New Structure to Be Erected for Laundry to Be Entirely on First Floor—Seven Hundred Inmates.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., May 24.—(Special.)—President Holcomb and Henry Gerdes of the Advisory Board of Control, accompanied by State Architect Burt F. Miller, visited the state asylum at Lincoln yesterday and looked that institution over with a view of ascertaining its needs.

The board found conditions there very favorable, the grounds looking finely and everything going on well. Some changes will be made in the buildings, among them the old laundry, where the men will attend to the work, with the pressing and repairing department on the second floor, where the women will do the work.

There are at the present time about 700 inmates and attendants in the asylum and the completion and equipment of the building recently built will accommodate about 300 more.

Next week the board will visit the orthopedic hospital near the city and investigate its needs. It is expected that Judge Howard Kennedy, the third member of the board, will have completed his work at Omaha by a week from Monday and will be here to take up the work.

Hartington Lawyer Convicted of Larceny of Minister's Dog

HARTINGTON, Neb., May 24.—(Special.)—Stealing a Scotch collie dog from the school teachers of Cuming county, was the charge against the Hartington lawyer, R. J. Millard, who was convicted of larceny of a dog from the preacher, whose subject he formerly occupied. R. J. Millard, a prominent attorney of this place, has appealed to the district court, in high rage over the verdict.

"Stealing a dog?" he shouted, while conducting his own defense. "Do you think I would steal a dog?"

Out until after midnight the jury returned the verdict.

"Guilty of larceny of a dog," Millard was sentenced to make restitution to the preacher, Rev. A. W. Ahrendts, in the sum of $50 and to pay a fine of $20 and costs.

A short time ago, Millard's eloquence freed Maggie Davis of a murder charge, but when he pleaded with the jury in his own and the behalf of E. E. Shaffner, who was party to the suit, the jurymen found his eloquence cold and his logic wanting.

Rev. A. W. Ahrendts is pastor of the First Methodist church. His collie was stolen on a night in March, put in a box car with household goods and shipped to Brainerd, Minn. By Clyde Shaffner, son of E. E. Shaffner.

Ahrendts, with the help of the police of the country, traced the dog and located it in Sioux City. He brought the dog back home and the arrest of Millard and Shaffner followed.
