

STOPS THE NAUGHTY DANCES

Alert Field Club Floor Manager Has an Eagle Eye.

NO TANGO THERE, NO BEAR CAT

Opening Hop Demonstrates that the Rule Against Objectionable Dancing Has to Be Invoked Several Times.

"Excuse me, but you will have to stop that." Only this polite but firm command by Prof. Chambers, in charge of the floor, prevented the intrusion of the proscribed naughty dances into the field club's opening hop Saturday night.

First it was the Tango that two or three couples started to indulge in, and then it was something strongly resembling the "bear cat," and each time Prof. Chambers darted across the floor from his monitor's position at the music platform and squelched the offenders with the full weight of his official authority.

"We just can't have anything out here," explained Prof. Chambers, "to which anyone can object. Everyone has been sufficiently advised that there would be no tangoing or bear-cattling permitted at the field club. The affairs here are too large and attended by young and old, and the approved dances give plenty of opportunity for enjoyment. I am here to see that the rules of propriety are observed and I am going to do my best to enforce them."

Yell Defiance at Blood Disorders

A Remedy That Has Shown a Most Remarkable Purifying Effect.

At Last You Can Get Rid of Blood Troubles—S. S. S.

The word medicine is one of the most abused in our language. There are certain medicinal properties just as necessary to health as the food we eat. Take, for example, the well-known tonic medicine S. S. S. This famous blood purifier contains medicinal components just as vital and essential to healthy blood as the elements of wheat, roast beef, the fats and the sugars that make up our daily ration.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming eczema, rash, pimples, and all skin afflictions.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S. has a rapid and positive antidotal effect upon all those irritating influences that cause rheumatism, sore throat, weak eyes, falling hair, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks, and that weariness of mind and body that is generally experienced as spring fever. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright and energetic, but you will be the picture of new life. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient Medical Department, where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may write freely for advice and a special book of instructions. S. S. S. is sold everywhere by drug stores, department and general stores.

James H. McCulloch Killed in Accident With an Automobile

James H. McCulloch, 25 years old, son of Judge J. H. McCulloch, formerly a prominent Omaha attorney, and nephew of the McCagues of the McCague Investment company, was instantly killed Sunday afternoon in an automobile accident in the mountains near his present home, Chula Vista, Cal.

Word was received yesterday and Brower McCague left immediately for his nephew's home. Miss Anna Katherine McCague, daughter of Thomas H. McCague, returned home from California Saturday night. Otherwise, it is believed, she too, would have been in the accident.

According to the telegrams received here, Young McCulloch was taking a trip in the mountains with some friends Sunday afternoon and was returning home, down Harner grade, near Chula Vista, when the accident occurred. Relatives here believe something went wrong with the machine. They have not heard whether others with him were hurt or not.

McCulloch was born in Omaha on the fourth of July, 1888. He was a graduate of the Omaha High school, a graduate of Harvard and had studied law at Monmouth college, from which he also graduated. He had just established an office at San Diego, Cal., and begun his career as an attorney.

The McCullochs lived in Omaha until seven years ago, when Judge McCulloch's health began to fail and they moved west. They have lived on a fruit ranch at Chula Vista since then. Brower McCague went to Kansas City, where he is to meet Will McCulloch, brother of James, who is attending school at Monmouth, and the two will go from there to the McCulloch home.

Gas and Electric Managers Holding Session in Omaha

The local members of the York and Plattsmouth (Neb.), Red Oak and Shenandoah (Ia.), properties for the Continental Gas and Electric corporation are holding a meeting in Omaha in conjunction with local office of Shelby Lamp works.

New business campaigns for the various properties are being discussed. This is an example of the co-operation now existing in the electric industry between the manufacturer and the central station, jobber and electrical contractor to enable these companies to give the best possible service to their customers.

The Shelby Lamp works of General Electric company, who have had a branch office here for a number of years, under the direction of Howard F. Viot, are doing a great amount of co-operative work in this section of the country. An engineering department is maintained for the service of the customer, that not only assists in the selection of the proper incandescent lamp, but covers all points from publicity campaigns to furnishing technical data.

The meeting is being attended by W. H. Abbott, vice president, Continental Gas and Electric corporation of Cleveland; W. W. Van Horn, general manager, Shelby Lamp works, Shelby, O.; B. J. Olson and F. A. Kilder, Red Oak Electric company; Ross Fritchard and E. J. Ritchie, Shenandoah Artificial Ice, Power, Light, and Heat company; Albert Claiborn, Nebraska Lighting company, Plattsmouth; Clyde Mesplay, York Gas and Electric company, and Howard F. Viot, manager, Omaha branch Shelby Lamp works and Arthur Huntington of the same concern.

New Apartment to Replace Home the Tornado Demolished

On the site of his home, which was destroyed by the tornado, at the northwest corner of Forty-first and Farnam streets, Martin Meyer, the shirt maker, will build a $15,000 apartment house. The building will be a three-story brick, containing six apartments of four rooms each. Architects Nippell and Peterson have finished the plans and the erection will start soon. This building is another of several instances where the tornado will bring about improvement.

COMMISSIONERS TABLE SIZE OF LOAF ORDINANCE

Jay Burns, a baker, told the city commission that bakers in Omaha would have to close their doors unless an ordinance was passed repealing the present ordinance regulating the size of loaves of bread, and granting bakers permission to sell any size loaf, so long as the weight was stamped thereon. The ordinance now in force requires bakers to sell a full pound for 5 cents.

"If this ordinance is not passed the bakers will have to go out of business," said Burns. "The ordinance requiring the sale of a sixteen-ounce loaf is not fair to us. We ought to be permitted to stamp the weight on each loaf and sell any size we desire."

The council promptly tabled Burns' ordinance and will have nothing more to do with it. City Inspector of Weights and Measures Pegg opposed Burns' ordinance.

OMAHA TEACHER NERVOUS WRECK FROM TORNADO

An Omaha school teacher, Miss Bertha Schick of Mason school, is at Seward suffering from nervous prostration, a result of her experiences in the Seward tornado. Miss Schick had gone to Seward for a rest after impairing her health here with overwork. She had carried a course of law in the Creighton College of Law night class, in addition to her regular school work. She asked for a leave of absence immediately after the close of the school year at Creighton and went to her home at Seward. She was not in the tornado but her bed lay within a few blocks and saw the storm as it plowed its way through the town.

FIST FIGHT IN THE CITY HALL

Paving Inspector Strikes Col. Fanning in Face While Seated.

FANNING PUTS UP A DEFENSE

Cusick Finally Flees Before Prowess of the Contractor, Who Hurts His Hand When He Hits the Inspector.

A fist fight was part of the proceedings in the city engineer's office yesterday. Inspector Jack Cusick struck Colonel Fanning in the face with his fist while the colonel was seated in a chair and then a melee followed concerning which stories differ. It is agreed that Cusick struck Fanning and finally fled before him. Colonel Fanning had presented the city a bill for extras, asking for pay for a force of twenty-two men for two hours. Cusick had reported to the city engineer that the men only worked half an hour. J. J. Mahoney, assistant to Fanning, called on City Engineer Watson Townsend to explain that the bill was for work done in repairing at Thirteenth and Chicago streets and was not padded. Townsend stood by the inspector and refused to consider any proposition from Mahoney as to compromise on the amount which, as submitted, was only about $15. Mahoney asked him to reject the bill or do something, so he would know what to do. Securing no satisfaction, Mahoney returned to his office and Fanning called on Townsend.

Cusick Hits First. Townsend accused Cusick of being crooked and of having been influenced by ulterior motives since he quit Hugh Murphy, contractor, a year and began working for the city. According to Fanning's version of the affair he had "pinned Cusick down until he got too warm," when he suddenly sprang at Fanning, struck him in the mouth with his clenched fist and as Fanning staggered to his feet sent a hard blow to the side of his face.

Bruised and bleeding Fanning landed a right on Cusick's face, clinched and fought desperately back and forth across the office. Then breaking away, Cusick fled and Fanning pursued. The astonished office force finally brought out order. A few minutes after the fight Cusick had disappeared. Whether he was seriously hurt is not known, because City Engineer Townsend refused to discuss the affair and evidently gave orders to his office force to keep him, as none of the witnesses would talk. Fanning declared he must have had struck Cusick for the knuckles of his right hand were bruised and swollen.

Townsend Will Not Talk. "I do not care to discuss the affair for publication," said Townsend when asked for his version of the fight. "There was a discussion and a fight. That's all I want to say."

"Fanning called Cusick a crook and the fight started," said one of the clerks in the engineering department. "There was really nothing to it," he concluded, looking at Townsend.

"We've done everything we could to adjust the matter, but we refused to be the goat of the city engineering department," said Mahoney. "Townsend was arbitrary and after several attempts at settlement I gave it up and Fanning went over to see Townsend. Now that Cusick struck him, I'm sorry he went. I believe Fanning can lick him in a fair fight. Fact is, I haven't any doubt about it. I know he can."

Fanning said he might have done Cusick great damage had he caught him.

Sears Quits School Board; Resignation Will Be Accepted

M. F. Sears, militant member of the Board of Education, has resigned and his resignation was read and accepted at the meeting of the board last night. He represents the Fifth ward. A successor will be elected later.

"I'm resigning simply to make room for a better man," said Sears. "There's no unpleasantness or anything. I put my resignation in the hands of President Holovitchner May 14 so the board would know and could consider an appointee to take my place."

Sears has been considering the advisability of resigning for several weeks. He has disagreed frequently with the Holovitchner faction of the board, but this, he asserts, is not responsible for his resignation. He is bailiff in Judge Leslie's court.

"I don't know anything about the resignation. Has he resigned?" asked Holovitchner in reply to the question of whether the board had agreed upon a successor. "Well, well, so he's actually resigned. I was surprised. Of course his resignation was accepted. We will appoint a man to take the place later."

Sears has a year to serve, his term expiring next January. Several times during the stormy career Sears has served on the board and the president's faction over questions of policy and procedure.

This leaves but one strong "insurgent" on the board—Dr. J. J. Foster, who has sided with Sears in the fight against the Holovitchner dynasty.

James Richardson, Eleventh ward member, was formerly leader of the anti-Holovitchner crowd, but gave up the fight and Sears took his place.

County Will Not Pay Fifty Cents a Day at Jail Without Fight

According to members of the Board of County Commissioners the board has two recourses remaining in its fight to prevent Sheriff McShane from collecting alleged exorbitant profits in feeding prisoners in the county jail, since County Attorney Magney decided the sheriff has the law with him in his attempt to draw 50 cents a day for each prisoner.

It is probable the board will not allow the sheriff 50 cents a day or any similar amount unless it is forced to by the courts. It is assumed Sheriff McShane will start legal action to collect 50 cents a day for each prisoner, although he said the next move was up to the commissioners following County Attorney Magney's decision.

If Sheriff McShane wins in any future legal action the board then will attempt to force him to pay rent for the kitchen and the utensils he is using. The utensils were bought when the board was paying 18 cents a day to contractors, and it is said the sheriff once before offered to pay rent for them if a compromise could be made. The offer then was declined because the board believed it would be relieved of the necessity of paying any such amount as 50 cents a day for each prisoner.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARIES OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH MEET

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of Women's Auxiliaries of the Episcopal Church of Nebraska will be held at Jacobs hall Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, following holy communion at Trinity cathedral, which will be at 9 o'clock. The reports of the work of the year in the diocese will be read and there will be an entire new slate of officers elected. Mrs. A. K. Gault, who has just finished her sixth year as president of the association, will not consent to serve again and this necessitates a new officer. The late Mrs. W. B. Millard was secretary for several years and this vacancy will have to be filled.

At the evening session the speakers will be Charles Rollit, secretary of the sixth department, and Rev. Irving Johnson of Minneapolis. Rev. Mr. Johnson was formerly stationed in Omaha and also at South Omaha, and has many friends here. Luncheon will be served at noon in the parish house by the auxiliaries.

On Wednesday evening Bishop and Mrs. Williams will give a reception at their home for the visiting clergy, delegates and church people of Omaha.
