

Creighton Senior Hop. The annual Creighton senior hop at Chambers' dancing academy Wednesday evening proved a success from every standpoint, and those attending joined in extending congratulations to the members of the class for such an enjoyable function.

The dance was experimental in a way, being formal for the first time in the history of the school. As a result the attendance was greatly diminished from that of previous years, running less than sixty couples. This factor alone added much to the pleasure of those attending, as the large crowds at former dances have made it almost impossible to dance with comfort.

After the success of last night's venture, it is probable that such occasions will in the future be strictly formal. The decorations were unusually artistic and called forth much admiration. The ball room represented a large art gallery. About the walls were placed oil paintings, three each on the east and west walls and one at the north end.

At intervals along the sides were distributed small palms and ferns. At the center of the hall was a massive white urn filled with American Beauties. The balcony was draped with the Creighton blue and white bunting, as were the smaller electric lights.

From the ceiling hung a half dozen large lights, their rays softened with enveloping strips of orange, blue and white. The grand march was led by Miss Margaret Morrison and Francis L. Bushman, president of the class.

Attractive programs were distributed as souvenirs. They were made of blue leather with white trimmings. On the front cover was a large triangle in white, with a C cut out and showing blue on the background of that color.

A number of the 'variety foot ball team' were present as guests of the class. A large crowd witnessed the dance from the balconies—among them some of the patronesses and friends. There were twenty-two dances, including the grand march. One each was dedicated to the members of the class, while one each to the patrons and patronesses and to former classmates and Alma Mater.

JEWELERS GIVEN VACATE ORDERS. C. B. Brown Co. in Predicament Because of Bank Rebuilding. Must Prepare for a Move Just When They Should Care For Busy Holiday Trade.

For a business house to receive an order to vacate is discouraging enough at any time, but when a prominent jewelry establishment receives such an order right at the threshold of the busiest season of the year, its management must be at its wits' end to prevent a general demoralization.

The case of the C. B. Brown Co., the Jewelers, Diamond Merchants and Silversmiths at 16th and Farnam streets, is particularly aggravating, this well known firm having received notice to move, just at a time when they should be considering their holiday trade.

There has for some time been talk that the United States National Bank building, in whose premises the C. B. Brown Co. have been doing business for years, might sometime remodel its structure, but when the bank recently made public the statement that the entire structure would be torn down on February 1, the announcement almost came in the shape of a blow to the jeweler tenants.

It isn't the easiest thing in the world to find suitable immediate quarters for a high grade jewelry establishment and the C. B. Brown Co., to use a present day slang expression, is "up against it." The order to vacate comes right in the season when a jeweler is expected to do his heaviest business of the year, so the C. B. Brown Co. has two things upon its mind; first to dispose of an unusually large stock of specially purchased Christmas wares; second, to find a suitable store room in an exceedingly short space of time.

The C. B. Brown Co., has chosen the only course open to them, and that is to thin down their stock to such an extent that the finding of a suitable location need not worry them. With this in view they have planned a colossal "Must Vacate" Sale, which will include practically everything in their stock.

Parse all Sunday newspapers and you will find an interesting announcement telling of the "Must Vacate" sale prices to be immediately featured by the Brown establishment. Every line of goods in the Brown stock will be cut from 10 per cent to 60 per cent, excepting only a few lines that are restricted because of price contracts with the makers.

Dubarry Boudoir Jacket. You will have to make this jacket— lining and all—before you can appreciate its real beauty. But doesn't the jacket appeal to you? A soft, open net of fine white yarn with a delicate pink silk lining showing through; border in a close stitch on which are little rosebuds in silk embroidery. It is one of the prettiest French novelties, it is very easy to make. Send the coupon below for complete directions. It is made of Fleisher's Dresden Saxony—one of the sixteen FLEISHER YARNS—the yarns that you can depend on to give you the best-looking, longest-wearing garments. Only the finest wools are used, which the methods of spinning preserve in all their original strength and beauty. Whatever kind of yarn you need, always insist on Fleisher's—look for the trade-mark on every skein.
