

The Society Bee-Hive

By MELLIFICIA. Thursday, June 12, 1913.

JUNE was indeed an appropriate month for the wedding of Miss Katherine Krug, whose marriage to Charles Metz was celebrated Wednesday evening. The bride is especially fond of roses and rarely has there been so many rosebuds used in decoration at any social function. Throughout the large home of the bride there were myriads of roses, and as the wedding party entered the drawing room, where the ceremony was to take place, there was a large wicker bell filled with rose petals; as the wedding party entered there was a shower of the petals, and preceding the bride there was a little flower girl scattering rose petals. Over the bridal party there was a canopy of ferns and rosebuds, so there were roses everywhere.

At the automobile parade Ak-Sar-Ben week Miss Krug won the first prize for electric, when her car was a bower of pink roses, and at her wedding all of her attendants were in pink and carried pink roses.

A shower of rose petals was planned by the friends of the bride and groom, but the friends were disappointed, for the young couple, assisted by the groom's father, evaded them. Leaving by a side door, they motored to the Lane Cut-Off, where they boarded the train.

Mr. and Mrs. Metz will take a two months' eastern trip to Boston and the White mountains.

CADETS TASTING ARMY LIFE

Camp McHugh is Given Rules for the Competitive Drill.

REGULAR OFFICERS ASSISTING

Are Teaching the Boys the Particular Points in Military Department and Necessity of Close Observation.

CAMP M' HUGH, Missouri Valley, Ia., June 12.—The company captains at Omaha High school cadet encampment have received their competitive commands from Captain Stritzinger and are drilling their companies hard, preparatory to the competitive drill to be held next Wednesday at Fort Omaha. Many commands, given last year, have been omitted purposely this year. They were not only hard, but impractical and useless.

There will be twenty commands with ten points on each, making 200 per cent for a perfect score. The drill is harder this year since all commands, but one, are company movements, demanding straight lines and regularity of step. Constant turnings and obliques make these especially hard.

Each regimental parade at camp is a competition for the companies. Each company endeavors to have the best line when they pass the reviewing officers. At the following parade they announce the company who had the best line. So far a company in each battalion has received the following honors:

- First battalion, Company B, Captain Ward Smith.
- Second battalion, Company G, Captain Wayne Selby.
- Third battalion, Company C, Captain Harry Gidson.

Each of these companies have a splendid chance of winning one of the first three places at camp.

Cadets are getting a real taste of military life. Captain Stritzinger has constantly endeavored to give the high school boys the practical part of military discipline and for the furthering of his principals of teaching practical tactics and self-control, he has had several Fort Omaha officers brought to the encampment.

Lieutenant Teet has been appointed Captain Stritzinger's assistant and he has taken direct charge of the morning drills. The cadets receive his advice studiously, since all are striving to surpass the others in the final competitive drill at Fort Omaha.

Lieutenant Teet also is encouraging the

YEISER'S PARDON OPINION

ATTRACTS MUCH ATTENTION

A great deal of interest has been created throughout the state by the opinion published by John O. Yeiser, member of the pardon board, on the Prince case. The article was published in the Commoner. Mr. Yeiser is opposed to capital punishment and lets the world know about it.

Gov. G. W. P. Hunt of Arizona has just written him asking whether he could get the opinion in pamphlet form. "Not believing in capital punishment," said the governor in his letter, "I have relieved

BOAT OPERATORS MUST

TAKE OUT LICENSES

All persons operating motor boats on the Missouri river, Lake Manawa, and Carter lake, and carrying passengers for hire, are required to have a government operator's license. The United States local steamboat inspectors, Rees V. Downs, and James W. Kidney, from St. Louis, will be at the office of the surveyor of customs, room 33, Federal building, on Thursday, June 13, at 10 o'clock.

All applicants for operator's license should be at the custom house at that time to meet the inspectors and obtain their license. Licenses are not necessary for motor boats which do not carry passengers for hire.

POSTOFFICE WILL HAVE

SCALES FOR WEIGHING COAL

A wagon scale will be installed in the driveway at the northeast corner of the post office building on which coal for the heating of the building will be weighed in the future. Authority to ask for bids has been given. It is considered more convenient and cheaper for the government to have its own scales at the building where the coal may be weighed than to send a man to the coal yards every time coal is delivered to inspect the weighing of the coal.
