Pleasant. V. V. EYES. By Henry Snyder Harrison. 200 Pp. $1.25. Houghton Mifflin company. A portrayal of society, pure and simple. The newly rich Heths, the father a money-making machine, tender towards his own, but callous in regard to his employees; his wife, who has created socially "the house of Heth," and "Cally," their beautiful and soulless child, are striking in their lifelikeness. The impetuous Conners, and the little factory girl, burning with the desire to be a lady; the lame student doctor, with his confiding eyes, who compels you by his boundless faith in humanity, to be good, because he thinks you so, are all true to type. Mr. Harrison makes it impossible to doubt his people. His English is a delight, and the book quite fulfills the promise of his earlier works.

PATCHWORK COMEDY. By Humphrey Jordan. 288 Pp. $1.25. G. P. Putnam's Sons. The stakes are the winning of a woman's love and the safeguarding of an honored name, threatened by the exposure of an unpublished scandal. The craft and resourcefulness of the accomplished blackmailer entail a prolonged period of anxiety for the hero and for those to whom he is attached, and the result is a story in which there is continual suspense.

THE VOICE OF THE HEART. By Margaret Blake. 48 Pp. $1.25. G. W. Dillingham company. The story tells how a lonely young man in London has his sympathy touched by a 19-year-old street waltz, takes her to his bachelor flat, adopts her, and finds much comfort and stimulus in her adoring affection. Through her and the habit people have of falling in love with her at first sight many other desirable things come to him, especially the opportunity of winning the woman of whose love he had despaired.

THE UPPER CRUST. By Charles Sherman. 410 Pp. $1.25. Bobbs-Merrill company. The romance of a masterful young millionaire and his mother's winsome housekeeper. His unfortunate incognito and her efforts to keep up a deception concerning her own identity get them both into hot water. Before they know it they are "up to their ears" in love, out beyond the ropes in a whirling pool of adventure. The water is deep and the bottom rocky, and only by the greatest effort do they reach the shore, minus their disguises, revealing themselves as they really are—Algeron Van Rensselaer Todd and simple, every day Molly O'Toole.

THE UNFORGIVING OFFENDER. By John Reed Scott. 288 Pp. $1.25. J. B. Lippincott company. When the young and beautiful Mrs. Loraine leaves her husband and elopes with another man, she believes that her desperate adventure will bring her happiness. Her disillusion comes quickly, but with rare courage she decides to return among her old friends to straighten out the tangle of her life. How she is made the subject of a scandalous plot, and how eventually through the devotion of a mainly American fellow, she wins a deserved happiness, form only the bare outline of the swiftly moving plot.

THE MASTER OF THE HOUSE. By Edward Marshall. $1.25. G. W. Dillingham company. The story of the successful play by Edgar James, which embodies a message to both husbands and wives. It tells how a determined man, of dominating personality and strong will, leaves a faithful wife for another woman, gifted with the wiles that tempt men's souls, and his subsequent disillusionment.

WALLINGFORD IN HIS PRIME. By George Randolph Chester. 424 Pp. $1.25. Bobbs-Merrill company. In this story we see Wallingford, an usual, but Wallingford, wiler, defter and more skilled in the art of business legislation than ever before. Blackie Daw, Toad Jessup, the faithful, freckled little samlin, also. But besides them Mr. Chester introduces some new characters who are fully as original and amusing as any he ever created in his earlier stories. Blackie's actress wife, Violet; Melissa, who would become an esthetic dancer just because she wants to, not because she is "cut out" for that sort of thing; and Prof. Flopsie, truly a personality, will worthy of standing beside the Toad and Blackie in the ranks of Wallingford's cohorts.

LITTLE THANK-YOU. By Mrs. T. P. O'Connor. 288 Pp. $1.25. G. P. Putnam's Sons. A warm-hearted, sunny little story, the scenes of which are laid among the pastures of Virginia and the crowded communities of New England. It is kindly and winning, fresh and unaffected, and is bound to make an appeal.

Miscellaneous. THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT OF NATIONS. By George B. Curtis. Three volumes. $1.50. Published by George B. Curtis, Birmingham. In 1886 Mr. Curtis published a volume which he has now elaborated into three, the whole forming a monument to a cause which it would be begging the question to declare lost. In the author's opinion the protectionists have not yet begun to fight, and the best days of that system of trade are all ahead. It may be so, and yet his own treatise shows that free trade and protection have altered with good and bad times, and practically in England and the United States. Volume I outlines the world's commercial history to 1860. Then follow accounts of commerce in England and the continental nations separately. The rise and fall of both free trade and protection in England receive most attention, as they deserve, and as is most interesting to ourselves, with our derivation and close present connections.

In volume II the author gives an account of British trade experience down to modern times with much particularity, and begins his narrative devoted particularly to the United States. In volume III he brings this down to 1913. In connection of the volumes in the appropriate connections there are perhaps the most elaborate tables of statistics to be found in one place, and certainly the best collection covering the several nations together, in a manner to enable comparison of one with the other.

REVOLUTION. By Gardner W. Allen. 2 Vols. $1. Houghton-Mifflin company. In these two volumes, Dr. Allen follows the course of naval events in our revolutionary war, year by year, from the outbreak of hostilities in 1775 till the end of the long struggle. Full details are given in regard to the most notable and important fights, both in our own and in European waters, and there are careful accounts of such expeditions as the one to New Providence early in the war, and the one to the Penobscot river in 1779. An interesting chapter is devoted to the subject of naval prisoners, and another to the battles on Lake Champlain. The author's frequent quotations from official reports and other formal documents, as well as from letters written by participants in the engagements, add to the air of authenticity that pervades the work, and also give some dramatic touches. There are many excellent illustrations and maps, and a valuable appendix rounds out the second volume.

FOOD AND FLAVOR. By Henry T. Fink. 261 Pp. $1. The Century company. Here is a book that, while not a cook book, will probably do more than any collection of recipes, no matter how choice, to bring about a state of gastronomic excellence among Americans, and to teach the world and his wife the importance of good food temptingly prepared. The book proves that flavor is not only essential to the enjoyment of food, but that it adds immensely to its digestibility and healthfulness.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT. By Oscar R. Straus. 271 Pp. $1. The Century company. A collection of diplomatic and historical addresses, which contributes proper understanding of the spirit, growth and tendency of American life—its domestic and foreign problems—and will prove of live interest.

THE CHILDREN IN THE SHADOW. By Ernest K. Coulter. 277 Pp. $1.25. McBride Nast & Co. Mr. Coulter was clerk of the largest children's court in the world and founder of the big brother movement. His experience gives him authority and this book is a stirring appeal for the neglected citizen of tomorrow.

OUT WITH THE BIRDS. By Hamilton M. Leasing. 249 Pp. $1.25. Outing Publishing company. The author goes armed, but not with a gun. He brings home his game at the end of the day, but it is not a jumbled heap of blood-stained feathers. The weapon is a camera, and the game is a faithful and sometimes exasperating dry plate and so he has written this book—a chronicle of personal happenings: of high hopes and small adventures; a living picture of the busy, musical life that goes in the air, among the treetops, and on the lakes and streams by which he spends his days.

IN AN ELEPHANT CORRAL. By Robert H. Hazen. 180 Pp. $1. The Neale Publishing company. A series of narratives of the way native African coral and kill marauding elephants; of the difficulties of capturing gorillas alive, or even dead; of the hippopotamus as a fighter; of the superstitions of the natives, and their ideas of soul-life.

OUR OWN WEATHER. By Edwin C. Martin. 274 Pp. $1.25. Harper & Bros. A simple account of how the weather comes about; of its changes of aspect from season to season; of the signs which announce its activity, with scientific explanations of winds, storms, floods, cyclones, droughts, blizzards, hot-waves, etc.

HOW TO OBTAIN CITIZENSHIP. By Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr. 283 Pp. $1.25. Sully & Kleinfelder. A book for the foreigner in English, Italian, Yiddish, German and French with plain and simple directions for the alien who would become a citizen of the United States.

Nothing to Do but to Go by Meter Readings. Thomas Hamon, owning five cottages in the vicinity of Twenty-eighth and Leavenworth streets, has been against the Water board bus saw and has come out considerably deflated. Mr. Hamon's meter readings for the month, from December 17 of last year to January 11 of the present year, showed up a charge of 28 cents; from January 11 to February 14, $1.47, and from February 14 to March 12, 94 cents.

About this time it is apparent that the water company concluded that the Hamon meter was not an industrious one, for a new one was installed. The new meter was of the variety the Water board sought, for from March 12 to April 25, it recorded $2.58 worth of water, regardless of the fact that Hamon's house was vacant a portion of the time during March.

Hamon sought relief at the office of the water company, but failed to secure it, being told that he would have to stand by the meter readings.

Heat Victims Seem to Be Recovering. Five men, who were overcome by the heat Thursday afternoon, are at present recovering as well as can be expected from their illness. H. W. Norman, 1408 Elm street, who fell at Fourteenth and Webster streets last evening, is resting easily at his home, as is John Sanquist, aged 55 years, 304 Nebraska avenue. Charles Ledgerwood, who was overcome at Twenty-sixth and Farnam streets, is doing nicely at the Wise Memorial, as is John Andrew McCune, aged 73 years, and John Wallace, both of whom are being cared for at St. Joseph's hospital. Gerard Griswold, 493 Capitol avenue, was overcome by the heat while riding on a street car and the conductor helped him to his home.

It is true that women more frequently suffer from kidney trouble than men. It is also true they suffer more intensely, owing to their more sensitive organism. Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advertised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." They are tonic in action, quick to results. Cold Storage Refrigerators Special easy payments and prices on the refrigerator that received highest prize at the St. Louis Exposition in competition with 350 other leading makes as the best refrigerator made in America. It is better than ever today. Any size up to $20, only $3 down and $2 per month, 75 cents per week, or a cut price for cash. The Cold Storage Refrigerator is distinctly a hot weather refrigerator. Nothing spoils in it in hot weather. It keeps 40-cent ice down to 40 cents per 100 pounds. And don't make it cost 50 to 60 cents per 100 pounds after you have bought it at 40 cents per 100 pounds like others do. The Cold Storage Refrigerator is scientifically insulated. Its white enamel will not scale off. It has that patent glass trap. It keeps itself clean and sanitary. It is a real pleasure to every housewife that uses it. Mr. Voral, 4624 N. 26th, who bought a 300-pound ice capacity size of us a couple of seasons ago, said to us last week: I can fill my Cold Storage Refrigerator full of milk and keep it sweet as long as I want to right now in this hot weather. That is something my neighbors can't do in their other makes. They all admit that the Cold Storage Refrigerator is a hot weather refrigerator, and their next one will be a Cold Storage Refrigerator.
