MISS WILSON AND MR. SAYRE MARRIED AT WHITE HOUSE

Second Daughter of President and Mrs. Wilson Becomes Bride at Executive Mansion.

CEREMONY IN EAST ROOM Rev. Mr. Beach and Bridegroom's Brother Officiate.

HUNDRED INVITATIONS Court and Diplomatic Corps Present.

OTHERS ARE PERSONAL FRIENDS

Miss Margaret Wilson is Maid of Honor-Dr. Wilfred T. Gren-'fell in Best Man-Description of Decorations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 .- Simplicity with dignity-the same ideal which Presideat Wilson has cherished for his adndnistration since its inauguration marked the marriage late teday of Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second daughter of President and Mrs. Wilson, and Francis Bowes Sayre.

During the 113 years that have clapsed since the White House was built, twelve weddings have taken place there and it fell to the lot of Miss Wilson to be the thirteenth, a coincidence all the more remarkable because the president often has told his friends that the number thirteen has run through his life as a harbinger of good luck. Curiously enough the brida! party and minister number just thirteen:

The ceremony was solemnized in the historic east room, majestically decorated in masses of flowers for the occasion, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, but long before that hour the White House grounds assumed a holiday appearance.

and carriages to and from the north portico told the gathering crowds outpors that the bridal party-the ushers and attendant maids-had arrived and that all was in readiness for the unusual event-the giving in marriage of a daughter of the president of the United Sattes.

Touch of Homeliness.

Notwithstanding its offic at brilliancy. there was a distinct touch of homeliness in the day's affair. Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Princeton, N. J., where Miss Wilson long taught a Sunday Bible class and where the Wilson family worshiped for a score of years, was the officiating clergyman. The maid of hoper was the eldest daughter of the Miss Margaret Wilson. The bridesmalds were the bride's younger sin-ter, Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, and Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore; Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton a relative, and the other s chums of girlhood days.

The best man was Dr. Wilfred T. Grenwith whom Sayre spent many months ministering to the sick and needy the rock-bound Labrador coast. The ushers were the groom's college mates. Benjamin B. Burton of New York, Dr. De Witt Scoville Clark, jr., of Salem, Mass.; Dr. Gilbert Horrax of Montclair, N. J., and Charles Evans Hughes, jr., a son of the justice of the supreme court. The bride and groom, both blonde and of about the same height, she, known off wit. frills of the point lace.

as the White House beauty because of her classic Grecian features, and he, a tall, lithe young man, athletic in appearance, with sharp features and afair complexion, would have preferred a quiet close friends-such as it might have been had not the parents of the bride been in the gift of the nation. Reluctantly was it made an official affair. The dipematic corps, it was realized, had never been omitted on any important social occasion at the White House, nor had the members of the cabinet and the supreme court. To Washington society today's was the supreme event of the season, yet the guests were hardly drawn from official life, but from the vant circle of (Continued on Page Four.)

The skirt was the modish draped one the fullness showing most on the left front. The neck was cut out a little and the embroidery, of an orange blogsom design, outlined the opening and also extended down the side front of the bodice and the skirt. The sleeves were finished

The lace also appeared in the draped waist and where the folds were caught it was with tiny clusters of orange blosdraped folds on the skirt. The train was limited to the family circle and very long-long enough for regulation court use-and was cut square at the end The tulie bridal veil almost fell the length of the train. It was held to the coiffure by a cap of point lace, similar to the lace trimming the dress. The Dutch cap style of veil arrangement was exceedingly becoming to the bride, whose fair hair, very smoothly dressed in coils close to her head, gave just the right effect. Orange blossems sprayed the lace, and formed something of a wreath around

The pink color scheme of the wedding found its loveliest expression in the bridermaids' dresses: The maid of honor and hats made precisely alike, but varying in shade. The maid of honor wore band of chiffon in which several soft the palest pink of any, a shell tint so ep rose and the dresses of the other make was very modish. These costumes were worn with moderate sized hats trimmed with silver lace and made of pink moire.

Mrs. Wilson's Gown.

Mrs. Wilson, wife of the president, were the most elaborate gown in which she has thus far been seen in the White House. The shade was ecru, a color very becoming to her, because of her clear skin and rosy cheeks. The material was velvet brocaded chiffon, with scru lace and mink tall trimming. Under the lace band of old blue and gold brocade showed and the soft colors in this combination were reproduced in the corsage lace, which was very supple, fell in a cascade from the walst to the hem in front and waught back the drapery at the left side. A sash, also made of the lace, fell at the back, the ends being

Supreme Court of United States is to Review Slocumb Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.-Associate Justice Vandevanter of the supreme court today issued directions for the Nebruska supreme court to send up for review a case in which Mrs. Charles Bulger, a widow, of Lincoln, won $2,750 damages from two saloon keepers on allegations that they had made her husband s habitual drunkard. Mrs. Buiger suled under the Slocum law, making saloon keepers responsible for any injury caused by their sales of liquor. She began her action in her husband's life time, claiming damages first for the loss of support, and when he died in 1916, from pneumonia contracted at his mother's grave, she amended her original complaint by charging that drinking had made him unable to regist the discase.

The two saloon keepers contended the Slocumb law is unconstitutional and the case will be fought out in the supreme court on these grounds.

to be in retreat. An Associated Press representative stationed at the top of a wireless telegraph tower 300 feet high, three miles east of El Paso, centirmed the rebel report that the federals were falling back south of Juarez. He could see the maneuvers with field glasses. Fighting was still in progress south of Juares late today, but the battle which is opposite Yslets, Tex., twelve miles east of El Paso. The fighting opened early today at the same hour that fighting was heard on the rebel front. Inez Salazar, a former rebel genoral, but now a Huerta commander, was said to be leading the federals at Zaragosa. He had been reported a prisoner several times today, but rebel officers in Juarez declared they knew nothing of his capture. The fighting was heavy at Zaragoza, the roar of artillery being plainly heard in El Paso. Juan N. Medina, chiet of staff to Gen-eral Vilia, stationed in Juares, declared that "Juares is not in as much danger from the direction of Zaragoza as in other directions." and added that "we will take care of them." Medina declared that the federals had all been driven back as far as thirty miles south of Juarez except those at Zaragoza.

Today's fighting was the second day's conflict between the two contending armies, said to total from 10,000 to 12,000 rebels repulsed him. Then the fighting opened on Villa's center, when the fed-

Fighting was desultory throughout the night along the front and near Zaragoza and opened at dawn today. Colonel Porfirio Talamantes, one of the rebel colonels, was killed in the battle last night, according to announcement at rebel headquarters. Simultaneously fifing opened at 4:30 this morning southeast of the Juarez race track and opposite Yslets, Tex., about twelve miles east of Juares. The federals used cannon in both attacks. The appearance of the federals near the race track indicated that they had worked their way around the constitutionalist cutposts during the night. The heavy fighting at Zaragosa opposite Yaleta was taken to contradict the claim that General Inez Salazar's federal troops had been surrounded and many taken prisoners in last night's battle. Pure Food

Is a Reason For Thanksgiving!

The Thanksgiving Day "full dinner-table" does not mean one loaded down with just any kind of food. Nawadays women are paying attention to the acience of Diesetics, although they may not know it by that name. By whatever name she may call it, however, every housekeeper knows that the welfare of her family demands a certain, well-ordered variety in the kinds of food she chooses for her table. She knows also that first, last, and all the time the food must be fresh and pure. It is not the quantity but the qualof food that governs the full dinner table. There are so many thoroughtested and reliable brands edibles advertised in The Bee and in other good newspapers that there is no excuse for a woman putting inferior, adulterated brands on her The advertisements in the daily newspapers show what foods are being used in all of the best regulated homes, and which help to make all days Thanksgiving Days.
