no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was offensive and I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I concluded to try Peruna, and I found relief and a cure for that dreadful disease, catarrh. I took five bottles of Peruna, and two of Manalin, and now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle of it in my house all the time."

"It is a remarkable story that Mr. Ikard tells. It is a true story, but very briefly told. If he put into his story all of the details it would make a chapter of suspense and agony, hope and final recovery, equal to the wildest fiction. Any one wishing to do so can write Mr. Ikard and ascertain whether there has been any exaggeration in his case."

"The 'Kills of Life' will be sent free by addressing the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

MISS WILSON AND MR. SAYRE MARRIED AT WHITE HOUSE

friends of the two families throughout the country.

Four Hundred Invitations. There were but 400 invitations issued—50 less than at the Roosevelt wedding seven years ago—but the Wilsons are newcomers in Washington, whereas the Roosevelt administration was then five years old and officials and their wives had had a greater opportunity to establish intimate relations at the White House.

Members of the cabinet and their wives and families, as well as the justices of the supreme court of the United States and their families, the ambassadors and ministers, representing kings and emperors throughout the civilized world, the vice president and Mrs. Marshall, the speaker of the house and Mrs. Champ Clark, Senator Kern and Representative Oscar Underwood, the democratic leaders, and Senator Gallinger and Representative Mann, the minority leaders of congress, and their wives—these were the persons invited because of their official position, though among them were many close friends of the Wilson family.

Senators and members of the house generally were not invited. If they had been the East room could not have held them. It was the same arrangement as was carried out at the Roosevelt wedding. In fact, the preparations, decorations and general scheme of the day's program were along somewhat the same general lines.

Program of Ceremony. The program was mapped out to the final detail, the White House attaches fixing each part of it with the exactness characteristic of functions at the executive mansion.

High officials and relatives entered at the north front, but the guests generally came in at the east entrance through the glass conservatory decorated with ferns and palms revealing through big windows the south grounds with the fountains and Italian pools, the hedges and shrubbery—the exquisite gardening of years.

From the conservatory to the main staircase leading up to the East room, where daily hundreds of tourists are permitted to promenade, where the busts of celebrities and the tea, chests and relics of traditional history are gathered—here was a staff of ushers to assist the guests with their wraps.

The East room as it was prepared for the wedding was a picture of grandeur. The three crystal chandeliers, with their pseudo candle lights, were to be half illuminated, spreading a dim but suffused light over the gold-trimmed walls, with their cream-colored pilasters, their huge vases and mantels of colored marble.

ble. The walls of the East room are covered with wood paneling, the ornamental ceiling is done in stucco and set in the walls are twelve low relief panels, their subjects from Aesop's fables. The window draperies of heavy yellow silk damask were hung loose today and the shades drawn. At the east end of the room, facing the treasury building, there is a series of four windows, broken by piers. It was in front of these windows on a dais banked with flowers that the wedding ceremony was to be performed.

Bride Room and Lilies. The windows were draped with a large lambrequin of old gold plush, with curtains on either side. Wherever there was a loop or wherever the overhanging borders of the lambrequin joined, there were large bouquets of smilax and bunches of lilies. In front of these windows a platform approached by two semi-circular steps had been erected. The platform was covered with a rug, and immediately above the steps was a bench upholstered in white cloth, tied with white satin ribbons and filled out with bride roses and lilies. Behind this, with just enough space for the officiating clergyman to stand, was a mass of palms and smilax, with a great bunch of lilies.

Everybody stood on the glistening parquet floor, for there are no chairs in the East room except on rare occasions at musicales. The so-called official guests, including members of the cabinet, the vice president and the speaker of the house and their families, the justices of the supreme court and the diplomatic corps and their women were grouped in the southern half of the room, while the guests generally were to stand in the northern half with the immediate families of the bride and groom in the aisle between the steps and the dais after the bridal party had reached the floral bower and improvised altar. Two ropes, wound in white satin marked the green carpeted aisle.

Looking down the main aisle from the dais the green carpeting met the red rugs of the long corridor which bisects the lower floor of the White House leading from the state dining room to the east room and bordering the trio of parlors—the red room, the blue room and the green room. The United States Marine band grouped behind palms was to occupy a part of the great reception hall of marble floor and buff-tinted pilasters.

Order of Bridal Procession. At exactly 4:30 o'clock the president and Mrs. Wilson descended the main staircase from the family apartments, proceeding to the state dining room, where the bridal procession was formed. Mrs. Wilson and the members of the two families were escorted through the parlors to the southern end of the East room and finally to a place just in front of the dais. Mr. Sayre and the best man came in from the blue room, meeting the procession of bridesmaids and the bride at the foot of the dais.

From the western end of the long corridor at the state dining room the bridal procession formed. In the niches of the corridor palms and tropical plants had been placed. Each of the bridesmaids, escorted by one of the ushers, marched slowly into the East room to the strains of the famous Lohengrin wedding march played by the Marine band. Last the bride entered, bearing on the arm of the president, and preceded by the maid of honor. The bride carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, while the bridesmaids carried pink roses.

As the bride and her father reached the altar the president paused, while the groom stepped forward and led the bride up the low steps to the broad dais, where the entire bridal party stood, the president and Mrs. Wilson standing at the base of the platform.

Reception in Blue Room. The Rev. Mr. Beach read the wedding service from the Book of Common Prayer and immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party proceeded to the Blue room to receive the guests, with President and Mrs. Wilson standing with the bride and groom. Then the bridal party entered the private dining room, where the table, with its big cake, was decorated with pink roses.

Refreshments for the guests were served in the state dining room. The room is lighted by silver chandeliers and eight silver electric side lights. It is furnished with chairs of mahogany, upholstered in dark green tawesty. Three large mahogany console tables, with large carved eagles for supports, were used for serving.

Through the corridors hung with the pictures of presidents and their wives after the reception, while the Marine band rendered selections, and by 6 o'clock sable fur. Her hat was small, matched in color and was trimmed with fur and ostrich feathers.

Mrs. Houston, wife of the secretary of agriculture, wore brown charmeuse and chiffon, trimmed with pink fur, and her hat in deeper shades had touches of the fur and an ostrich feather trimming it.

Mrs. Joseph Rucker Lamar, wife of Associate Justice Lamar, wore a draped gown of taupe chiffon velvet, the bodice made entirely of tan-color lace and chiffon, trimmed with dark brown fur. Her brown chiffon velvet hat to match had a cluster of plumes at the left side, shading from taupe to dark brown.

Mrs. Van Devanter, wife of Associate Justice Van Devanter, wore a black velvet gown and a black velvet hat. Mrs. Mahlon Pitney, wife of Associate Justice Pitney, wore a wistaria velvet costume and hat and sable furs.

Mrs. Martine in Black Chiffon. Mrs. Martine, wife of Senator Martine of New Jersey, chairman of the senate committee which selected Miss Wilson's wedding gift, wore embroidered black chiffon and black silk. White chiffon and tulle appeared in the waist, and where the draperies were caught there were small rhinestone buttons. Her black beaver hat was faced with black velvet and was trimmed with black and white plumes. Her furs were black fox.

Mrs. Joseph R. Wilson of Baltimore, sister-in-law of the president, wore a superb costume of wistaria broadened velvet, Parisian beads; fitch fur and cream lace were combined with touches of the velvet in the bodice. Her hat was of velvet, with plumes and fur.

Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, wore a smart costume of black chiffon velvet, with a touch of lace and ermine. Her black velvet hat was trimmed with plumes.

Mrs. James H. Mann, wife of Representative Mann of Illinois, wore white charmeuse, with draperies of black tulle caught with rhinestone buckles. Her hat was black, with white plumes. Her jewels were diamonds and pearls.

Mrs. Franklin K. Lane, wife of the secretary of the interior, wore a blue broadened calling dress and a long blue coat. Her hat was of dark blue velvet and has creamy ostrich plumes trimming it.

Miss Clark Wears Pink Chiffon. Miss Genevieve Clark, debutante daughter of Speaker Clark, wore a dainty ruff of pink chiffon cloth, made over old lace. Her hat was a black picture model.

Princess Traidos Prabhadi, wife of the Siamese minister, wore a stunning gown of yellow crepe and net, embroidered in crystal beads. A tint of Oriental coloring showed through the entire gown. At the corsage she wore a red rose. Her hat was black, trimmed with fur and parade plumes.

Mrs. William H. Wilson, wife of the secretary of labor, made her first appearance at the White House function today. Her dress was of taupe mehlasse poplin, trimmed with cut steel ornaments and touches of lavender velvet and lace. Her small hat was black and was trimmed with black plumes.

Miss Agnes Wilson, daughter of the secretary of labor, wore robin egg blue crepe meter. The bodice was of gold-threaded shadings lace over yellow chiffon and trimmings of tango velvet and rhinestones. Her hat was black and was trimmed with an algerette.

Mrs. Lurton, wife of Associate Justice Lurton, wore corn flower blue charmeuse with an Oriental beaded tunic and black hat with white plumes.

Mrs. Hurlbut, wife of the postmaster general, wore dark brown crepe de chine with touches of old rose, peacock blue and old gold in the trimming with lace and skunk fur. Her hat was of black velvet with a band of skunk fur.

Miss Lucy Burleson, daughter of the postmaster general, wore silver rose taffeta trimmed with lace and fur, with a black hat trimmed with flowers in old rose shades and fur.

President Finley Dies of Apoplexy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—W. W. Finley, president of the Southern railway system, died at his home here this afternoon, he was stricken with apoplexy at breakfast time this morning and sank fast.

President Finley was stricken with apoplexy and hemorrhage of the brain while he was preparing to leave his home for his office. Before medical attention could be summoned he was dead. Although he was stricken before noon, word of his death did not reach the Southern railway office for five hours.

Mr. Finley had been apparently in good health and the fatal stroke came without warning. With his family he had recently returned from his country home at Warrentown, Va., and reopened his home here. He is survived by a widow, a son and three daughters.

William Wilson Finley was born in 1852 at Pass Christian, Miss. He became president of the Southern Railway system in 1908 after the death of Samuel B. Spencer. He began railroading as a stenographer in 1873.

Aviator is Killed When Car Capsizes

BUC, France, Nov. 25.—Edmond Perrayon, one of the best known aviators of France, was killed today when his monoplane capsized while he was maneuvering over the aerodrome here.

Perrayon was the holder of several altitude records. While flying alone at Buc on March 11, this year, he attained a height of 13,650 feet. In June he ascended with a passenger at Buc to an altitude of 18,398 feet and a little later in the same month at Vienna made 18,398 feet with two passengers.

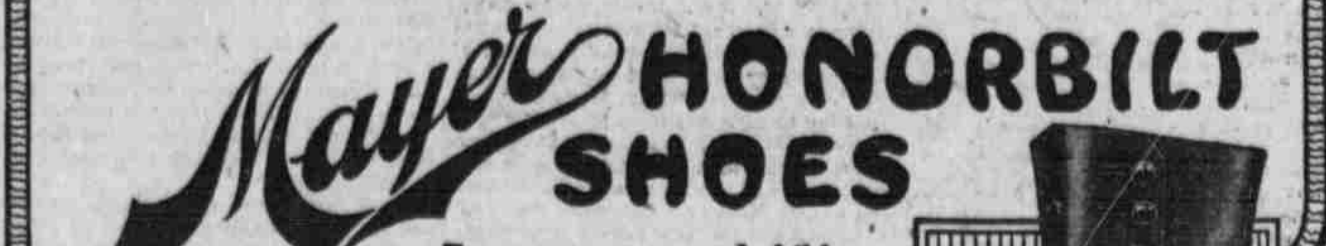

WILSON READS HIS MESSAGE TO CABINET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—President Wilson read to the cabinet today the address he will deliver to congress when it convenes in regular session next week. Several members of the cabinet spoke in praise of the address, but did not reveal any of its contents. The cabinet spent some time on the Mexican situation, but no announcements were made as to the trend of the discussion.

Ladies! Secret to Darken Gray Hair

Bring back color, gloss and thickness with Grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, is a trouble some. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, at drug stores, known as "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.
