IOWA STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION BUSILY AT WORK UPON ROADS

Policy Outlined and Purpose of Hawkeye Legislature Vindicated by Result.

BIGGEST ADVANCE IN YEARS

Professional Road Builders Are Put to Rout.

GREAT SAVING BY PROCESS

Foundation Laid for Permanent Work When Public Ready.

ALL WORKING IN HARMONY

People All Over State of Iowa Taking Interest in Work and Co-operating with Public Officials.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, June 22.—(Special.)—It is probable that already a great deal more has been done for road roads in Iowa under the law enacted at the last session of the legislature than in any ten years before.

The State Highway commission consists of Dean Marston of the engineering department of the college and Messrs. Holden and Beard, business men. It has as secretary Thomas MacDonell, who had been in a similar position with the old highway commission for a number of years.

Surveying Roads.

The country roads are being surveyed and profiled. Order is enforced in every department and all chance for waste of effort and for graft is being eliminated.

At the same time the township trustees have their responsibilities so reduced that they are better able to engage in the repair work and the roads are being better dragged and kept up than in the past.

The entire work of the State Highway commission looks to permanent roads. The commission will see to it that the main traveled roads of every county of the state are placed in condition so that all work done shall be of a permanent nature.

The State Board of Control has provided that in the new cell house at Fort Madison there will be built for the first time specially arranged "solitary cells" for the keeping of prisoners who will not obey the rules of the prison.

M'BRIEN SAYS PAID LOVE

Note Artist Makes Him Candidate for Ananias Club.

SURPRISED AT HIS ACTIONS

Lecture Expert as Much Ashamed of Lincoln's Ex-Mayor as It is Possible for Latter to Be Ashamed of Him.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, June 22.—(Special.)—The boast of Don L. Love that he was too shrewd to get caught in the chautauque lecture game as worked by his fellow reformer, J. L. McBrien, has evidently increased the latter for he comes back with the direct charge that Love has been qualifying for the Ananias club and that he not only signed one of the day-as-you-enter commission votes, but had part of his money returned. The McBrien letter, dated at Valentine declares: "I have waited a week for Don to tell the truth about this matter. His failure to do so does me great injustice and is marble-hearted ingratitude. He gave me a not for $125. I sold it to a Lincoln bank. I secured one lecture for Don at North Platte which netted him $25. During the campaign last fall Don said if I could pay him $100, he would credit me with the $25 received at North Platte and that this would settle our lecture contract in full.

"I accepted his proposition and paid him in three installments, two $25 payments and one of $50. I hold his receipts therefore, written and signed in his own handwriting. Don L. Love was paid in full as early as November, 1912. If he is entitled to be taken off the job list, I believe Dr. Farnham will say that Don has earned the presidency of the Ananias club. I am sure Dr. Farnham would not deny having given me a note under the same circumstances as I have stated herein.

"I have told the gospel truth and have the documents in my possession to prove every word in this letter. I have stood by Don Love in his victory and in his defeat. I thought he was a man of courage and with some backbone, but the manner in which he has conducted himself in this matter for fear of a little ridicule makes me as much ashamed of him as it is possible for him to be ashamed of me.

Subscribers Must Get Papers on Time, is Postal Manifesto

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Instructions went forth today from Postmaster General Daniel C. Rogers to all postmasters directing them to handle daily newspapers sent to subscribers through the mails with the utmost dispatch possible after disposition of first-class matter.

New Water Main at Florence Bursts and Old is Used

A connection in the new forty-eight-inch water main from Omaha to Florence broke Saturday night, due to a flaw, and water is being pumped through the old thirty-six-inch main today. It will be two or three days before the main can be repaired.

The explosion following the break ripped a great hole in the earth and flooded part of Florence. The break occurred near Fourth and State streets, Florence, and was due to a loose rivet in a thirty-six-inch pipe connection with the big main or, according to Water Commissioner Howell, a flaw in the big main itself.

National Banks to Loan on Real Estate by Bill

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, June 22.—(Special Telegram.)—The newly introduced currency bill contains a proposition allowing national banks to loan money on real estate that is meeting with the approval of most of the men in congress who come from farming states. Bills for this purpose have been before congress for a long time, most of them introduced by western men.

The present provision limits loans of this character to nine months and allows national banks to loan an aggregate sum on real estate equal to 25 per cent of their capital and surplus and 50 per cent of their time deposits. Only banks not in reserve or central reserve cities are allowed the privilege.

GIRL HIT BY PUNCHING BAG; JOHNSON MUST PAY $2,500

CHICAGO, June 22.—Because Miss Ruth Mehl was hit in the face with a punching bag, Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, must pay her $2,500 a jury decided in the circuit court today. The young woman was struck by the bag which Johnson accidentally knocked from its fastenings in an exhibition at a theater last year. She sued for $25,000.

STOCKMEN WIN PLACE ON COUNTY FAIR LIST

This is Upshot of Warm Session of Directors of County Society.

INSURGENTS GROW POINTED

Ask Where All the Money Has Been

DIRECTOR VERY ELUSIVE

Members of Board Was Unable to Locate Them.

FINALLY FIX PLACE OF FAIR

Decide to Hold County Meeting with Ak-Sar-Ben Festival, but Want Grounds of Own Later.

Insurgency in the ranks of the Douglas County Agricultural society won an easy victory at the meeting of the board of directors in the court house Saturday but there were times when hints which almost amounted to charges concerning alleged high handed proceedings of the directors in the past were freely uttered. The successful uprising yesterday took the form of a demand by the stock breeders that they be given opportunity to compete for premiums and that the prizes be large enough to be worth while. The upshot of the meeting was that it was agreed that $1,500 be set aside for premiums for live stock and that the latter be given adequate space at the fair to be held in connection with the Ak-Sar-Ben festival.

It was agreed by every speaker that the association should as soon as possible have a fair ground of its own so that every industry of Douglas county could be represented at the fairs.

The live stock men and the directors of the association who almost all were of the "agricultural products faction," were seated a little distance from each other. The climax of the half serious, half humorous attacks on the methods of the board came when Dr. H. Pritchard of Florence of the stock faction asked Secretary J. H. McCardie: "If you're going to get $5,000 from the legislature, and you allow $1,500 for premiums on live stock, what are you going to do with the rest of it?"

"We're going to put it in our pockets," replied Mr. McCardie. "We're going to lose our home anyway so let us have it this time."

Live Stock Men Roused.

Charles Grau of Bennington "inspired" more persistently and successfully than anyone else. He pointed his finger at the directors and said: "You have violated the law every year since 1907 when you ceased giving premiums on live stock. The law gives you no choice, but plainly says for what you shall offer premiums. We are here to insist on a live stock premium list and one which does not offer a larger prize for half a dozen ears of corn than for a $1,000 animal."

"We have told you what we want, so now go ahead with your business. We will tell whether we like what you do. We might consider that as a threat," replied Mr. McCardie.

Charles Witte of Elkhorn remarked that stockmen had refused to bring their stock onto the pavements of the city and that this fact and the fact that the association had been short of money accounted for the omission of a live stock premium list.

Mr. Grau, who formerly was a member of the board of directors and who said today that at that time he was always in the minority, replied:

"You were short of money, but for years you paid $1,000 every year to Ak-Sar-Ben, though you don't do it any more. Just smoke that."

Directors Hard to Locate.

Henry Glesman of Omaha remarked that he had always attended the meetings of the board of directors and who couldn't find them and said that once they moved back and forth between Omaha and Bennington.

"I don't doubt whether it is legal to hold annual meetings of the board in a saloon," he said without explaining what he meant.

A J. Love of Omaha made a plea that the past be forgotten and that a new start be made by the society and he was the only speaker that got any applause.

It was agreed that a committee previously named by the live stock men should meet a committee of three from the directors, composed of William Lonergan, George Deirks and J. H. Taylor and that they should go over the tentative live stock premium list which had been criticized as unfair. This committee soon decided that the offer to set aside $1,500 for the live stock men be accepted and that the state fair premiums and classes be duplicated. The $1,500, however, will be divided pro rata among the winners so that the prizes may be more or less than their face value. It was expected that they would be largely in excess of $1,000. This demand was made on the ground that cheap automobiles were now commercial necessities.

Advocates of the lower duty claim the government would lose little revenue as the high priced machines pay most of the tariff.

Harmony was predicted by the democratic leaders today, after the caucus broke up. None of the bitterly fought sections of the bill had been reached, however, and no effort has been made thus far to assert the binding authority of the party caucus upon individual senators.

Senator Kern, the party leader, said the caucus would bind all its members upon all features of the "debate." The bill had made pledges to their constituents or felt that they could not conscientiously abide by the action of the majority.

Caucus consideration of the bill will be resumed at 10 o'clock Monday morning and it is believed the measure will be ready for presentation to the senate Thursday or Friday.

CAUCUS TALKS AUTO TARIFF

Advocates of Lower Rates Assert Machines Business Need.

LEADERS PREDICT HARMONY

None of the Bitterly Fought Sections of Underwood Measure, However, Has Been Reached in Discussion.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff revision bill, as agreed upon by the democrats of the senate committee, went through a full day's session of the senate democratic caucus today with practically no change, and with harmonious support for most of the alterations the finance committee members had made in the original Underwood bill.

The tariff duties on chemicals, oils and paints; on earthenware and glassware, and on two-thirds of the articles comprised in the metal schedule had been disposed of when the caucus adjourned late this afternoon.

The finance committee completed all work on the income tax and administrative features of the tariff bill late tonight. The revised draft will be sent to the printers tomorrow and will be submitted to the democratic caucus on Monday. The basis of $3,000 as the minimum income upon which an unmarried man must pay a tax was retained by the committee.

Criticism of the tariff bill in today's party conference was limited to a few specific rates, and a half dozen items were sent back to the finance committee for further investigation and report. This committee report putting cement on the free list was sustained. The proposed tariff on flaming arc light carbons, on stained glass and on field glasses, optical and surgical instruments and photographic lenses came in for criticism and were referred back to the democrats of the finance committee.

Cheap automobiles as necessities of business and farming life were the subject of much of the "debate." The finance committee democrats had already cut the rates of the Underwood bill from 45 per cent ad valorem to 25 per cent on motor cars valued at less than $1,500. Several democratic senators urged a further cut and recommended that the tariff be only 10 or 15 per cent on machines valued at less than $1,000. This demand was made on the ground that cheap automobiles were now commercial necessities.

Dispute Not Settled. The caucus did not settle the automobile controversy, but asked Mr. Simmons and his colleagues on the finance committee to investigate further.

Advocates of the lower duty claim the government would lose little revenue as the high priced machines pay most of the tariff.

Harmony was predicted by the democratic leaders today, after the caucus broke up. None of the bitterly fought sections of the bill had been reached, however, and no effort has been made thus far to assert the binding authority of the party caucus upon individual senators.

Senator Kern, the party leader, said the caucus would bind all its members upon all features of the "debate." The bill had made pledges to their constituents or felt that they could not conscientiously abide by the action of the majority.

WILSON LOSES HIS WAY ON AUTOMOBILE JOURNEY

BALTIMORE, Md., June 22.—President Wilson and members of his family arrived at Brookland, country home of Captain Isaac E. Emerson, this afternoon for the wedding of Frank H. McCadd, son of the secretary of the treasury, and Ethel Preston McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Emerson.

The marriage took place indoors because of an electrical storm and rain.

On the return from Brookland the president and his party lost their way a few miles north of Baltimore.

"I'll tow you in," volunteered Frank Pinerose of Catonsville, who was motoring along with his family. He got the president's car on the right road.

ONE FLAG EMBLEM OF ALL

FORMER FOE IS NOW A COMRADE

Men Who Are Gathering Will Bivouac on the Same Grounds Where Once They Shed the Blood of One Another.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 22.—The hills of Gettysburg, where the armies of Meade and Lee pitched their tents fifty years ago, are flecked today with canvas haberdasheries of the tented city which will soon arise on the battlefield. The army of civil war veterans from the north and the south—40,000 of them—are coming, some few in thread-worn uniforms and all without their muskets, to hold a jubilee reunion on the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. Some of the scouts are already here; the advance guard will bivouac on the field within a week; the rank and file will follow them not more than forty-eight hours later.

Every star of the forty-eight in the American flag is expected to have here its own quota of veterans. They will come as the guests of the national government, and of their respective states and territories, which jointly will spend more than a million dollars for their entertainment and comfort. To receive them the government and the state of Pennsylvania have made elaborate plans. One detail alone provides for furnishing the veterans more than 800,000 meals.

Pennsylvania has appropriated $15,000 as its share of the expense. Congress has appropriated $15,000 to defray the expense of the government's participation, and named a commission to help carry out the plans. Every state and territory also accepted the general invitation to participate and nearly all of them appropriated money to transport veterans and commissions.

Great Camp Ready. The big camp is pitched on that part of the battlefield which lies southwest of Gettysburg. On nearly 300 acres of contiguous ground, 7,000 tents and more are being up under the supervision of the War Department. The camp lies partly on the scene of the first day's fighting and is not far from High Water Mark, where Pickett's famous charge shattered against the union lines.

Five thousand tents have been erected for the exclusive use of the veterans. The camp has been laid out like a city. Each street and each tent has a number, so it will be easy for any veteran to look up a former comrade or foe. In the center of the camp will be the headquarters of the chief quartermaster. The veterans will be encamped according to states.

Although each tent is designed to accommodate twelve men, it has been planned to assign only eight veterans to each, so as to make them as comfortable as possible. Each veteran will have a separate cot, blanket and a mess kit, which will contain a plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon and will become his personal property when he breaks camp. Each tent also will have two hand basins, a water bucket, candles and two lanterns. With the preparation of meals the veterans will have nothing to do. These will be wholesome and substantial and will be served at the ends of the company streets.

Only Veterans Entertained. "Only veterans of the civil war may be provided food, shelter and entertainment within the great camp around the battlefield," reads the announcement of the commission. "Therefore, no woman or child or any man not a veteran will be allowed to enter."

Should Advise Policyholders. Mr. Sills urged the insurance men to train themselves to be the advisors of policyholders and condemned the practice of some insurance writers of scheming to determine which kind of a policy nets them the greatest commission.

About seventy-five men attended the banquet. William H. Smith and Victor Rosewater were each called upon to say a few words when Mr. Sills had concluded. Mr. Smith as the local insurance man, and Mr. Rosewater as a local newspaper man. Both talked briefly.

Mr. Rosewater emphasized also the value of the educational campaign that was going on in the insurance business as well as in the other fields, and commended it.

At the conclusion of the program the men voted in favor of San Francisco as the meeting place for the national association in 1915.

Keep the Babies Cool and Cosy

Babies require particular care during the hot weather, not only in the matter of clothing, but in food as well, as every intelligent mother knows.

It frequently happens, however, that mothers are at a loss where to buy babies' clothing, because picking out anything for baby is always a momentous choice.

The best thing for a young mother to do when in doubt is to follow the advertisements in The Bee.

These announcements usually tell her all about clothes for the little ones, from the tot in the cradle to the little sun-browned scampener on the highways.

Very often an advertisement contains the news of the sale of precisely what you require at a price that is a pleasant surprise.

Some mothers make a habit of cutting out all advertisements relating to baby clothes and then visiting certain stores when they are ready to purchase.

When you see something you need advertised by a reputable house at an attractive price you are safe in buying at once.
