VACATION MEANS NEW BUYIN

Everyone Has to Be Well Equipped for Its Enjoyment.

DIFFERENT THINGS FOR VARIOUS

Some Demand Trunks, Others Must Have Clothing and Such, While Still Others Have Many Luxuries Listed.

When the head of the family or any member of it settles down to the planning of a vacation there is a deal of work, for many new things must be bought. The trunk of last year will not do for this trip, perhaps. It was not satisfactory a year ago. The bathing suit, if you are going to the beach, must be of the latest pattern. And, indeed, there are many little things to be made over and to be bought.

It takes some time, too, to decide where the vacation shall be spent, and the folders and illustrated paper sent out by the railroads are gone over thoroughly. There are just a 100 things to do in order to be prepared for vacation, and really it is some work to get ready for this grand occasion, which comes, for most persons, only once a year.

New Hats Must Come. The new hat for the watering point must be chic, yet not expensive. Omaha has just such hats, as it has all the necessities for the vacation.

Some persons will spend their summer holidays on a motorcycle.

Probably the first item that should engage the attention of the prospective motorcycle vacation is the headlight. The lamp need not be a searchlight in power, but above all things it should be dependable. Not long ago a veteran motorcycle tourist bumped his machine over miles of railroad ties without extinguishing his headlight. He had ventured upon a cross-cut through unknown country; hence the railroad ties and the extraordinary test of the lamp. There are varying opinions as to the relative desirability of gas and electric lighting systems, but the motorcycle vacationist who is worthy of his clan will equip his mount with both. The extra outlay is small, the upkeep negligible and the resultant satisfaction worth ten times its cost. Only one system will be used at a time, of course, the other being held in reserve. There should also be a reliable tail-lamp; first, because many state regulations require that the license plate attached to the rear mudguard be illuminated, and secondly, for the reason that caution dictates a signal for drivers approaching from the rear at night. The tail-lamp also may be fed with either gas or electric current.

Speedometer Necessary.

Another necessary fitment is a reliable speedometer, which may be obtained to show trip and season mileage also. This instrument will be of invaluable assistance in following maps, and, incidentally, in backing up the tourist's claims as to his vacation achievements when he is recounting his story of the open road for the boys back in town. A strictly luggage carrier should next receive the attention of the recreation seeker, for no matter how simple the rider's tastes may be he will feel the need of a suitcase or similar receptacle if he is going to be on the road more than a day or two.

Special care should be exercised by the motorcycle vacationist in the selection of luggage, for he is more than likely to load his machine with pound after pound of material that will prove worse than useless in travel.

One kit is intended for comparatively short trips, ranging from 100 to 200 or 300 miles, and is made up as follows: Strong tire pump, coaster wrench, sturdy monkey wrench (six to seven inches long), small wrench (four-inch size), special open-end wrench, small cold chisel, small hammer (with ball peen), belt punch (if the machine is V-belt driven); half-round file, sheet of oil emery paper, extra belt fasteners, screwdriver (with round handle), extra chain links, knife, flat-nosed pliers, extra nuts and washers, a short piece of insulated wire, cotton waste, a small soldering outfit, roll of tire tape and a tire repair kit.
