

Nebraska Women Who Edit Bring Best Country Newspapers Credit to State

"Home Department" for sixteen years, and has many friends among the housewives of the state who read that page. She is fond of a base ball game, finds time to cook, crochet and keep house. She is a member of the Lincoln Woman's club and has been on the board of directors for eight years. Beautiful strings of beads are a hobby.

Miss Chattle Coleman of the Stromsburg Headlight and Mrs. Mary C. Hitchcock are chums at the meetings of the Nebraska Press association. Miss Coleman says too few women editors attend the associations, a statement in which she is correct. She has missed only one meeting in ten years, and has twice been elected corresponding secretary. Miss Coleman's favorite recreation is traveling, and after she attends the coming association in Omaha she expects to leave for a two months' sojourn on the Pacific coast. This will be her first long vacation in the twenty years since she has been editor of the Stromsburg Headlight. In that time she has had sixteen competitors, which is a joke if not an anecdote. Miss Coleman has accomplished for herself a reputation for being a progressive, up-to-date business woman. Yet she has all kinds of feminine hobbies, one of which is crocheting. She belongs to the Eastern Star and the Degree of Honor, is president of a club of young women, and is now arranging to organize a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Eunice Haskins of the Press, Stella, had her first experience in newspaper work writing the high school column for the Stella Press, when she took particular pride to see how varied and extensive were the items she could collect. Even now she recalls her secret pride when one week her items made over a column. She learned newspaper work by serving a genuine old-fashioned apprenticeship—beginning at the very bottom, after school days. Stella, the town where her brother, Clyde G. Haskins, and herself have the only paper, is one of the loveliest small towns in Nebraska. The streets and lawns, with their well trimmed trees, are nicely kept, and each and every one has a great deal of civic pride.

Mrs. Harry Vaughan gives her husband some assistance with the Guide Rock Signal, the paper that has as its motto "Late to bed and early to rise, work like a bee and advertise." She was a teacher and learned newspaper work in her husband's office. A girl of 8 and a boy of 2 years take much of her time, as does her home. She is particularly fond of exquisite china dishes and gives her spare time to doing fine needlework.

Mrs. Agnes Kay Keithley is the "silent partner" of her husband, J. K. Keithley, editor and publisher of the Syracuse Journal. Mrs. Keithley is fond of music, believes in "smiles" and is teaching her Sunday school class that the "world needs smiles." She keeps house, does her share of the newspaper work, is financier of the Knights and Ladies of Security, a member of the Syracuse Woman's club, of the Women's Christian Temperance union and of the Methodist church, a teacher in the Loyal Temperance union and in the Methodist Sunday school. The Keithleys own the Syracuse opera house and are among the few country editors who are land owners, owning land in Cheyenne county.

Mrs. Alice R. Armstrong is the sole owner, the editor and publisher of the Butte Gazette, of which she has had entire control for the past eight years.

She now has the field to herself, where formerly were three papers. Mrs. Armstrong and her two daughters keep house. Hazelle, the older, has been and is a great help to her mother in newspaper work. Mrs. Armstrong has been accused of being instrumental in the building of a new $30,000 school house, and also instrumental in the "good roads" movement in her part of the country. She served on the school board for two years, and is enthusiastic over the Boyd high school ball team, which she believes the best in Nebraska, and her belief is sustained by the fact that so far they have not known defeat and for the last three years have carried off the interstate pennant. Her favorite pastime is fishing or seeing these boys win a game of ball. Her friends tell her she is growing younger all the time, and as an aid to gain and retain youthfulness she is planning to attend the Nebraska Press association at Omaha in June.

All over the state there are many women who do more or less work in newspaper offices. Mrs. J. C. Volins, a teacher in her girlhood, does efficient work for her husband in the publication of the Auburn Herald. Mrs. O. M. Quackenbush asists her husband at times with the Wood River interests. Miss Genevieve Keim does considerable work for her brother, A. R. Keim, of the Fr's City Daily Journal. Mrs. Don Van Deussen of Craft is her husband's bookkeeper. Mrs. T. T. Corman is a regular compositor on her husband's paper, the Blair Democrat. Mrs. M. M. Warner helps her husband with the Lyons Mirror. Mrs. Anna H. Fellars has recently purchased the Table Rock Argus. Mrs. Ed Templin assists very materially in the production of the Shelton Clipper, and has charge of what is said to be the best system of subscription collections in the state. She is a daughter of the late Frank D. Reed and formerly helped her father in the office. Mrs. T. B. Hutchinson does special work on the Kearney Daily Times. Mrs. W. W. Maltman helps her husband as editor of the Broken Bow Republican. Mrs. C. H. Stockdale shares with her husband in the Elgin Review. Mrs. M. E. Huse is now helping to direct affairs at the Norfolk News office. Mrs. Frank Edgecombe is a talented woman who has been a wonderful assistant to her husband in the publication of the Geneva Signal.

IOWA VETS MEET IN JUNE

Grand Army Men to Hold Annual Encampment at Des Moines.

ANNIVERSARY OF VICKSBURG

It Will Be Just Fifty Years Since the Soldiers Were Fighting at the Siege of Vicksburg.

The thirty-ninth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, together with the semi-centennial home-coming of Iowa soldiers and the fiftieth anniversary of the Vicksburg campaign will all be jointly celebrated and participated in by thirty-two Iowa military organizations from June 29 to July 1 inclusive, at Des Moines.

Fifty years ago, when this nation was engaged in a great struggle against division and practically all of its resources in men and money were staked on the tremendous issue, these veterans shouldered arms, went to battle and did their share towards keeping the north and south into one union.

Iowa's regiments were always conspicuous for their unflinching courage in the actual stress of conflict. They fought at the battle of Wilson's creek; led the brilliant charge against Fort Donelson; were moved down in the Hornet's Nest at Shiloh; stood at the front in the siege at Lookout Mountain; were at Vicksburg from start to finish; did actual service at Pea Ridge, Corinth, Missionary Ridge, Resaca, Allatoona, Kennesaw, Atlanta, Nashville, and wound up following Sherman at Atlanta, to the sea.

Their contributing influence towards the re-establishment of national authority and a reunited country was considerable and gratitude and praise are due them. Since then time has crept slowly on and only a remnant now remains of those thousands who fought that the republic might endure. It is consequently a circumstance of deep and sincere feeling of comradeship that the Iowa soldiers, who yet answer life's roll call, gather every year and grasp each other's hands. It is a genuine pleasure for them to go over in reminiscence and anecdotes a march, a camp or a battle.

Somebody once said that there is nothing so productive of human happiness as to find an old friend or associate as welcome at one age as at another and truly this must be so with patriotic men, who, in the vigor of youth went through the vicissitudes of the bloody war, survived it, then met fifty years later and live over again in the earnest sympathy of the past while the evening shadows of life are falling. What a rest of peace and solemn joy must come to the heart of veterans who assemble thusly from year to year.

So it is that the home-coming of the Iowa veterans will be great in its significance and its memories.

The meeting this year will be held at a camp named in honor of General Sherman, while General Grenville M. Dodge, the only surviving army commander of the union forces, will be in charge.

City Would Recover on the Redman Bond

David P. Redman, aged 75 years, resident of Douglas county since 1854, was questioned in "discovery" proceedings in Judge Troup's court by Assistant City Attorney Lambert as to the disposal by him of property after he had signed a bond with Fred A. Nash, president of the Omaha Electric Light company, in 1902. The bond is alleged to be worth about $700 to the city.

Mr. Redman testified that he now has very little property, having deeded the greater part of his holdings in Douglas county to his children. He was questioned about the sale of ten acres of land in the north part of the city to a daughter in 1904. He said he received for it about $75 cash and $200 taxes, although he could not remember the exact amount. He declined to give an estimate as to its value.

Liability of Mr. Redman and Mr. Nash arose by reason of a suit for personal injuries on account of a defective sidewalk, brought by Lizzie Wright against the city, in which she recovered about $500. The city paid the judgment and sued Redman and Nash, who had signed the bond of the contractors who built the sidewalk. They secured judgment in the local courts and the case went to the supreme court. This judgment was affirmed and the city now is taking steps to recover the amount, increased to $700 by interest and expenses.

State Senator Mansfield, Mr. Redman's attorney, told the court his client was not to be blamed for depositing of his real estate, but that he doubtless had forgotten that he had signed the bond. It is assumed the city will take steps to recover from Nash, since the discovery proceedings disclosed but little property owned by Redman.

In a Light Mood. Frequently a bull in the market comes out here. Odd that it gives one a start to see one's friend.

Some men can't have a working time without a lot of unworking.

Sometimes instead of having an idea we have an idea that we had.

SURVIVING COMMANDER OF THE UNION FORCES AT REUNION.

GENERAL GRENVILLE M. DODGE.

Dodds to Present His Interurban Plans

W. J. Dodds will present some of his interurban railway plans to the executive committee of the Commercial club at Tuesday's meeting. He has been interested in a line between Omaha with St. Joseph, Mo., and the committee has invited him to tell of these plans.

W. R. Littell, president of the Commercial club of Tarkio, Mo., has asked if he can send a delegation to Omaha to talk over the proposition when present plans of the club materialize. He may be invited to come here in the near future.

The passenger transportation committee of the club has been working on some of these plans for interurbans along with its endeavors to secure a subway connecting the two Omaha depots.

One of the plans proposes to construct a line between Omaha and St. Joseph by way of Glaswood, Tabor, Sidney, Riverton and Hamburg, Ia., and Tarkio, Mo.

LOOKER CONFESSES TO THEFT OF CIGARS

G. W. Looker, 478 Saratoga street, has signed a confession to the chief of detectives' office that he entered a saloon at 1300 Cuming street Wednesday evening and carried off 1,000 cigars, which he later tried to dispose of to a candy merchant on North Sixteenth street.

In the confession Looker stated that he met a friend at a Douglas street pool hall and Frank told him they could get $20 and Frank told him they could get $20 and Frank told him they could get $20.

Those responsible for the publication are: Stanton Salisbury, editor; Marilla Case, assistant editor; Oldham Palalay, business manager; Finley Jenkins, assistant manager.

Little Surprises. "I don't want any afternoons out, mum; I'm satisfied if I can go to church Sunday evening."

"Harry, you've been an awful long time making up your mind to ask me to marry you!"

"Your bill, doctor, is only about half what I expected it would be."

"Bobby, I've kept you in after school to tell you you're a dear, good little boy. Won't you give your old teacher a kiss?"

"No, sir, I haven't anything in stock that's quite as good as what you are asking for; try the druggist across the street."—Chicago Tribune.

Quickest Relief Known For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: Dissolve two table-spoonfuls of Calceolite compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in it for all fifteen minutes.

It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calceolite compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.
