

ANTI-SALOON MEN RETURN

Omaha Delegates Back from the Columbus Convention.

CONGRESSMEN ARE PRESENT

Superintendent High Says There Were Ten Men to One Woman at Convention, with Ministers in Background.

The Omaha delegates to the national Anti-Saloon league convention at Columbus, O., have returned full of enthusiasm for the campaign there launched for a prohibition amendment to the federal constitution.

"You might have thought that was a convention of women and preachers," said F. A. High, district superintendent of the Nebraska league, "but as a matter of fact there were ten men to every woman delegate, and the preachers were in the background. There were no less than a dozen congressmen at the convention as delegates. Besides there were a half dozen senators on the program to speak who had to send their regrets at the last minute, because the status of the currency bill at that moment would not permit them to leave Washington. These were such men as Borah of Idaho, Kenyon of Iowa, Shepherd of Texas, Gronna of North Dakota and McCumber of North Dakota. Besides these there were federal judges, district judges, lawyers and men from practically every walk of life."

Greatest interest at the convention, according to the returned delegates, was created by Major J. B. Merwin of Middletown, Conn., who was closely associated with President Lincoln during the civil war. He was specially commissioned by Lincoln to do temperance work among the soldiers in the union army. On the floor of the convention he drew out an old note book over fifty years old in which he had written the exact words of Lincoln as Lincoln uttered them to him on the liquor traffic. In part they were: "Merwin, we have cleaned up by the help of the people a colossal job. Slavery is abolished. The next great job is to abolish the legalized liquor traffic." Lincoln then expressed the hope, according to Merwin, that he might live to see this accomplished also. Major Merwin also claimed to have been present when Lincoln signed the internal revenue law, and read from his notes what he claimed to be the words of Lincoln that he was signing the bill merely as a war measure and that after the war he should work for the repeal of the law.

School Boy Wonders Why He Was Sent Home by Teacher

A pupil walked into the Fort special school for boys Tuesday with a sickening odor about him. His classmates fled from the area of odorous aura and left him standing alone on one side of the room. Principal E. D. Gepson came in, and having had more or less experience in such matters, he pointed his finger at the lone youngster and told him he had better go home.

Some of the peculiar odor still clung to the youngster's clothes when he came into Superintendent E. U. Graff's office yesterday, under the false impression that he had been suspended from school. The callers in the office looked at the boy's "stinking morning face," scrubbed to a bright pink and moved away from him. The boy explained: "I was crossing a corn field on my way to school when I saw the prettiest little rabbit in a trap. I thought the boys would like to see him, so I opened the trap and took him out. You know he wasn't a rabbit at all. He was a skunk. And he scratched me and bit me, and when I let him loose he just ran like the devil all around me."

Postal Terminal Here Soon to Open

The Omaha terminal of the United States railway mail service will be opened about December 1. Notice has been given local officials by the department at Washington that a lease for space in the Burlington route station here has been signed. A room on the west side of the station, which was formerly used by the Pullman company as a store room, is now being fitted for the railway mail service terminal. Three men already have been selected for duty as clerks and authority to employ six others has just been granted. It is expected that the terminal here will, within a short time, give employment to thirty men, working in three shifts.

AXEL SUND WILL RANCH ON CLAIM IN FOREST RESERVE

Axel Sund, educator conductor at the Burlington headquarters, one of the men who was lucky in the recent land lottery, has returned from Hyannis, where he went to select and file upon his 60 acres. In the drawing, Sund was No. 53, but owing to the fact that no many ahead of him failed to appear and make their filings, he got claim No. 30. He was able to secure a section of land that is largely bottom and covered with a heavy growth of grass. He is of the opinion that his holdings on the forest reserve are easily worth $5,000. He will go ranching early next spring, moving his family to the claim.

Who Pays Income Tax?

Questions Answered by Ross L. Hammond, Collector Internal Revenue, District of Nebraska

NOTE—These answers are only opinions designed to help tax payers to understand the law, pending rulings by the Treasury Department, which rulings will have the force and effect of law. These rulings cannot be accurately forecast, so these opinions are only tentative.

Question—What changes are made in the law governing corporation income? Answer—Whereas under the old law returns were made for the previous calendar year, they may now be made for the year ending with any month designated by the corporation, and the tax will be computed on the returns for the year ending on the day so designated of the year preceding the date of assessment. Also there is now an exemption for corporations, but they pay on their entire net income. This return shall be made to the collector within sixty days after the close of the year designated.

Q—May deductions be made in returns for money paid out for improvements or betterments? A—No.

Q—What corporations are exempt from the operation of the law? A—The same as hitherto.

Q—What deduction may be made by a corporation for interest paid on its indebtedness? A—Hitherto it was permissible to deduct interest at the average rate paid during the year on a sum at no time more than the capital stock. Now there may be deducted interest accrued and paid within the year on indebtedness to an amount of such indebtedness not exceeding one-half the sum of its interest-bearing indebtedness and its paid up capital stock outstanding at the close of the year.

Q—Where bonds have been sold by a corporation with a guarantee that interest received thereon shall be free from taxation, who pays the tax? A—The corporation is allowed to make no deduction for this. Adjustment or it may be made between the corporation and the bondholder.

Q—Can a corporation put in general expense amount paid for city, county and state taxes, to be deducted from gross profits? A—Yes; all taxes except special assessments for local benefits are proper items of deduction. This does not apply to banks, however. Under the Nebraska laws, personal taxes are held as liabilities against the shareholders of banks, though the banks are required to pay them on behalf of the shareholders, as a matter of convenience.

Q—Are corporations liable for the additional or surtax? A—No, and to prevent the withholding of too large a sum from distribution among stockholders that they may evade payment of the surtax that might otherwise accrue on their part, the secretary of the treasury will be judge when an undue and unnecessary reserve is withheld.

Q—Will corporations have to report for the full year 1913, or only from March 1, the date back to which the new law was made applicable? A—It will cover the whole year from January 1, 1913, to December 31. The new law repealing the old one, contains a provision re-enacting the corporation excise tax, purposely to cover the months of January and February. Thus corporations will make but one return for the year, though for the two months of it the tax will be technically an excise tax, which for the remaining ten months will be an income tax. This explains the difference between twaddle-dee and twedd-lem.

Q—If a corporation fail to file within the prescribed time, what are the penalties? A—A fine not exceeding $10,000, which penalty may be compromised, where no fraud was intended.

WOULD LEASE AUDITORIUM

Such is Latest Suggestion for City from Real Estate Exchange.

HOT DEBATE IS ENTERED INTO

Some of the Members Are for Such a Proposition, While Others Are Bitterly Opposed to It in Every Way.

Real Estate exchange members had another long squabble at the meeting at noon on the proposed purchase by the city of the Auditorium. The committee on the proposition reported favoring the drawing of a contract between the city and the owners of the Auditorium whereby the city should lease the Auditorium for a period of about five years, paying an annual rental to the owners that would make the building a paying proposition. After a long argument the report was received so far as it goes and the committee was continued.

In debating the report D. C. Patterson said it would be just as sensible to sell the park of the city to some private concern and then pay the landlord an annual rental for the use of them. W. T. Graham though on the contrary that it should be adopted as a kind of compromise on the question of acquiring the Auditorium. Harry Wolf feared the ground on which the Auditorium stands would be much more valuable in five years than it is now, and believed it foolish to lease it for that period with the prospect that it would take more money than now to buy it. W. H. Green wanted to know what advantage the real estate men could show him or any other home owner in the city to induce him to vote to bond the city further for the purchase of the Auditorium.

C. C. Wilson reported for the city planning committee, calling attention to the recent opening of a new addition on a dollar down proposition. He held that misrepresentations had been made by the firm that was opening the tract, and that the lots were being sold at two and three times what they were worth. The matter was left open for discussion at the next meeting.

A committee consisting of W. T. Graham, David Buck and Latham Davis was appointed to report on the feasibility of pushing the suggestion of W. H. Green for the building of a bridge across the Missouri river at Florence.

Beauty Doctor Tells Secret

Detroit Beauty Doctor Gives Simple Recipe to Darken Gray Hair and Promote Its Growth.

Miss Alice Whitney, a well-known beauty doctor of Detroit, Mich., recently gave out the following statement: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, promote its growth and make it soft and glossy. To half a pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of the hair, relieve itching and scalp diseases, and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

W. S. Whitten May Be Successor to Guild

Secretary W. S. Whitten, of the Lincoln Commercial club, it is whispered, may be the next commissioner of the Omaha Commercial club to succeed J. M. Guild. The committee considering candidates has worked for a long time on a long list of candidates. Recently it was announced that a process of elimination has been going on and that the great majority of the candidates had been eliminated. Now it looks out that Secretary Whitten of the Lincoln Commercial club is in the lead among those who are still in the ring.

GREAT LOSS TO IMPORTER

Merchandise Shipped in Haste From Abroad is Often Wet in Transit.

LINENS BOUGHT AT REDUCTION

Entire Shipment Secured by Brandeis Stores at About 40 Per Cent Reduction on Account of Wet Boxes and Wrappings.

The feverish haste on the part of foreign shippers to rush merchandise into American ports, since the tariff bill has gone into effect, has resulted in at least one stroke of rare good fortune where Omaha people will reap all the benefit. The steamship Peatrisia, which arrived in New York harbor on October 26, carried a cargo which included an immense lot of fine linens. These linens were a part of the immense consignment of goods destined for American consumers which had been held in European ports for weeks, awaiting the new tariff law to be put in effect. In the anxiety to get their merchandise into the United States ports with the shortest possible delay, goods were shipped on vessels often poorly adapted for the purpose. When the Peatrisia arrived in New York it was found that water had splashed in portholes and dampened the boxes in which the linens were packed. The dealer to whom they were consigned refused the shipment and they were offered for sale at a price representing a 40 per cent reduction.

A representative of Brandeis Stores was present at the warehouse of the importer when these goods came in and bought the merchandise at the reduced figure.

On examination it was found that the linens themselves sustained no damage to speak of, only the pasteboard containers being water stained. The vast majority of the table cloths, napkins, towels and fancy linens, bought at such a sweeping reduction, were undamaged.

As a result the people of Omaha will shortly be given the opportunity of buying at the 40 per cent reduction some of the most desirable linens ever imported to this country. The sale will start Friday.
