MUSIC

By HENRIETTA M. BEES. ADAME THERESA CARRENO, the celebrated pianist, is again in America upon a concert tour. In a recent interview in Musical America she tells of her early training, which was her father's, a training which few of the many students of today ever receive. Among other things, he gave her many splendid exercises for stretching, which Madame Carreno uses daily in her teaching. He also wrote 500 technical exercises for her which took her three days to go through. Everything must be played in all keys, with every possible variety of touch, and with all kinds of shading. 'Part of my training consisted in being shown how to criticize myself. I learned to listen, to be critical of my own work; if it was not up to the mark I must see what was the matter and correct it. The earlier this can be learned, the better. I attribute much of my subsequent success to this ability. This I always try to instill into my pupils. I tell them any one can make a lot of noise on the piano, but I want them to make the piano speak! I can only do a certain amount for them; the rest they must do for themselves.'

OMAHA SINGER TO RETURN TO GIVE A CONCERT.

successful when they turned their attention to the lighter forms. A word from Mr. Henderson on the 'Bigtone' habit: Respect for true beauty sets a limit to volume of tone. A singer should never try to rival a steam whistle. A pianist should not lift against the bombs of the militaria. A steam calliope puts them both to rout in splitting the eart's groundlings and fills the thoroughfare with gales of wonder. But it does not make music. Word has been received that Miss Myrtle Moses, a former Omaha girl, will give a recital here about the middle of January. Miss Moses was a great favorite in musical circles when a resident of this city, and her many friends will be glad to hear of her coming appearance here in recital. Miss Moses is at present in Chicago, where she is arranging several programs with Madame Henschel, preparatory to going into concert work. During the last season Miss Moses has been studying with Jean de Reszke of Paris, who is enthusiastic about her voice. When he first heard her sing M. de Reszke asked her if she would come back and let him hear her. She went, and he then gave her a forty-five minute lesson free, a most unusual mark of favor. When one also considers that M. de Reszke charges $20 per lesson, it was quite a present. Miss Moses got her start in Omaha, and at her forthcoming recital is anxious to show her friends what she can do. The date of the recital will be announced later. Miss Florence Hinkle, remembered in Omaha as the soloist with the Mendelssohn choir on two occasions, has just given her first New York recital, in which she scored a great success. George W. Chadwick, one of America's leading composers, comes in for a fine eulogium from the pen of H. K. Krebbs, one of New York's foremost writers on musical subjects. Among other things melody, is not ashamed to assimilate tendencies that are good, and not afraid to put forth a venturesome foot himself, but neither is he timorous when it comes to confessing an adherence to several ideas of beauty. In these remarks alone the voice is a creed for the modern composer, and a standard, which if it were attained by other composers would give us more better ones and perhaps fewer composers. The second concert of the matinee series at the Brandeis theater will be a joint recital by Franz Egenloff, baritone, of the Royal opera in Berlin, and Katherine Goodson, eminent English pianist, on Tuesday afternoon, November 26. Mr. Egenloff is a German by birth; by parentage Polish and Russian, his mother having been the former and his father the latter. He speaks English, German, French, Italian, Polish and Russian fluently and in private life is known as Baron von Kleydorff. In Germany the critics have delighted to tell their readers that 'everything Egenloff does bears the stamp of a noble mind, refined feeling and warmth of temperament.' His excellent work first at the Opera Komishan and later at the Royal opera brought the much coveted appointment of royal chamber singer. Katherine Goodson is just starting on her fifth American tour. She appears as soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra and the National Opera orchestra of Montreal, all before the holiday season. In private life Miss Goodson is Mrs. Arthur Hinton, whose second symphony will have its first American hearing with the Minneapolis orchestra on November 21. Last year Miss Goodson scored a series of remarkable triumphs in Berlin and the principal cities of Norway and Sweden. The famous Melba-Kubelik combination which has gone on record as the most extravagant ever made, has been breaking records in all cities thus far visited. At the New York Hippodrome on Sunday night, November 3 the box-office statement shows a gross sale amounting to $10,000.00, and the assertion is proven by a photograph of this statement which has been sent to Miss Hooper, who will have charge of their Omaha concert at the Auditorium on the evening of January 12. This figure broke all former records for the New York Hippodrome and was reached after both Mme. Melba and Mr. Kubelik had each been heard in individual recital in New York during the preceding fortnight. Referring to the New York concert the Sun says: 'Miss Melba was greeted by prolonged applause. The famous prima donna's beautiful voice was at its best and she gave a remarkable display of her bird-like notes and marvelous powers of vocalization. 'Mr. Kubelik likewise received an ovation from the admiring audience, and his numbers were played with his usual brilliancy of technic and style.' The New York Tribune of the same date says: 'Mr. Kubelik's mastery is now a many times told tale and in the Faganini Concerto D major and Wieniawski's 'Souvenir de Mouscou' he had abundant opportunity to display it, and made the most of it, to the boundless delight of the audience. 'But the star of the evening was, of course, the great Australian soprano, and Mrs. Melba never sang more beautifully or put herself more heartily into her singing. Her faultless style and the perfection of her trill were most wonderfully evident. She sang with a voice as clear and round and fresh as in the days when she was one of the four or five gems in the diadem of the Metropolitan opera house. 'A musical was given at the First United Presbyterian church, Twenty-first and Emmet streets, on Thursday evening to dedicate the pipe organ which they have but recently installed. The organ is a very nice one, with possibilities for considerable variety, with a moderate number of stops, which make it available for satisfactory solo work, as well as for accompanying the service. The audience was large and very appreciative, and their cordial spirit did much for the evening's success. The following program was given: PART I. First movement, C minor Sonata. Guilmant. Andante-Surprise Symphony. Hadyn. Mr. Fred Frenkel, Miss Jessie Roy and Nere Refforgues. Inflammatus ('Stabat Mater'). Rossini. Easter Morning. Malling. Nocturne B Flat. Chopin. Tu Va Drai ('Il Trovatore'). Verdi. 'I Hear You Calling Me'. Marshall. Miss Steffen. PART II. 'Barcarolle'. Hoffman. 'Turkish Patrol'. Mozart. 'The Lost Chord'. Sullivan. 'My Little Wren'. Osgood. 'Since You Went Away'. Johnston. 'Bedouin Love Song'. Pansini. 'Toccata'. Dubois. Mr. T. E. McCullough, Miss Beale Roy, accompanist. Word has been received of a very successful recital that was given in Minneapolis November 11 by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Fremantel at the First Baptist church in that city. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fremantel were cordially received by both press and public. Disregarding Signals. 'Muriel,' said the old gentleman sharply, 'that young man you had in the parlor last night is dull of comprehension. All I had to do was cough when the other chair remained too late, and they would take the hint and depart. Did this one say anything when I coughed last night? 'Yes,' replied the beautiful daughter, 'he said the next time he called he was going to bring you some cough drops.' Buffalo Express.
