

The Society Bee-Hive

By MELLIFLOIA. Thursday, June 5, 1913.

OMAHA women are becoming so accustomed to the daily showers recently that the rain no longer interferes with social affairs. The women dress appropriately for the occasion and raincoats are becoming a necessary accessory.

Wednesday afternoon at the Country club the mixed foursome two ball tournament was played in the rain and not a single entry stayed out of the tournament because of the showers. They donned sweaters and raincoats and a few carried umbrellas, but everyone played, nevertheless.

Saturday there will be an informal picnic given for a few children residing out on West Farnam street. In order to plan for either rain or sunshine the following clever invitation has been issued:

Come for a lark
To Hanscom park;
(June 7 is the date)
If it should pour,
Come to our door,
411 South Thirty-eighth.

At Happy Hollow.

Today at the Happy Hollow club occurred the last social function to be given in honor of the senior class of the University of Omaha, which will graduate tonight. The luncheon was given by the women of the faculty. The party was seated around the large, round table in the main dining room. The decorations were in lavender and white. A huge bouquet of lavender iris formed the centerpiece, about which were several smaller bouquets of iris. This was the last of three events for the outgoing class. Tuesday the juniors entertained at a party for the class at the home of Misses Katherine and Marilla Case. Last night the faculty held a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins.

The marriage lines were read by Dr. Oliver D. Belsky. Miss Emma Bowley, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Miss Bertha Wenninghoff, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mr. Harry Reschke of South Omaha was best man. Miss Henrietta Bowley was ring bearer, and carried the ring in a basket of swansons. Miss Dora Haarmann sang "For You Alone." Mr. Carl Haarmann and Mr. Cranworth Coleman acted as ushers. The bride wore white satin chamois, train, trimmed in princess lace and pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and swansons. Her toilet veil was held in place with a wreath of swansons. Her only jewel was a gold sapphire, set with a diamond and pearls, the gift of the groom. After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the home, 1218 South Twenty-seventh street, for the immediate friends and relatives.
