he had gone in connection with the arrangements for the exposition there. He paid splendid tribute to Governor Richard L. Metcalfe of the canal zone, and also to Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, both of whom he says he knows personally.

He urged that pains be taken to secure a better understanding between the United States and the Latin-American countries. "A better understanding and a reciprocal knowledge," he said, "should form a foundation for an ever-increasing trade between the United States and the Latin-American countries." He quoted an epigram from W. J. Bryan, "Nature made us neighbors, justice should make us friends," and spoke highly of that sentiment. He gave figures to show that $6,000 tourists from the United States had gone to Panama last year, and advised those who would go next year to book their passage early as the rush would be greater from year to year. He said that the feeling between the Panamanians and the Americans was of the very best now.

"We now feel that we are of a common offspring," he said, "in the Panama canal, and we are coming closer together."

Makes Criticisms of Currency Bill

At a meeting of the Omaha Credit Men's association, composed of representatives of the larger mercantile houses of the city, at the Loyal hotel, J. B. Higgins discussed "How the Pending Currency Bill Would Contract Credits." He said:

"Recent events have aroused our leading merchants, who have come to realize the full import of the provisions of the Glass-Owen currency bill and the injurious effect it is sure to have upon the business of jobbers, manufacturers, packers, stockmen, grainmen and farmers. They are alarmed at the absolute certainty that the bill, if enacted, will bring about a very serious contraction of credits, not only in the west, but throughout the whole country. This is a vital defect of the bill which cannot fail to work hardships upon business concerns, large and small.

"For instance, the banks of Omaha, under the operation of the proposed law, will lose from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 of their deposits. In order to make up for this loss they must ask for a corresponding reduction in their loans—say of 50 per cent, or about $4,000,000. This means that the jobbing, manufacturing and packing houses and grain dealers of this section must reduce their lines of credit in their local banks all the way from 30 to 40 per cent. This in turn means the enforced cutting down of their business, a corresponding reduction in the stocks of goods on hand and a reduction in the number of traveling men now on the road selling goods, with a proportionate reduction of employees in all departments of business.

"Nor will the banks escape this enforced retrenchment. Every large business house that is borrowing money will be compelled to curtail its business and reduce the number of its employees."
