is a sine qua non, is admittedly the fundamental principle of the administration policy, but beyond this the successive steps taken or contemplated are not disclosed. An air of confidence in official circles is taken to indicate the United States is satisfied that all great powers have agreed to support the administraown plan of restoring peace in Mexico.

In the absence of any official statement, but on the basis of expressions of opinions by competent observers, it is believed Huerta has been informed that practically all the powers diplomatically represented in the Mexican capital are disposed to defer to the United States in the task of restoring constitutional government. Such a state ordinarily will be accompanied by a pointed inquiry framed to develop Huerta's intentions. It is believed that the latest note may not
