

EXHIBIT FOR PANAMA EXPO

Union Pacific Has Completed Plans and Sculptors Work on Models.

DESIGNED BY FRED THOMPSON

Former Omaha Man Reproduces Yellowstone Park in Miniature for Visitors at the Big San Francisco Fair.

Plans have been complete for the building of the Union Pacific exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition and sculptors and artists are now working out the models.

The exhibit will consist of a miniature production of Yellowstone national park, with its numerous attractions consisting of sporting grounds, hobbling pools, the grand canyon and its roaring waterfalls, together with a score of other features found nowhere else outside of this national reserve.

The designer and director of the building of this exhibit is Frederic Thompson, formerly partner of "Skip" Dundy, who was well known to many Omaha people. Mr. Thompson was the designer of Luna park and other scenic attractions at Coney Island, and has also had wide experience in building exhibits for other expositions.

Admittance to this exhibit is gained through the western and popular ways to the park and the visitor is conducted through the miniature station of Yellowstone, Mont., to the center of Wonderland. Real water will be used for the geysers, rivers and waterfalls and the entire exhibit will be surrounded by beautiful landscapes, including the forested slopes and snowcapped peaks of the Tetons.

Old Faithful inn will be the central attraction of the park where meals will be served to visitors and where 1,500 people may dine at one time.

The approximate cost of building and maintaining this exhibit is estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. The estimated attendance will be 750,000 visitors. The Union Pacific exhibit, covering about five acres, will be located near the Van Ness street entrance to the exposition grounds at which all the street cars from the main portion of the city unload visitors.

Jury Finds Pool Hall on Fire When Hit by the Tornado

The first lawsuit tried in district court in which an owner of property damaged by the tornado of March 23 sought to recover fire insurance under the lighting clause of his policy resulted in a verdict for $1,000 for the plaintiff, half the amount for which the building was insured.

The suit was brought by Frank Wilson, negro preacher of Topeka, Kan., owner of the wrecked Idlewild pool hall, Twenty-fifth and Grant streets, in which a score lost their lives. It was tried before Judge Estelle.

Special interrogatories put to the jury to determine on what ground any sum awarded by it might be based were answered in such fashion, lawyers say, as to indicate probability that the supreme court would sustain its decision, if the case should be appealed.

The jurors found that the building was struck by lightning and that damage was done by fire before it was wrecked by the tornado. Judge Estelle instructed them that if they decided that this state of facts existed they might return a verdict for the plaintiff and that they should assess the amount to be recovered.

Among the special questions put to the jury was this:

"Was the building destroyed by the tornado?"

"Partly," was the answer.

A different reply probably would have invalidated the verdict, as it would have been inconsistent with the other findings of the jury.

A large number of similar suits against fire insurance companies are pending and in prospect, attorneys having been waiting for the decision in the first case tried. The result probably will be the changing of the form of fire insurance policies throughout the country, if juries continue to hold that the present standard lightning clause fails to protect companies from liability from loss by tornado.

City Commission Will Consider New Milk Ordinance

A new "pure food" ordinance, taking the responsibility of serving clean milk in restaurants and boarding houses away from the restaurateurs and placing it on the shoulders of the dairymen, is being drafted by City Attorney Louis J. Toe, and will be submitted to the city commission for adoption Monday.

This ordinance is being prepared at the suggestion of Dairy Inspector Claude P. Bossie and will replace the ordinance declared unconstitutional by the courts, in that it was discriminatory. This latter ordinance provided that restaurant men and cafe proprietors serve milk to patrons in bottles. The course said this was a discrimination in favor of drug stores and boarding houses where milk is sold.

Mr. Bossie said: "Dairymen will be compelled to deliver milk in sealed bottles and these bottles must be opened in the presence of the patron. The regulation will apply to restaurants, cafes, drug stores, boarding houses and other places where milk is sold."

"Under the ordinance which has declared unconstitutional the restaurant men could adulterate milk after they had received it in cans from the dairies. Such a condition cannot prevail under the ordinance being prepared."

Inspector Bossie has complained against restaurant proprietors for violations of the adulterated milk ordinance within the last few weeks, and the convictions have included the big majority of those complained against.

Guarding Against Croup.
The best safeguard against croup is a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house. P. H. Ginn, Middleton, Ga., writes: "My children are very susceptible to croup, easily catch cold. I give them Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and in every instance they get prompt relief and are soon cured. We keep it at home and prevent croup." Use it also for coughs, colds, hoarseness, tickling throat, bronchial and la grippe coughs. It contains no opiates. Refuse substitutes. For sale by all dealers everywhere.—Advertisement.

SOLOIST AT CREIGHTON GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

L. G. THOMPSON, Soloist at Creighton Auditorium This Evening.

Creighton Glee Club to Give Concert at Eight This Evening

The Creighton University Glee club will present several soloists of more than usual merit in their concert with the Henry G. Cox Omaha Symphony Study orchestra this evening. On the list are Henry G. Cox, director of the orchestra, who will appear in a concerto number; John G. Jamieson, arts '09, baritone; L. G. Thompson, law '15, tenor, and Frank Hodek, pianist. Mr. Cox is a well known local musician and has for several years been at the head of the Symphony orchestra.

Mr. Jamieson is remembered for his frequent appearance in his college days in college programs. He lives in this city, and is engaged in business here. Frank W. Hodek is pronounced a wonder as a pianist. He is a pharmacy student at Creighton and this is his first year with the club. He came to this school from Baltimore, Md. Although but 19 years of age he achieved a reputation while studying music at Peabody institute in that city and was for several years pianist of the institute orchestra.

Edgar Cramer Found Dead in His Bed

Edgar Cramer, 1915 Chicago street, was found dead in bed from heart trouble yesterday by his wife when she awoke at 6:30 o'clock to prepare his breakfast. Police Surgeon R. B. Harris was called in the hope that Cramer might be restored to consciousness, but after desperate work with a pulmotor by the surgeon, it was evident that the vital spark had become extinguished before the case was discovered. Cramer was the proprietor of a cleaning and pressing establishment at Fourteenth and Harney streets. He was of middle age.

Coroner Crosby has taken charge of the body and an inquest will be held.

Charities Make Call for Soft Coal Stoves

"Out of stoves and winter here," is the cry of the Associated Charities of Omaha. Already this organization has given out 100 soft coal stoves to the poor of the city, and still there is a cry for stoves among those who are unable to buy them. The little cold wave of Sunday and the early part of the week revealed a new crop of bad stoves in the poorer districts of the city. The result was that there was a great deal of suffering Sunday and Monday, while the weather was cold. Should a sudden snow storm follow before these people are provided with means of keeping warm it is believed intense suffering would result, and perhaps even deaths among the children of some of the poorer families. The Associated Charities, in the city hall, is anxious to hear of anyone who has a soft coal stove that he could spare.

IOWA STOCKMAN DIES HERE VERY SUDDENLY

F. L. Morris, a prominent stockman of Nodaway, Ia., died at the South Omaha hospital yesterday after several days' illness. Morris came to Omaha to make some deals with commission men and while here took suddenly ill. He was removed to the hospital, where he succumbed. The body was removed to Brewer's undertaking parlors while word was sent to his home.

Fish for Beef

The idea is a big one. But it's new only in its application to America, in which it is fathered by Dr. Carl Alsburg, the successor of Dr. Wiley as head of the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry. He says: "Why always beef; why not fish?"

We have lived only a short time, yet we have reached the "fish era," long known to the economic history of other nations.

Codfish furnishes about the same amount of protein as sirloin steak, but the one is about 16c per pound, the other about 30c a pound—hering has the same nitrogen value as pork, mackerel nearly as much.

It's an Interesting Study in Economy and the more you study, the greater your predilection for fish, and the more thorough your analysis, the firmer your conviction for Booth fish.

Harper's Weekly, October 25th issue, says Dr. Alsburg "will shortly start a campaign regarding the packing, marketing and refrigeration of fish food, which up to now has been very little investigated." "More power to you, Doctor."

Booth Fisheries Will Come into Its Own

The investigation will accentuate the efficiency of this organization in transporting fish, emphasize its care in sanitation, and augment its reputation for the best in sea foods.

We undertake to place on your table the best in fish—guaranteed to be fresh—not only on certain days of the week, but every day!

And what's more to the point—and of significance to you—we do it!
