SCALP TROUBLE FOR OVER TEN YEARS

Small Bunches on Scalp, Itched, Formed Scale. Hair Came Out. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured in Two Months.

308 Harrison St., Elyria, Ohio.—"My scalp was a scalp trouble. I first noticed small bunches on my scalp which commenced to itch and I would scratch them and in time they got larger, forming a scale or scab with a little pus, and chunks of hair would come out when I would scratch them off. It caused me to lose most of my hair. It became thin and dry and lifeless. I was troubled for over ten years with it until it got so bad I was ashamed to go to a barber to get my hair cut.

"I tried everything I could get hold of, and received no cure until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment when the scale commenced to disappear. The way I used the Cuticura soap and Ointment was to wash my scalp twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap and rub on the Cuticura Ointment. I received benefit in a couple of weeks and was cured in two months." (Signed) F. J. Sushar, Jan. 23, 1913.

Why not have a clear skin, soft white hands, a clean scalp and good hair? It is your bright-cut. Cuticura Soap with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will bring about these coveted conditions in most cases when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

PASSENGER RATES MAY BE REDUCED IN THE SPRING

Preston Davison, chief rate clerk in the passenger department of the Union Pacific, is back from Chicago, where, with other rate clerks of the system, he spent the week threshing over the rates to the west. It was determined that the rates in the states where the 2-cent per mile law is in effect were low enough. However, it is possible that a reduction in through rates to the coast may be made, and possibly a reduction to Wyoming points.

In Wyoming the state law permits the charging of 3 cents per mile, and there is a possibility that there will be considerable of a reduction in the rates to the common points in Wyoming. The rate to Ogden may be reduced. If there is a reduction in the rates, it will not be made immediately and probably not before next spring.

"Sloppy" will be arraigned in police court Monday morning.

WATSON AND SMITH CONFERENCE

Californian, Guest of Nebraskan, Pleased with Omaha Spirit.

DISCUSS BUSINESS PROBLEMS

Watson, Father of Alfalfa in West, Says Crop Reports More Than Justify Years He Spent in Pleading the Cause.

F. H. Smith of Los Angeles, Cal., mining and coal operator in Minnesota and Washington and a large land holder in the San Joaquin valley, is in Omaha, the guest of H. D. Watson. Mr. Watson is the man who introduced alfalfa in the middle west, refuting a $10,000 a year position in New York and spending a large private fortune to prove that alfalfa would be a profitable crop in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys.

"I am much impressed with the business solidarity of Omaha," said Mr. Smith, who has visited all the large cities of the United States, and is a close observer of business conditions. "Four new buildings are edifices of which to be proud, and the spirit of the people convinces me there is a great future before you."

Mr. Watson but recently returned from the east. He was enthusiastic over the Nebraska and Kansas alfalfa crops this year, which have exceeded the highest hopes of his most sanguine supporters in the days when he was seeking to convince the people that alfalfa farming would be the salvation of the semi-arid country.

With hundreds of thousands of acres in alfalfa and a never-failing crop worth millions each year Mr. Watson feels his labors have borne a harvest which repays him for the quarter of a century and the fortune he devoted to the cause.

When he was five years past the half century mark Mr. Watson, then a national figure in the agricultural world because of his unflinching zeal in advocating a new mode of farming, left Nebraska practically penniless, acquired a new fortune, and now with renewed vigor is directing his energies toward the solution of the food production problem.

Crowds Move On to Lincoln for Iowa-Nebraska Ball Game

Notwithstanding the change of the weather from warm to cold and windy, Omaha sent a big crowd of enthusiasts to the Nebraska-Iowa football game at Lincoln this afternoon. Numerous automobile parties left for Lincoln this morning and the Burlington road hauled more than 700 Omahans on its trains.

The regular 9:15 morning train on the Burlington went out with seven extra coaches, carrying 800 foot ball fans, and the special at noon carried 400 persons. A special on the Rock Island came through from Iowa City at 10:30 this morning, carrying 200 passengers, all en route to Lincoln. One hundred were students from the University of Iowa and the others were enthusiasts from towns along the line of road. The cars of the train were resplendent in banners and pennants and most of the passengers were willing to bet that Iowa would win.

Chief Dunn to Ask More 'Cycle Cops

Chief of Police Henry W. Dunn will ask for more motorcyclist police officers to control the automobiles. He has instructed the motorcycle force to devote the greater part of their time to curbing speeders in the business section of the city.

"The great danger, as proven by the accident Friday, is on the downtown, crowded streets," said Chief Dunn, "and I have asked the officers to keep a more strict discipline among the drivers in the crowded sections."

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE WITH GAS AT THE EAGLE HOTEL

George Papakostas attempted suicide at the Eagle hotel, Thirteenth and Jones streets, by turning on the gas jet in the room which he occupied. Jacob Haderl smelt the escaping vapor and after tracing it to Papakostas' room summoned the police.

Police Surgeon Fochtman responded with a pulmonologist and after reviving the patient had him conveyed to St. Joseph's hospital, where he is getting along nicely.

Nimble Fingers

Relieve Many of Their Possessions

"Love Eternal," was the inscription on the inside of a plain, gold band ring that Carl Caswell, of Humboldt, Ia., carried in his trouser's pocket, along with $9 in bills. When two dusky, damsel halled him on Eleventh street, between Douglas and Farnam streets, they had a hard time deciding which of the articles pleased them most, so to save time, they stole the ring and the money.

Caswell, however, was only one of three ruralites that fell victim to the wiles of Omaha's street maidens.

Helmer Nelson and Andrew Hesterland, of Central City, were waiting at the Union depot for a train that would take them to New York, where they meant to engage steamboat passage for Sweden. Two demure young girls interferred with their scheme, however, when they told the men that they were having trouble in getting their trunks away from the Midland hotel. The girls said that they, too, were Sweden bound. The men offered their assistance, which was accepted to the extent of $200, paid over, when one of the girls asked them to cash a bank draft for her.

Ed Lund of Oakland had an adventure with a young lady, but who cost him $27. The money was extracted from his pocket while his thoughts were elsewhere. Later, when Detective Sullivan and Lahey arrested a girl, who gave her name as "Dorothy Dix," he accused her.

Nervy Pickpocket Tells Victims How "Easy" They Were

Walter Murray, alias Frank Morten, who recently confessed to a veritable volume of "heal" or sneaking jobs in Omaha, came through with an addition to his already lengthy list Saturday morning, which practically completes all the tricks turned in Omaha for the last three months. Several of his victims were present in the chief of detective's office Saturday morning, where Murray with seeming enjoyment told how easy they had been to rob.

Murray was sentenced to fifteen years in the Michigan state penitentiary in 1912, but escaped in a spectacular manner. He confessed Saturday morning that when arrested by Officer Chapman he had made all preparations to rob the Union Pacific ticket office in broad daylight.

"It would be easy," declared Murray when asked if that wasn't a pretty big deal for one man to accomplish.

Woman Breaks Ankle Trying to Save Her Child from Injury

In an attempt to save her 6-year old daughter from falling from a moving street car yesterday, Mrs. E. Spooner, twenty-fifth and Seventh streets, fell from the car at Sixteenth and Douglas streets and broke her right ankle. Mrs. Spooner and her daughter were on a south bound Halsem Park car on the rear of the car waiting for it to come to a stop before alighting. The little girl in some way extricated herself from her mother's grasp and was getting off the moving car, when Mrs. Spooner attempted to take hold of the child. In doing so she missed the child and her foot caught in the car's wheels, fracturing it. She was carried to the office of a doctor in the Brandeis building by Fred Anheuser, city prosecutor, who witnessed the accident.
