10.155 Receipts were very moderate for a Tuesday, but advices from other markets were bearish, and trade opened out very slowly, early bids being general theorem were quoted as steady, but these were very scattering, and as a general thing the market opened out birle lower.

As a rule killers preferred heavy and butcher weight hogs, and this sort of stuff was not more than a big five wever. Light and light mixed stuff did not fare so well, however, and outside of a few loads sold early to shippers, they were a fint dime lower bulk of the butchers and heavies moved at $7.55 and 10.55 and 10. and he took to camp life like a duck to water, chopping wood, showeling snow, and assisting with the camp "wash." He gave away thousands of dollars in a day, but it was quickly learned that he would not "you are a standard to show a standard that he would not be "gouged" out of even two "bits." Gates rose up on his hind legs, as it were, and eyed the leading citizen with

"What would I go with you for? The woods are full of huckleberries like you. meet 'em by the hundred every day back east. Say, you go to -." And Gates rode off merrily in his own car with the "rough-necks." The leading citizen is stated still to wear a dased look n his eyes from the unaccustomed joit. When Gates sent for the rector of the Episcopal church to ask him the amount of the church debt, he gave the young parson a quick giance and observed can-didly, "You've got a good face, but a poor overcoat"—a matter which he speedfly remedied by the purchase of the best garment that 'Davey" Jones' outfitting establishment afforded.

The "yellow-back" cow-puncher, who put his foot over a banknote which Gates dropped, got away with it without comment, but not with the delusion that he had deceived its owner. Gates merely turned his head and gave him a level stare, but he never spoke to the puncher
