SATURDAY, NOVEMBER TWENTY-NINTH, NINETEEN THIRTEEN

The Last Saturday in November is the Last Saturday Before the Great Holiday Month

We are so crowded with merchandise, so rushed with business, so deluged with holiday gift buyers during December that we have neither window space, fixture or counter room to make proper display of regular dry goods. And so we have set apart this Saturday for a room making, clearing out sale of special lots. We hope to make the occasion eventful and epochal. Our word for it things will hum; business will buzz from 8 a. m. until 9 p. m., closing hour.

At 8 o'clock, 200 sterling silver picture frames, cabinet size, 98 cents, instead of $1.50, the usual asking price; 200 people can supply themselves with one satisfactory gift at least.

HERE'S ANOTHER AT SAME HOUR.

Cross off one more gift for father, brother, or someone else's brother. Neckwear for men, attractive and appropriate. Four-in-hand ties, each in a holly box, 17c for one, 50c for 3, $1.00 for 6.

AND MEN, LET US HAND YOU ANOTHER PACKAGE.

A combination—handkerchief, Socks and Tie—all in one box, and a splendid Christmas box it makes; 59c for the whole lot.

AND NOW, A CONFESSION.

We have had good business, month after month, this whole year. Our total sales have forged ahead. At no time in our career has the growth been so great or the business so satisfactory. And yet notwithstanding all this, the warm weather has reduced the volume of trade in certain sections. So on Saturday we intend to sell Coats for all ages at such reductions as usually obtains in January. We need the room, and can use the money in other directions advantageously. Coats for tots of 2 to 6 years; coats for bigger girls, 8 to 14 years; coats for biggest girls from 15 to 17 years, and incidentally these last are fitting for small or slim women. Some beauties in the lot; many of them the late season's styles, $12.50 to $18.00 former prices; Saturday pickings at $10.00 each.

We will offer a lot of practical staple and durable Tailored Suits, junior sizes for girls and young women, similar suits sold up to $20.00 each, at $10.

REMARKING ABOUT AND OF HATS FOR CHILDREN.

We told you before that we would scale them down and down till we would find a price which would put them in the money drawer. This should do it. We'll see—these are staple hats, plush, corduroy and velvet; were $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50; Saturday, $1.00.

FURS! FURS! FURS!

Think of writing about Furs with such a temperature. Makes the moisture ooze almost at the thought. And yet, before we know it, Old Hermes and the Frost King may get up a combination which will make us glad to extend to FURS a cordial welcome. Children's Furs are suitable for gifts, comfortable and cute looking and NOW is a good time to buy. Priced Saturday from $2.50 to $35.00 for a handsome set. This means muff and scarf for any size.

JUST THE RIGHT PLACE HERE TO MENTION HANDKERCHIEFS.

If we are famed for any one thing more than another it's Handkerchiefs. Never such a variety. NOW a good time to buy.

The other day we were discussing with a lawyer the prevalent practice of misrepresentation and extravagant verbiage used by advertisers, and he seemed to regard it as a harmless amusement. He quoted the old Latin phrase, "Caveat emptor," and said it was up to the buyer to beware. Perhaps the fall of Greece and Rome was due to the moral decadence, which made it necessary for everybody to look out for themselves, and absolutely lose all confidence in each other. In our own country it has been and is still necessary to keep one's weather eye open. Our business, however, has been built on a different platform, but occasionally a mistake will be made, and then there's nothing for us but to explain and give redress. We placed on sale some very pretty trays—2 were shown in the window—the ticket called them Mahogany trays; they were not. The ticket did not tell the truth; the frames were mahoganized; they were very good value, but we hope everyone who bought will return them, if they thought they were mahogany, and are not satisfied.

We are still telling you about specials which go on sale at 8 a. m. Saturday at Hosiery section. An excellent number of black silk hose, ingrain and pure silk; $1.19 instead of $1.50 pair. And, by the way, if chance or business takes you near this section, Look at silk bloomers, novel princess slips, embroidered silk vests; all made from a glove-like fabric called Italian silk. And what more exquisite for a Christmas gift? If in doubt, here's a suggestion worth noting.

AT NINE O'CLOCK SATURDAY THE GLOVE SALE—

About 40 dozen pairs, excellent lamb and a few real kids; elbow and shoulder lengths, for your own use or for a gift nothing could be better, and it's a rare opportunity coming as it does so close to holiday time; tan, black and white.

- $2.75 for the 16-button instead of $3.50 pair.
 - $3.00 for the 20-button instead of $3.75 pair.
- At 9, remember, this sale starts, and if there's anything in signs you must be prompt to be sure of getting your sizes.

And now for what is to be perhaps the PREMIER event of all the Special Sales on Saturday:

PROMPTLY AT 10 A. M. THE SILK SALE STARTS

As this will be the last silk sale before Christmas day, we want to make it a record breaker.

Center window has been filled with sample pieces since Wednesday. We bought a little over 1,100 yards of colored messaline from the selling agents of a Connecticut manufacturer. These are the ends of this season's goods left on the agents' counters. The maker is famed for the high grade silks made in his factory. The colors are the popular ones. The lengths run from 3 to 12 yards, none of which will be cut. With these we will offer for sale about 1,200 yards of fancy silks; a splendid assortment of desirable goods. Silks in this sale worth up to $1.00 and even $1.25 per yard. All to go at one price, 69c yard. 10 o'clock in the morning, don't overlook, if you need silks.

BOOK AND STATIONERY SECTION.

Do you realize that we are within 25 days of Christmas?

Great display of holiday novelties in cards, calendars, books, booklets, etc. High art objects from the Pohlson galleries, the Yolland line, A. M. Davis line, Thompson's cards, Lenbric and Elkins, etc., Raphael, Tuck & Co., perhaps the world's greatest card artists, will print your own name on private greeting cards. We have the samples; we take the orders and deliver in ample time before Christmas. Europe uses these extensively. New York and the larger cities are wild over them. Omahans must not be laggards. Quite the most Omahaesque thing of the season is the cartoon calendar by Spencer of the World Herald. We sell them exclusively in Omaha. They'll amuse you and they are just the thing to send abroad, every month carries a very unique and clever cartoon, and only 25c each. We will give away again Saturday with every dollar purchase at this section one of the cute Dutch calendars. No more after Saturday.

We have awakened interest in trade circles and have given much satisfaction to our customers thru' the cutting of prices in our Dress Goods section.

RABBI COHN ON CATHOLICISM

Pronounces it First Definite Orthodox Form of Christianity.

CIVILIZING FORCE OF EUROPE

Collapse Due to Internal Excesses Provoked by Reformation—Thinks Climax of Power Reached, Decay Begun.

Dr. Frederick Cohn, rabbi of Temple Israel, gave the first address last night of a series specially prepared for the winter and spring. His subject was "Catholicism," with which he dealt objectively and sympathetically, reviewing the history of this form of the Christian religion and offering a word of prophecy as to its future. He pronounced it the pioneer orthodox Christianity, but thought it had reached the climax of its power and service and from now on would wane.

"Roman Catholicism," said Dr. Cohn, "was the first definite, official, authentic, authoritative, orthodox form of Christianity. Not counting the first three centuries in which Christianity was in process of formation and crystallization, the so-called Christian centuries from the establishment by Constantine in 313 of Christianity as the religion of the Roman empire to the Protestant reformation in 1517 were Catholic centuries.

ject and repudiate Roman Catholicism, reject and repudiate what was the official, orthodox, in fact, the only kind of Christianity as it existed for fully twelve centuries.

Claims as to Founding.

The Roman Catholic church claims to be founded directly on Jesus Christ, whom, together with all Christians, it considers to be the Son of God. It claims to be not only the only true form of Christianity, so that all other Christian churches are not "true churches," and all other forms of the Christian religion are heresies. But it claims to be the only true religion, the only real revelation of God, the voice of the living God, the sole depository of divine truth, which has been entrusted to its keeping and which can be received only through its ministers, who are the direct successors of the apostles and representatives of God and of Christ, with the pope at their head, who is the vicar of Christ, the vicar of God, and through his sacraments, of which there are seven (baptism, marriage, unction, ordination, penance, confirmation and mass), the only channels of divine grace.

"There is no salvation outside of the Roman Catholic faith. The pope, who is the successor of Peter, who was the greatest of the apostles and upon whom Christ founded His church, holds the keys of heaven and hell. The Roman Catholic church boldly puts forth the claim of infallibility of the pope and of the doctrine of spiritual absolutism.

"These are tremendous claims of the supernatural order which the church has held practically (allowing for their development and evolution) through all the centuries, and which she holds today.

science and civilization. She was schoolmistress to the nations in their early formative years. The first universities were Catholic universities. Art, sculpture, painting and music flourished under Catholic inspiration. The great cathedrals of Europe are monuments to the Catholic religion. Dante, the greatest literary light in the middle ages, was a Catholic. It may be said that the Roman Catholic church ruled the earth politically, intellectually and spiritually. Throughout the entire middle ages the Roman papacy was at its height in the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth centuries. Gregory the Seventh (Hildebrand) brought Henry IV in penitence to Canossa, Barbarossa humbled himself before Innocent III.

"With the beginning of the fourteenth century a decline set in, due, as Catholic historians admit, to corruption and dissension within the church itself. The lives of a great many of the clergy, including even the popes, were scandalous. Pope Alexander VI, one of the Borgias, was a monster of iniquity. Europe beheld the unedifying spectacle of two and even three popes contending at the same time for the papal crown and vilifying and anathematizing one another.

"In 1517, despite the pope's proclamation of personal infallibility and the highest spiritual planes of the church, came the complete loss of temporal power. Roman Catholicism is now but one of the many forms of Christianity and of religion in the world.

What of Catholic Future?

"What of the future of the Roman Catholic church? I am not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet, but as a student of history, as an observer intellectually of the rise and fall of nations, empires and religions, of the whole divine course of historic evolution, it would not seem too presumptuous to say that Roman Catholicism as the specific form of Christianity has probably reached its zenith, played its full part in the economy of unfolding religious life. In many things it is opposed to the modern progressive spirit of the age. It is an absolute monarchy in the era of democracy. It discounts science and philosophy. It puts its ban upon individual liberty. It is bitterly opposed to socialism.

"Nietzsche in his Zarathustra introduces as one of his characters the last pope. There was a first pope, there may be a last. The popes may pass, as did the Caesars, whose spiritual successors they were. But the essence of Catholicism will not pass, nor the spiritual influence which it has undoubtedly been despite all its errors, aberrations and imperfections, and influence on the world for good despite its inquisitions, political and spiritual tyrannies, gross immoralities and crime; a lamp of religion burning with brighter or obscurer ray, bringing hope, consolation and inspiration to myriads, producing some of the noblest characters, not merely a Francis of Assisi or a Savonarola or the official saints dross and thousands of uncanonized deeds and thousands of uncanonized saints throughout the world, simple, devout, pious souls illustrating in their lives of integrity, conscientiousness and self-sacrifice the nobility of the fundamental and habitual teachings of their faith; a true lamp of religion in the temple of God, one of the seven candles of the sacred menorah in the endless service of the ages."

Greek Slave Brings $1,200. The "Greek Slave" by Hiram Powers, one of the most famous of American sculptures, has just been sold in New York to Captain Isidore for $1,200. This statue was once owned by A. T. Stewart, who paid $1,000 for it at the sale of Prince Demidoff's collection. The decline in price represents the complete change that has come about in artistic standards since 1840, when Powers was supreme.—New York Sun.

APPLES NOT KEEPING WELL

Soft Spots and Dry Rot Will Force Up the Price.

ALL EGGS ARE STILL SCARCE

Grape Fruit is Some Cheaper—Southern Vegetables Take the Place of Home Grown Variety.

"Apples are not standing up this year." This in the language of apple dealers and grocers means that they are dry-rotting. Also it means, as a result, that apples will probably be somewhat higher this year than usual. Fine looking apples on the market at the present time will often not bear close inspection. On close examination they will often be found to be soft in spots or perhaps throughout the entire apple. On cutting into the fruit one will find it to be black and soft practically to the core. The appearance in general resembles that of an apple that has been severely bruised and has been given time to rot at the bruise. However, it occurs in the choicest and most carefully handled apples as well as in the windfalls. It is the opinion of grocers that choice stuff that will "stand up" will be sky high before the winter is over. Fancy Idaho and Oregon apples are still selling at $2.50 a bushel, but retailers who have noticed the tendency to dry rot are anxious to unload as soon as possible. Colorado grapes are on the market now at $1.50 a bushel. These are of good quality, but smaller than the Idaho and Oregon apples.

Eggs are selling at various prices, according to the degree of freshness. Strictly fresh eggs, which are very hard to get at all, are selling at from 8 to 10 cents a dozen. Storage eggs are also in greater and greater demand. One of the large packing houses in South Omaha has been offered 2 cents a dozen wholesale for all the eggs in their storage plant. The offer was refused.

Louisiana fresh garden produce is on the market. Green onions are here at 5 cents a bunch. Radishes are 5 cents a bunch. Beets, carrots and turnips from the south are also on the market. Cauliflower and tomatoes are being shipped in from California. Ripe tomatoes can be had at 10 cents a pound. The demand for them is not great.

California navel oranges are on the market a month earlier than usual. Ordinarily they do not come to the Omaha market until in January. They are abundant now, and are of an excellent quality. They are selling at 25 and 30 cents a dozen.

Grape fruit has come down a little. The large sizes known as size 45, can be had at 10 cents apiece now.

There has been very little change in the price of meats. Also there was little demand for meats the day after Thanksgiving. This is attributed to the fact that people fill up on Turkey and good things on that day and do not regain their normal appetite for several days after.

Why it Wearies Tommy.

Good old school days was the topic that was being talked in the lobby of a Washington hotel the other day when Congressman George W. Fairchild of New York was reminded of an incident that happened in Gotham.

Some time since Little Tommy, the heir of a happy home in that village, started to go to school, and since nothing was said to the contrary, the youngster's father thought he was hugely enjoying himself.

It soon developed, however, that papa was making a bum guess. After about a week Tommy slumped into the dining room one morning and languidly dropped into an easy chair.

"Papa," he remarked to the paternal relative who was at breakfast, "I'm getting rather tired of going to school. I think I will stop."

"Think you'll stop?" exclaimed the surprised father. "What is your objection to going to school?"

"It's just this way, papa," jawfully answered the youngster. "It breaks up the day so."—Philadelphia Telegraph.
