By MELLIFICIA. Monday, May 26, 1913.

FATE is, indeed, a queer thing, and when you can not account for peculiar coincidents, just blame fate or destiny—apropos, at the opening dinner-dance at the Country club, a recent bride and bride-to-be, who are very good friends, were invited to the same dinner party; each had a new gown—I should say costume—for the occasion. One young woman, who had just returned from the east and bought a chic little French creation of Neil rose crepe, elaborately draped. With this she wore a small black hat and corsage bouquet of sweet peas. At the same dinner party appeared her petite friend, who had just received her costume from one of the exclusiv modistes Saturday afternoon. It was designed after a French model, and was an exact duplicate of the gown which her friend was wearing. She also happened to wear a small black hat and corsage bouquet like her friend's. At first they were dismayed, and then they saw the humorous side.

Neil rose seemed to be the favorite color Saturday evening. Miss Stella Hamilton wore a beautiful costume of Neil rose crepe. A small French hat of Neil rose, with a plume of the same shade added to the costume.

Mrs. Carl F. Hartmann of Fort Omaha wore a Russian blouse of Neil rose brocaded tulle, with a costume of white and Bulgarian sash of white, and a Panama hat, trimmed in white.

Mrs. John L. Kennedy wore Neil rose crepe and chiffon, with black picture hat.

Neil rose was the shade of the costume worn by Miss Dorothy Stevens. It was in French design, with short draped coat, caught with a black velvet bow. A black hat was worn with this.

Mrs. Edwin T. Swobe wore a gown of white crepe, with deep Bulgarian border design, draped. The bodice was elaborately draped with Bohemian lace. She wore a hat of pink chiffon.

Mrs. Wilson Austin wore an imported French costume of Neil rose crepe, draped with a short coat, and a black hat.

Miss Dorothy Morgan, who was honor guest at one of the larger parties, was attractive in a summer gown of yellow chiffon, accordin pleated. Over the chiffon was draped a brocade of yellow and pale pink. She wore a corsage bouquet of pink and a hat of pale yellow.

Mrs. Gerrit Fort wore a summer gown of white, with Russian blouse of Copenhagen blue, and a white hat trimmed with pink and blue.

Mrs. Charles Stewart of Council Bluffs was stunning in a costume of black and white, with a small hat of black with immense aigrettes of white.

Mrs. Charles D. Beaton wore a dainty costume of pale pink, hand embroidered, voile, draped with shadow lace. With this she wore a black hat and corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

Miss Helen Davis, who will be one of the June brides, wore a dainty gown of yellow chiffon, with angel sleeves of shadow lace. A picture hat, trimmed with wide ruffling of tulle, was worn with this costume.

Mrs. Violet Hall of St. Louis wore a white lingerie gown, trimmed with pink, and her lingerie hat was also trimmed with pink.

Mrs. R. L. Huntley wore Alice blue crepe, draped with Bulgarian design, and bodice of lace.

Mrs. W. S. Poppleton was becomingly gowned in blue silk, with bodice of shadow lace and black and white hat.

Rarely have so many beautiful costumes been seen at the club, over 350 attending the opening Saturday evening, and nearly every feminine guest had a new costume.

St. Joseph Elopers Wed in Omaha

At Fort Omaha.

Major and Mrs. Carl F. Hartmann will hold their last "at home" for this season Tuesday afternoon at their quarters at the post. These informal teas were inaugurated last October and were among the enjoyable events of the winter. They closed the season Shrove Tuesday, when the bachelor officers of Fort Crook were the special guests. The at home were resumed three or four weeks ago, but now that the summer club season is here they will be discontinued until next fall and instead of the afternoon teas, there will be a military band concert one evening each week. It probably will be either Tuesday or Thursday evening and friends from town plan to motor to the post on concert evenings.

Will Herdman, formerly city attorney and now attorney for the gas company, lost his hat at the meeting of the council. He searched all over the council chamber for the hat. He stormed about and made everybody stand up, feeling sure some one was sitting on it. "None of you fellows seen it?" he asked excitedly. "None," said everybody in chorus.

In despair Herdman gave up the chase and started away without his hat. He passed John J. Mahoney near the door. Mahoney had heard him inquiring for his hat. "Whose hat is that under your arm?" asked Mahoney. "Somebody asked Herdman to come back and apologize for having aroused such a suspicion, but the attorney put on his hat and hid away."

RECONCILIATION FAILS TO HOLD GOOD IN THIS CASE. Mrs. Daniel W. Mickey tells a story of a reconciliation which failed to hold good in a reply to allegations made by her husband in her divorce suit in district court. She says that she was persuaded to try living with him again just a month after the filing of her original petition last fall, when she went to her room at night and found him sitting on the bed. His assertions that he would mend his ways, she says, led to a reconciliation a few days later, but she now asks that the divorce be granted.

Mrs. Mickey alleges that one evening when Merrill Spry of Clarinda, Ia., was calling on her daughter, and another young woman and Mrs. Mickey's son were present, her husband interrupted a pleasant conversation and drove the young persons out of the house. The plaintiff asserts that Mickey has wasted some of her property and asks that she be decreed the owner of the home at 22 North Thirtieth street.

SEPTEMBER MORN ON GRILL Commercial Club Members Debating on Its Propriety. HOSFORD SAYS RIDICULOUS Most Members Profess Ignorance as to the Picture—Doane Powell Says that It is All Right as Art. Yes, the members of the executive committee of the Commercial Club are innocent in regard to the picture, "September Morn" which is said to be in the Commercial Club rooms for the members to feast their eyes upon. "September Morn" is the picture that has caused some clergy-men of Omaha to break into print, because it was shown in some of the show windows. Well it is a picture that has some merit as far as symmetrical lines are concerned, but the clergyman have declared that it has moral demerits that outweigh any of its artistic values. "I don't know a thing about it—not a thing, I haven't heard a thing," said J. A. Sunderland, member of the executive committee. "Asked if the picture were going to be installed in the club rooms, G. E. Havestick said: "Not to my knowledge." "You know what the picture is, don't you?" he was asked. "I have heard of it. I have not seen it." "John L. McCague said: "No, we are not in the business of buying pictures. The Commercial club has other things to do. Kimball is authorized to make room for pictures if anyone offers to lend us a picture. I don't know a thing about that "September Morn" picture. And he laughed. When the matter of the proposed securing of this picture was suggested to W. D. Hosford he said, "It is the most ridiculous thing I have heard of in a long time. No, the matter has not been taken up in the executive committee, to my knowledge." C. W. Russell, "No, there is nothing to it," and he laughed also. "Somebody has been pulling a good joke." Herbert Daniels said he should worry whether they install or do not install this picture, for he is a single man. Doane Powell, president of the Omaha Art guild, says there is absolutely nothing suggestive about the picture; that it is refined and modest. "I can see nothing to the picture to which any could take exceptions," said Powell. At a meeting of the Water board yesterday Park Commissioner Hummel urged the completion of the work of filling in the forty-eight inch water main ditch at the north end, where it runs through Miller park. Hummel said many complaints about the delay were being made. Water Commissioner Howell said the contractor had not yet completed the testing of the pipe. Holes must be kept open every sixty feet in the ditch while the testing is being done. Recent rains have continually filled these holes. Upon motion of Howell the board rejected the bids of nine bidders to furnish the board crushed stone and Howell was authorized to buy the material at private sale. The water commissioner said it looked like a combine among the bidders. Key to the Situation—Bee Advertising.
