HYMENEAL.

AUBURN, Neb., June H.—(Special.)— Miss May Rascow of Auburn was mar-ried in Chicago this week to William Roache of Chicago. The marriage was solemnized at a Catholic church, and Knights of the twentieth century was what Rev. C. A. Finch of Topeka, Kan., lubbed the members of the South Omaha ligh school graduating class last night at the annual commencement exercises. Thirty-eight seniors received their diplomas from the hands of E. R. Leigh, president of the Board of Education, folowing the address of the evening.

Rev. Mr. Finch took for his subject the iden knighthood and the virtues of that rder as exemplified in Tennyson's story f the round table and King Arthur. The peaker pictured the olden knight in bold ines and colored the outlines with redections from the great names of history. Fashions of things the speaker said pass, but essentially men are the same and the knights of old have become the knights of today braver and nobler, hough fashioned anew.

The speaker defined the modern knight an embodied conscience fighting the black fees, hate and avarice. He said that each member of the class should honor his own word as his God's, like Arthur, and his conscience as his king. He bade them to be obedient to God and the laws and to have the own convictions. Breadth of view and a wide sympathy he declared were necessary for the ultimate realization of the best that is modern knighthood.

He stigmatized the slanderer and the destroyer of reputations and cited the opposition of the best citizens to vellow journalism, which sets up for a news standard the rule "give the people what they want." Often he said men were opposed to the admission of yellow journalism into their homes and for a greater reason he said the scandal onger in human edition was to be tabooed. He closed by urging the graduates to live for ideals other than wealth and commercial greatness.

Prior to Dr. Finch's address, Superin endent N. M. Graham spoke of the trend of education in South Omaha and urged a great development of the industral school idea. He said it would not pay to install manual training departments in each school, but that the same results would be acquired through the perfection of the present ward center idea now in yogue at West Side, Hawthorne, Brown Park and Lincoln schools. Above all he urged the necessity of an industrial department in the high school, where the more advanced youth could actually serve their apprenticeship at the different trades. He commended the projected action of the board, which is of the previous two years was not to be thought of this year. Mayor Hoctor said the booster meeting would be postponed until later. -

Word About the Bluff. Mayor Hoctor is about to pass the buck back to Water Commissioner Howell whose official organ recently boasted the bluff of Hoctor and his council had been called at a recent meeting of the Water board. A special conference of the city council was held last night at the mayor's office for the purpose of devising some way of settling the controversy between the board and South Omaha relative to the contract of the city with the former water company.

It was the judgment of Mayor Hoctor and the council that proceedings should begin forthwith, but under the advice of the legal department represented by Assistant City Attorney S. L. Winters it was finally concluded to postpone action until after the new water bill had gone into effect July 1. Assistant City Attorney Winters told the mayor and councli that any proceedings begun now would have to be renewed after the new law had gone into effect.

Frisco Detective Given Five Years

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 -- A sentence of five years in San Quentin penitentiary was imposed today on Frank Esols, a police officer and former detective of this city, for having sided Michael Galle, a convicted bunco man, in fleecing John Folds, a farmer, out of $900. Efforts to lighten Esola's sentence to three years in return for pleas of guilty by the seven other officers indicted on similar charges fell through and the sen will go on trial jointly. The manimum sentence is ten years. Evidence furnished by Gallo and others of the bunco gang, known as the "forty thieves," led to the indictment of officers in its work and having received part of the proceeds of its operations. The district attorney aserted today that he had evidence from the same source tending to show that an organised gang of pickpockets had enjoyed similar pro-
