MAJORS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Mayor Hecor Advises that More Offices Be Created.

WEBSTER ADMITS CONTRACT

Water Board Attorney Makes Concession Involving Fight Between City and Organization—New Paving Going Down.

More offices to be created by the mayor and city council and more improvements to be made was the tenor of the city council's meeting last night. Mayor Hecor announced that he would not appoint a building inspector until an ordinance had been passed making the place worth while from a financial standpoint. A year ago an ordinance made the place worthless by reducing the building fees to be paid by the big builders of the city. Now the matter is to be rectified by putting the burden on the taxpayers-at-large.

Also there is to be a city electrician, according to the mayor, and a plumbing inspector. The last two places will receive some discussion before being created, but the exchange of aldermanic opinion at last night's meeting indicated that the citizens would not suffer from a dearth of inspectors during the present reign.

John M. Tanner was appointed to the park board for three years. Fred Hestling for two years and Joseph Kogutis reappointed for one year. A number of improvement districts in the west end of the city were announced.

Acknowledges Old Contract.
A communication from John L. Webster, attorney for the water board, indicated that the board had recognized the old contract between the city and the Omaha Water company, now defunct. In a bill submitted by the board the city was charged up with $9,465 for the last six months. The board acknowledged on account the receipt of $24.58 from the city and credited the city with an additional $1.20 as royalty, leaving a balance due of $7,796.41. The council took no action on the matter, but it is argued that the admission by the water board attorney that the board is looking under the old contract with the city will simplify the position of the city in the impending litigation between it and the water board.

New Paving Contract.
Attorneys for the city have found a way to get Q street repaved without going contrary to the injunction issued by the district court and now pending on appeal in the supreme court. The unpaved section which has caused traffic to suffer on one of the main thoroughfares of the city will in all probability be paved within the next month or two. It is understood that attorneys for the National Construction company have consented a waiver of all claims now maintained by the National Construction company under the contract in litigation. The area to be paved will be readvertised. It is said, and let under an entirely new contract.

The concession made by the paving company named is made for the benefit of the public which is compelled to carry heavy hauling over a section of Q street that is perilous to life and limb. The new agreement marks the breaking of the first bond that has bound the city for so long in the matter of a number of paving contracts held to be illegal.

Guilt of Bootlegging.
City Prosecutor Leigh and Police Judge James Callanan continued the work of Chief Briggs and the police force when under the direct control of the city prosecutor. Judge Callanan found Ben Kuslo guilty of bootlegging yesterday afternoon in the police court. Judge Callanan and Prosecutor Leigh refused to entertain the worn-out story told by Kuslo that he was merely dispensing liquor purchased in common by a number of men. Judge Callanan said that if the police would bring him the evidence necessary to convict he would rid the city of bootleggers.

Today at 9 o'clock the fire and police board will take up the hearing of the four saloonmen accused of breaking the liquor laws. Considerable interest attaches to the action of the board in these cases. The cases might be tried in police court, and if the defendants are found guilty revocation of their licenses becomes mandatory on the board. The board will be counseled by the legal department in the conduct of the cases.

Suspicious Actions of One Classroom Miller.
Classroom Miller, arrested at the West side school caused the arrest of the man yesterday. Miller is said to have made efforts to lure the child to a lonely shed. School children companions of the little girl followed the man and called the police. Probation Officer Paul Macauley warns all parents to caution their children in regard to strange men.

Sixty Denver High Students Expelled

DENVER, Colo., May 28.—Teller Ammons, son of Governor Elias M. Ammons of this state, and Miss Evelyn Arnold, daughter of Mayor Henry J. Arnold of Denver, with fifty-eight fellow students of the five high schools of this city, were expelled from school today by the order of Superintendent Smiley, who alleges they belong to secret societies.

CALLING NAMES NOT TO BE PRESUMED DAMAGING

Judge Estelle in district court has ruled that there is no presumption that a person is damaged by being called a harsh or profane name and sustained a motion to take from a jury the $20,000 damage suit of Harry D. Aron against Henry D. Neely. He held that the plaintiff to recover on ground of slander must show special damage and that Aron failed to do so.
Aron charged that Neely called him a violent name two years ago in the hearing of others, in a dispute which arose over a job.

Wild West Show Again Secured for Next Ak-Sar-Ben

Irwin Brothers' wild west show will be one of the attractions of the Ak-Sar-Ben fall festivities. A contract prepared by the Ak-Sar-Ben board of governors will be sent to the Irwins at Cheyenne for signing in a few days. The board and the show men contemplate staging a bigger exposition this fall than has yet been attempted. It probably will be given at Rourke park and may last throughout the entire carnival.

A new feature of the show this year will be night performances. The exposition grounds will be fitted out with lights so that as good a show can be staged in the evenings as in the afternoons. The Ak-Sar-Ben knights believe it will prove a great success. Last year the show was greatly hindered by rains. This fall there will be new importations of wild horses and steers to be tamed by the rough riders at each performance.

Managers for Irwin Brothers were in Omaha Saturday and Sunday and conferred with the Ak-Sar-Ben board. They went from here to Chicago, where some arrangements will be made with other show men for the booking of a horde of expert horsemen and rope throwers.

Prof. F. S. Currens led the exercises. He chose the lesson from the thirteenth chapter of the first epistle to the Corinthians. Prof. Walter N. Halsey made a short address. He spoke of the accomplishments of the first class, of the faithfulness that the members have shown, of the dreams that they had the opening day and the pleasure which comes to the faculty and board of trustees in graduating so large a number of those who took work the first year. Prof. Halsey and Prof. Currens, as well as the graduating class, were at the first convocation exercises.

The seniors will wear their caps and gowns in the buildings and on the campus from now until the graduating exercises, Thursday, June 5. Classroom work will close Wednesday. Examination will begin Thursday. Sunday the baccalaureate sermon will be preached at Kountze Memorial church by Rev. O. D. Bartzky. Class day exercises will be held the following Wednesday afternoon. In the evening the faculty will hold a reception for the class. Thursday will mark the real close of school. Friday the class will give a banquet at the Loyal hotel.

IOWA FARMERS PLANT CORN AT FIVE IN MORNING

General Agent Ut of the Rock Island has returned from Chicago and, following his daily custom, he arose at 5 o'clock. He is glad that he did so, for by so doing he proved to his own satisfaction that Iowa farmers are hustling to get their corn in the ground.
At 5 o'clock in the morning, says Mr. Ut, in Iowa it is only a little past daylight, but at that hour, in passing through the state, he saw farmers in every field planting corn. Not only were they there themselves, but with them they had their wives, boys and girls and the hired men. His judgment is that the major portion of the corn will be planted this week.
