

The Society Bee-Hive

By MELLIFICIA. Wednesday, June 11, 1913.

MISS MARJORIE HOWLAND and her sister, Mrs. William Robert Wood, of this city, are spending a few weeks at the Waldorf Astoria, in New York. Count Mourik de Beaufort, writing for the New York American, gives the following interesting interview with the young Omaha society girl:

"Miss Marjorie Howland, a young society girl from Omaha, who, with her sister, Mrs. W. R. Wood, is stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, is shocked at the appearance of the average New York girls.

"Really," she said yesterday afternoon, "the unnatural appearance of the girls one sees on Fifth avenue and generally around this city is shocking. Girls of 15 and 16 years of age make liberal use of powder puff, rouge stick and lip salves, and the first days it was really difficult for me to see the difference between a common girl and a society girl.

"It seems to me a most deplorable sign. Why do they do it? Is it considered smart? Do they think it makes them better-looking? I have been in New York a week, and I haven't seen a real fresh young face since I have been here. This town is crazy—just downright crazy. That is the only expression I can find for it.

"A set of people that for the sake of 'society' will sacrifice the very best a nation can produce—youthful, healthy girls; a set that will allow its young girls to fill its engagement books with 'dates' for luncheons, teas, dinners, dances, suppers and theaters, is downright criminal, and in some way or another a stop should be put to it.

"A friend of mine with whom I was at college told me her average daily program. Here it is: Breakfast in bed anywhere between 9 and 12; up in time to dress for a luncheon party, usually only a 'hen' party, with the conversation limited to last night's dance, prospective weddings or engagements, the latest 'trique' play. After luncheon a tea, with dancing on-bridge. Home to dress for dinner, then a theater or dance, or both, and then to bed anywhere between 1 and 5 a. m. And the girl is 19, if you please."

Unique Shower for Bride.
Miss Katherine Krug, whose wedding to Charles Metz will take place Wednesday evening, has been the recipient of numerous showers of various kinds. This popular June bride has received so many beautiful gifts that her friends decided to have some miscellaneous and ridiculous showers instead of the usual useful articles, and these affairs were the cause of much merriment. One day there was a "miniature" shower, when the bride to be was given everything necessary for her home, but everything was in miniature and the hostess had forewarned the guests that they were not to pay over 25 cents for their gifts. These were all daintily wrapped in tissue paper and tied with ribbons or placed in attractive boxes—there were, bright colored glass lamps, imitation brass and silver candlesticks, gaudy powder boxes and hat pin holders.

Another day a "ridiculous" shower was given and the bride received colored eye glasses with some poetry stating that "love was blind"; another gift was a shoestring shopping bag on which was an admission that the shopping bag would be useful on her wedding trip while in New York.

One of the affairs that afforded the most fun was a postal card shower Monday afternoon. Each guest brought Miss Krug a postal card appropriate for a bride to send back to her friends at home while on her honeymoon.

In affluence contrast are the beautiful wedding gifts. There are rich Oriental rugs, a dinner service in silver, including the larger dishes and platters, silver after-dinner coffee set and liquor set and a complete chest of silver.

Fijis Dine.
Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sage entertained at dinner Monday for their son, Earl Sage, who has just finished his first year of medicine at the University of Nebraska. Places were set for twelve members of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, including:

Bunco-Weeden Wedding.
A pretty June wedding was celebrated Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weeden, when Miss Rose Lovett and Mr. Charles Bunco were united in marriage. Rev. J. Scott Eberole officiated and "Oh, Promise Me" was sung

Larsen-Clark Wedding.

Sacred Heart church was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday morning, when Miss Josephine Clark became the bride of John C. Larsen, Rev. P. J. Judge officiating. The nuptial high mass was sung by the Sacred Heart choir. The altar was banked with palms and cut flowers.

The bride's entire trousseau was embroidered in Japan and her wedding gown was of crepe de meteor, richly embroidered and trimmed with pearls and Chantilly lace. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley, and she wore an heirloom, an old bracelet of gold set with diamonds. Miss Julia Coll was maid of honor and wore Nell rose chapeau, draped train with trimmings of rhinestones and shadow lace. She wore a white cigarette in her hair and carried red roses. H. E. Tombrink was best man and the ushers were Frank Coll and Arthur O'Leary. Miss Teresa Peters of Fort Dodge was among the out-of-town guests.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Loyal. Mr. and Mrs. Larsen left for a trip through the west and will be at home after June 25 at 336 North Twenty-eighth street.

Coffey-Nields Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth E. Nields, daughter of Mrs. A. L. Nields, and Mr. Raymond T. Coffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Coffey, sr., of Greenfield, Ia., took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's church. Rev. David Neillan officiating. Miss Alice Delions played the Lohengrin bridal chorus and the Mendelssohn wedding march.

The bride wore a gown of white chameuse, with draped skirt, train, trimmed with deep pointed lace. The bodice was chameuse draped with lace and pearl trimmings. She wore a long tulle veil, held in place by orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her only jewel was a diamond sunburst, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. John Jamison, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a lingerie gown with touches of pink mesaline. With this a dainty hat of pink chiffon, with pink rose and black velvet trimmings. Her bouquet was of pink roses. Charles F. McLaughlin was best man. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nields, when covers were placed for thirty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffey have gone east on a wedding trip and will visit at Chicago and Notre Dame, Ind., and will be at home after July 15 at 902 South Thirty-eighth avenue. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Coffey, sr., of Greenfield, Ia., parents; Mr. Theodore Coffey, jr., of Cumberland, Ia., brother of the groom, and Mrs. Coffey, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Irwin of Greenfield, Ia.

Michaelsen May Ask for Investigation

City Electrician Michaelsen, who was ousted Tuesday, may ask for an investigation before the whole city commission, although the commissioners are generally opposed to a hearing, their position being voiced by Mayor Dahlman, who said: "If Commissioner Withnell couldn't get along with him and fired him, it's up to Withnell and Michaelsen. The spirit of the commission form law is against the whole commission overriding the wishes of the head of an department."

Michaelsen said he wanted some explanation, why he hadn't the least idea as to why he was fired. He called on Withnell yesterday, but the two did not hold a conference.

Night Prowler Has Frightened North End

Mrs. Anna Sullivan, 1306 North Seventeenth street, reports to the police that a burglar failed the partially opened window of her bedroom, taking a dress and her husband's trousers from a chair, and after going through the pockets and securing nothing left them on the ground below the opening. From there he journeyed another window, which happened to be that of her daughter's room. He was just raising it when the girl awoke, screamed and frightened him away. Other people in the neighborhood report like visitations from a night prowler, but nothing seems to have been stolen.

Plymouth Church Suing on Policy

Plymouth Congregational church, whose building was destroyed by the tornado six hours after the expiration of an insurance policy, has brought suit in district court against the Reliance Insurance company of Philadelphia for $2,000, the face of the policy. It alleges that the insurance company failed to notify it of the expiration of the policy.
